PRETTY WIFE SAYS IT IS PLOT TO FORCE HER OUT

SHE IS BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE AND THE PROCEEDINGS DEVELOPE THE FACT THAT SHE WAS CAST OUT OF THE HOME BY HER HUSBAND'S FATHER. SENSATIONAL ALLEGATIONS ARE MADE BUT MRS. PERFIDITY OF MAN AND INCONSTANCY OF WOMAN

(BY DOROTHY DIX.)
Undoubtedly blighted affections are, to some degree, responsible for the large crop of old bachelors and old maidens. The perfidy of man and the inconstancy of woman do not, however, cut as large a figure in the decline of matrimony as is sentimentally supposed. Also many men and women remain single, but few because they are cherishing the memories of some lost love of their youth.
There are, of course, some men and women who love only once, and having broken the albatross of their devotion at the feet of the one who was the only woman or man in the world for them, have no more to give. Forever more they are bankrupt in soul and sentiment. Their wealth was only in one coin, and if they have spent it without getting any return, they must go through life empty handed and empty hearted, unloved, unloving, unlovely.
LOVE'S WOUNDS WILL HEAL.
Fortunately, with the majority of mankind and womankind, love is a feverish sense and a more diffuse passion, and although we all believe we are mortally wounded when Cupid's dart goes astray, we soon find out that the wound has healed over very nicely, and by first intention, as surgeons say, and that we are quite as good as ever. This ability to heal is proof we were never of this ability to love over and over again, and the widows who have died their tears for their first husbands on the verge of their second mates, and the divorcees who are hurrying to be off with the old love so that they may be on with the new.
Note the slavish devotion that a once inconsolable widower bestows upon his own young wife. Indeed, look into your own experience, and recall the fervent gratitude for dangers escaped that surged up in you as you met, after years of separation, some lost love of other days. There was a time, dear sir, when you were sweet and flower-faced and eighteen, and you cursed the world and felt that life was a curse, and that just because the wisely forsaken you for a drummer with a black mustache and a diamond ring. But yesterday you saw her again. The fat mother of many children, querulously nagging the drummer, who has gotten hump shouldered, poor man, and like John Wesley, you inwardly exclaimed

AT ALTAR GIRL REFUSES TO WED POLISH COUNT

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 23.—At St. Stanislaus Church Miss Angela Pawlow, daughter of a merchant, absolutely refused to go on with the marriage ceremony that was to unite her to Basil Minski, who says he is a Polish count and the owner of an estate in Russia.
The marriage had been set for 3 o'clock. The church was crowded with friends and relatives. The bridegroom had answered in exultant "Yes" to the usual question, and the bride, in a white silk wedding dress with long veil and wedding bouquet,

WINS WIFE BY GIVING HER SPANKING

With Shingle Young Administered Punishment to Sweet-Heart Before Rival Man Plays Tatoo Beneath Girl's Skirts

Girl Eats Standing Up for a Week But Loves Him

SEATTLE, Nov. 23.—"I give and demand a woman's consent to be your wife is to catch her some time when she is in the company of one of your rivals and then give her a sound spanking. Not an ordinary, flat-handed spanking, but one of the real, old-fashioned, mother-when-you-are-in-a-troubling sort, the kind that ran-away-from-school sort, the kind that happened when you turned up your little sister's skirts and then went after her with the hot side of a shingle until it stung so badly that poor little sis' screams became clogged in her throat on the way out. This scheme, according to Joe Rogers of Blakesburg, Ia., will work beautifully any time it is tried. Joe tried it himself, and that gives him the right to speak with authority.
Joe did not resort to the spanking process until every other method known to lovers had failed. For years and years he had kept company with pretty Minnie Belland, a retired farmer's daughter who lived near him.
But Minnie kept putting him off. Joe declared that she even trifled with him. Joe had a trusting horse and a low-wheeled buggy, and with these to help he managed to keep alive the romance. Then, just as Minnie was on the point of surrender, a young fellow from Pittsburg visited Blakesburg in the interest of a mining company that had bought some coal lands in the vicinity. In less than a week he had won Minnie's acquaintance, and after that the coal lands had no interest for him.
But fortune favored Joe this time. He discovered quite unintentionally that the Pittsburg young man was a gambler, and that he spent most of his time, when not at Minnie's company, with a bunch of rough young men who were given to drink.
He even went so far as to tell Minnie's father that, but the old gentleman reckoned that Minnie was old enough to look out for herself, and he, like his daughter, intimated in no uncertain terms that perhaps the statements concerning the Pittsburg were not wholly free from prejudice.
JOE DECIDES ON MASTER STROKE.
That was enough. Joe determined to take things by the horns and to teach Minnie, and her father as well, a lesson they would soon forget.
And so, one evening when it was just turning dusk and Joe walked out toward the edge of town and waited. Presently he saw a buggy approaching, and in the buggy were Minnie and her rival. Joe waited until they were opposite and then, without ceremony of any kind, he walked into the middle of the road, stepped the horse and ordered the Pittsburg to get out. There was a look of determination on his face that brought about a hosty compliance with his order and then, when her escort was on the ground, Joe ordered Minnie out also.
The young woman refused to stir. With her cheeks flushed and her eyes blazing she told Joe that he could go straight to a region that is rarely mentioned in polite society.
"Well," said Joe, "I'll have to come up there and get you, then."
And he did. With one leap he was in the buggy, and in less than the twinkling of an eye he had whirled a shingle from under his coat, seized Minnie around the waist, and in no time at all he had bent double over the back of the seat. And then—why go into the horrible details? While the young man from Pittsburg stood there speechless with amazement Joe lifted Minnie's skirts and played therewith a game of tatoo. And he didn't let up when his sweetheart bent double. Chokingly she begged him to quit, and a little later she was sobbing and gasping so that she couldn't summon voice enough to beg him to stop.
At the conclusion of the tatoo Joe climbed out of the buggy, slipped the Pittsburg's face with the flat side of his bare hand, and stalked off down the road towards town.
Minnie was in a rage. A rage is no

To Banish Fear 'Just Fall'

Physical Instructor Says Women Can Easily Rid Themselves of All Feeling of Timidity

(By W. Ward Beam.)
The great mistake that most people make is in thinking muscular tissue means strength.
"It does not," Strength—the real power—lies behind that. It lies in something that has little or nothing to do with muscular tissue and that you call determination or self-confidence as you will. I think it is a mixture of the two.
"Watch a puny little woman in hysteria. Try to hold her. Where does her almost superhuman power come from? Consider a woman who climbs down a lightning rod from the third or fourth floor, as many of them have done. Where does the marvelous power come from? It is not in their muscular tissues. It must be something beyond, and above that.
"It is simply the complete harmony of mind and body.
"In applying my principles to myself I hadn't the slightest difficulty. Then I tried experimenting with a girl's class, and there I discovered the secret that stood in the way of my teaching others, and that was lack of self-confidence by the pupils.
"So I began to be a trainer of self-confidence. My class of girls soon forgot fear and doubt. I made them do

Princess Bonaparte Seeking to Procure THE NEW FIGURE

The Princess Marie Bonaparte, who some day will be queen of Greece, has been taking physical culture exercises in an endeavor to acquire the new figure. The princess, her intimate friends say, worried over the fact that she is a little too stout for her height and a little too short for her waist measure. She has turned to the new models, those of the famous French dressmakers, are made slightly short in the waist line. They are almost without bias and the skirt is long and clinging. Others are made princess. But there must be no hips in either case, as hips decidedly are out of style.
But what is a poor princess to do, in case she happens to have hips? Rich she may be in money but poor in style. If she is short and too stout and if her hips are too prominent she is not pretty and no amount of French dressmaking can make her look nice.
WOMEN WANT TO BE MADE OVER.
The French reduction specialists are besieged with applicants to make them over into the fashionable form. And to the physical culture classes come all varieties of women, rich and poor alike, high and low in degree—all longing to be made over into the new shape. Of course the process is expensive, and so it happens that all are turned away except the few that can pay the price. And the Princess Marie Bonaparte is one of the fortunate few who can pay.
The process of making over the figure is largely one of deep breathing, for it has been found that deep breathing will reduce the hips almost equal to bending. There are few that can take the bending motions without injury to the health. But when it comes to deep breathing nearly all can stand the ordeal.
The woman who is going into deep breathing should ascertain if her heart is normal. If she is weak in the heart, and if her valves are in poor condition, it is wisest to let deep breathing alone or to go at it in a moderate way, at the average woman, of normal health, will find it an easy way to get thin.

GIRL MUST WED WITHIN TWO YEARS OR LOSE HER FATHER'S FORTUNE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The best way to vial all my property, both real and personal, except as hereinafter provided, to my beloved daughter, Mary Josephine McDonough, for her to have and to hold for her own benefit, her heirs and assigns forever, if within two years she becomes the lawful wife of a capable and industrious man.
This is the specific provision of the last will and testament of Thomas Henry McDonough, late of 623 1/2 Pike street, filed in the probate court yesterday afternoon.
Miss Mary Josephine McDonough, who is the chief beneficiary under the will, left Seattle two weeks ago and at present is believed to be in San Francisco. Her definite address is not known to friends here.
Until two weeks ago Miss McDonough was an employee of the Hotel Lincoln.
The testament of McDonough recites that in the event that Mary Josephine McDonough fails to meet the requests he makes the property, valued at $500,000, is to be held in trust until all his children arrive at maturity and is then to be equally divided among Mary Josephine, aged 22 years, George, 18 years old; Martin, Joseph, 14 years old, and Stephen, 10 years old.
The testator further directs that to his daughters, Isabelle and Kate, there shall be given $1 each, as he has provided for them amply and fully during the natural period of his lifetime.
It is shown that there is more than

MARRIED WRONG TWIN NOW WANTS DIVORCE

CLEVELAND.—It is evident from his petition for divorce that Gennaro Marchesi, of this city, did not know the first name of the twin he sought as his wife. When Marchesi decided to take a wife he talked it over with some recent arrivals from Italy and they told him of a beautiful girl in their home town who would jump at a chance to come to America as the promised bride of some worthy countryman. Marchesi could not learn the girl's full name, but he wrote and received an answer. After several weeks of courtship his proposal of marriage was accepted and Marchesi sent her money to come to America.
When she arrived there were two of her. It seems they were twins, and as the letters had been addressed without surnames they accepted the proposal as common property. Marchesi could not marry both, so he selected Terresina after long deliberation. The slighted one was jealous and trouble began early and lasted until Marchesi fled suit for divorce.

What Her Pastor Told Her About Rouge

A good story comes from Philadelphia with reference to a young society matron who sought the advice of her pastor touching a peculiarly personal and delicate matter of conscience.
"I would like to have your opinion, sir," said she, "as to whether or not the use of rouge is wrong."
The diplomatic clergyman, smiled. "Some," said he, "hold that there is nothing pernicious in a bit of rouge; others, on the contrary, regard the use of this cosmetic as most reprehensible. To me it seems best to steer a middle course. You might, therefore, use rouge on one cheek only."

Says Parents Responsible For Wayward Children

Dr. Britche has written a little book in which he tells a number of home truths that for some people will not be very pleasant. "Some mislead parents," he says, "are divorced from each other by the courts as an act of cathartic justice. Ought not the children to have in some degree a similar privilege as to parents? Now and then a child is divorced from its parents by going to the reform school, but usually this only happens when its misdeeds run against the interests of the public outside of his own family. Parents and children, he thinks, are equally at fault for this unhappy state of affairs in many homes of mislead parents and children, but the parents are more responsible."

She Objects to Having Her New Clothes Copied

Why does the normal woman hate to see a girl resembling her own on any- one's head, or to go into her neigh- bor's drawing-room and discover it con- tains the facsimiles of the curtains or the table-cloth she has left behind at home? The wearer of any specially charming article of attire feels herself exceedingly ill-used if the friend who has admired it buys another like it, and the very closest affection does not justify such a breach of the unwritten laws that govern the sex. Yet imitation is un- doubtedly "the sincerest flattery" if it is the only form of it thoroughly distasteful to the original. Indeed, a man shows no desire for a dress different from that of his fellows. Indeed, his main idea is to be as like everyone else as possible. Woman loves to be unique. She looks upon her clothes as an important part of her personality, and she considers it al- most as wicked to dare to reproduce them as to steal them outright.

OLDEST PEDDLER IN CHICAGO IS A WOMAN

The oldest peddler in Chicago is Mrs. Louisa Morowski. She is 76 years old, the age at which most people prefer to resign and let the son and heir manage the firm. But Mrs. Louisa Morowski does her hit-and-miss work. She sells alcestrings and pencils—shoestrings, two pairs for a nickel, pencils, five cents each. She carries her stock in a small basket and sells her wares any place on Wabash avenue from Jackson to Monroe. She is on steps or in doorways and does a peddling business. Peddling is a pros- perous business, and Mrs. Louisa Morowski is a prosperous peddler. She earns from a dollar to a dollar and a half a day—sometimes more. "She's all right, too," says a newsboy who also transacts business on Wabash avenue. "She can take care of herself. She makes money; a whole lot more than I do."

Though Money Is Tight, Any Fairer in the "400" Must Pay $4,000 A YEAR TO DRESS A LITTLE GIRL

Besides This, Child Must Entertain, and Luncheon Party Often Costs $1,000.

"Pity the poor millionaire!" is the cry of the "400" of New York City today, for with stocks shrinking, money scarce and high-priced, and all the things that make the way of the money-getter and money- spender easy falling him, he is hard put to it to meet the expenses that a career in New York society makes absolutely imperative.

It has already been shown that it costs

the most beautiful embroideries, chiffon, dainty laces and even broadcloths. Ten of these dresses will cost $1155. Six hats generally suffice for this little girl, and these will cost anywhere from $150 to $300 for the six. Four or five wraps, exclusive of furs, are enough for her season, and will cost about $130 more. In addition to these dresses there are shoes, stockings and gloves by the dozens of pairs. The lingerie of the little daughter of the "400" is of the simplest and finest French embroideries, usually costing from $6 to $12 a set. She must always be provided with a dozen sets at the least calculation. A luncheon given recently by a little Fifth avenue girl was most unique and charming. It was called a bird luncheon. The decorations were all in birds, artifi- cial and real, and the menu was mainly birds served in various styles. The table was laid for twenty, with a fine linen cloth with lace inserts of birds. Across the top of the table were four large birds in the lace design. In the center was a miniature woodland scene under a fine wire netting. This stood about two and a half feet high, and flying in and out of its tiny trees and slipping from its running brooks were real live hum- ming birds and Java sparrows, canaries and even small red birds. To the top of the netting was chained a huge green par- rot that chattered to the children throughout the meal, to their never-end- ing delight. Everywhere about the room were hung bird cages with singing canaries, and the room was arranged to carry out the woodland idea, ferns and smilax and branches of trees being used as decora- tions. At each child's place was a tiny gift cage, with a canary inside, to be carried away as a souvenir. Here is the menu of this delightful luncheon:

- MENU.
- Lead chicken bouillon in eggshell cups.
 - Olives. Caviar. Pickled walnuts.
 - Potted squash, mayonnaise.
 - Shoestring potatoes. Reed birds.
 - Green peas.
 - Fruit salad. Sautéed almonds.
 - Ice cream frozen in form of hen and little chickens.
 - Candy in the form of eggs.
 - Fruits. Nuts. Raisins.
 - Chocolate glace.
- At the close of the luncheon each child was given a candy box in the form of a bird. Doves, chickens, even eagles were represented. These boxes were filled with chocolate candy eggs. This luncheon cost something more than $1000. The tablecloth alone was $150 the centerpiece $200 and other decorations $75. The souvenir bird cages and birds cost $200 and the decorator charged $150 for his labor. In a year each little girl of the "400" is expected to entertain several times in some such elaborate way.

80,000 Women Workers Pour Into Chicago Streets Every Morning

Woman's invasion of the occupations in this country scores more heavily in the "loop district" of Chicago than in any other congested city center on the continent. Of the 17,000 workers who flood the downtown district of the city each morn- ing, six days in the week, 80,000 of these workers are women. Forty-five per cent of these workers are women. In this center of commercialism, which houses only a minute fraction of the manufac- turing craftsmen of a manufacturing city, almost every other person encountered in the downtown place of business is a woman. CROWDED BY WOMEN. Crowding into street cars and railroad cars in the morning between 7 and 9 o'clock on the way to his office, the man who works downtown is crowded by wa- men. Coming down town in the elevators of his office building for luncheon and for a mouth of air in the streets, he is elbowed by women. Hurrying home again be- tween the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, women crowd him again. Everywhere he turns he finds the woman worker as intent upon "getting there" as he is, yet slower and occupying more room! EIGHTY THOUSAND WOMEN. Nowhere else in the world is there a district of less than a square mile so pro- vided with women in such enormous pro- portion to the men who find their occupa- tions and livelihood in the same territory. Within this territory there is scarcely a profession, trade or calling to which men are devoted which has not its woman rep- resentative. They are owners, employ- ers, managers, assistants—from the whole thing down to the small girl who answers to the call of "Cash." Moreover, they must come down to work in the morning and they must get home at night—80,000 of them, as compared to the 35,000 men who must do the same thing. This flooding and ebbing of human tides in the loop district morning and evening is one of the most striking of all Chicago's manifestations of its titanic forces.

Should Middle-Aged People Keep Supple So They May Be Able to Dance Gracefully?

The excellent old theory has been brought forward again that dancing is good for the health, and the remark has been made that it should not be given up as it is a joy people when they attain middle age. The truth is, to enjoy dan- cing and to derive benefit from it one needs to be in training, and it is asking too much of human nature to expect that an ordinary man, taking the ordi- nary amount of exercise and weighed with the ordinary extra ounces of "too- solid-flesh," can hop about for a whole evening without feeling unpleasant sym- ptoms. Various exercises, such as skipping and badminton and shuttlecock, have been recommended for keeping this trouble- some body in order; but as yet nothing has been discovered compatible with the dignity which is the prerogative of mid- dle life as bloom is the prerogative of youth. To see elderly ladies and gen- tlemen hopping about like lambs or children would draw a smile from even the best- fringed butler, and to know one's self ridiculous is a sensation so painful that the worst throes of dyspepsia seem as nothing.

Women Become Writers of Popular Songs

Woman has invaded another field in which man thought he was supreme. She has become a writer of popular songs and instrumental numbers, and many of the most useful and affecting ditties of the day are written by women. More than that, there is at least one woman who composes the musical numbers for popular a-m-e-d-i-e-s, and her latest score has made one of the biggest hits of the season. Miss Anna Caldwell of New York city wrote eighteen of the twenty-one songs in "The Top of the World," which has set all Broadway to humming and whistling. The New York critics presented for years, and that there is not a bosome note in any one of the songs. One critic advises that Shubert is to give a special matinee of the place to the writers of popular songs and their publishers, so that they can see what a mere woman can do.

Fined for Using Heraldic Device

MISS GERTRUDE KINGSTON, A NOTED ENGLISH ACTRESS, HAS BEEN HEAVILY FINED AT A LON- DON COURT FOR USING ARMORIAL BEARINGS WITHOUT LICENSE. THIS WAS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE STRICT LAWS REGULATING THE USE OF HERALDIC DEVICES ON CARRIAGES, PLATES, STATIONERY AND EVEN ON BUTTONS. THE RE- VENUÉ AUTHORITIES DEMAND A LI- CENSE FEE FOR EVERY COAT OF ARMS OR CREST DISPLAYED, AND THOSE WHO TRY TO EVADE THE LAW ARE LIABLE TO A PENALTY OF $100. THIS SUM THE ENGLISH ACTRESS IS CONDEMNED TO PAY.

CLAIM KING ANCESTORS NOT RIGHTFULLY OBTAINED

Woman Barred From Order of Crown Now Refuses To Pay For Having Genealogy Looked Up.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—That it is expensive to search for kings in one's ancestry is the experience of Mrs. Thomasene Rigby Woolsey, wife of Minthorne Woolsey, a banker of this city, formerly of Selma, Ala., against whom damages of $500 were given by a jury in the city court yesterday. Charles H. Brownings, a professional genealogist, found the kings after a search of several years, he said. He did it because Mrs. Woolsey wanted to get into the Order of the Crown, and it is necessary to have a king in one's ancestry to become a mem- ber. Brownings asserted that she hap- pened to discover that the wife of Tho- mas, Dudley, governor of Massachusetts in 1847, was a sure enough descendant of Alfred the Great and a few others of the same kind. Lo and behold, Mrs. Woolsey was a sure enough de- scendant from Dorothy York. Then Brownings sent a supplemental report showing the York lineage, and assured Mrs. Woolsey that she had at least four kings in her lineage. At the same time he sent a bill for $500. (Miss Farnsworth, founder of the Or- der of the Crown, however, claimed that the kings had not been right- fully obtained, and Mrs. Woolsey wasn't admitted to the order.) Then Mrs. Woolsey refused to pay.

Woman Detective Floors Shoplifter

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Just because Miss May Murray, a detective in a de- partment store, at Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue, stopped Robert Mulligan and told him he had not paid for a handbag he carried out of the place, he swung the satchel on her neck. Miss Murray resisted the attack in a scien- tific manner, and the finish saw Mulligan prostrate on the sidewalk with the pretty and petite detective sitting on him. Mulligan was taken to the Tenderloin Station, where he said he was a clerk, and lived at No. 128 East Twenty-sixth street. He was held on a charge of lar- ceny. The young woman alleges that she saw Mulligan calmly take his pick from a counter containing handbags, suit cases and the like, and start out. Shoppers who witnessed the encounter thought it was a case of wife beating her husband, and forming a ring gave the little detective every encouragement.

Woman Bakes 70 Miles of Pies

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 23.—"Concen- trate your mind on the oven," says Miss Teresa McDonald in explaining the won- ders of her art in pastry cooking. She is just celebrating her golden anniversary as a cook and owns up to the proud rec- ord of 84,000 pies baked in forty years at one restaurant, besides scores of other dainties. If all her pies were laid out in a row they reach would seventy miles. She has made 2,000,000 doughnuts in twenty-seven years and 728,400 puddings.

STARCHED COLLAR CAUSES PAIN TO THE BABY

A mother has discovered that the baby often cries because it is worried with the bit of lace about the neck of its little dress. The delicate skin of the baby was almost tortured before she discovered that it was the prickly lace that made the trouble. For the baby's home dresses she has now only plain stitching around the neck and sees to it that not a drop of starch is put in the little garment.

ABODE OF THE STORK FOUND TO BE IN THE ETERNAL CITY

ROME, Nov. 23.—Italy's capital has been lauded for many different virtues, but it never has been noticed as a pre- ventive of race suicide. From time im- memorial the Romans have been pro- lific, but that was supposed to be a characteristic inherent in the race and not indigenous to the city itself. Late events would seem to show this to be a mistake. Proofs of this assertion are almost too numerous to mention. QUEEN MOTHER OF FOUR. The queen of Italy, a Montenegrin, for the first five years of her married life lived out of Rome and was child- less. She then came to the capital, and soon had a child, the Princess Yolanda, and with the birth of her latest baby this week has had four children within six years. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Griscom, the Amer- ican ambassador and his wife, came to Rome, and last spring after ten child- less years of matrimony, became the parents of a bouncing boy. The Princess Rospioglio, nee Bronson, of New York, has now, after four years of marriage, given birth to a child. Mrs. Hitt, wife of the first secretary of the American embassy, has not been long in Rome, and although she is not just a bride is expecting a visit by the stork before long. CONSUL'S WIFE IS HAPPY. More convincing still there is Mrs. Hector de Castro, wife of the Amer- ican consul general, who before the year is out will have paid her tribute to the potency of Rome in this respect, after having been a wife eighteen years.

HYPNOTISM?

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—Did some person wield hypnotic influence over pretty 15-year-old Marion Atwell and cause her to leave her home in Allegheny disguised in boys' clothing? This is the question which is puzzling Allegheny detectives and parents of the girl. She left home yesterday morning, after writing two letters accusing men of having some mysterious power over her which caused her to do their bidding. At midnight the girl was discovered in a house in Pittsburg, where she had rented a room. She still wore boys' clothing. "My poor little girl," said her mother, between sobs. "I know that some persons has influenced her in some way and that she was hypnotized. Several weeks ago she told me she had been followed by a strange man but I paid no atten- tion to her except to warn her against chance acquaintances. She replied that she knew he followed her, and that he constantly kept a watch upon her move- ments."

BEAUTIFUL RUSSIAN GIRL ADMITTED TO FRENCH BAR

PARRIS, Nov. 23.—A raving face and professional dress of the French advo- cate (rate), sit with a lovely grace of its own. She looked so like an American college girl as, clad in cap and gown, she bowed before the grave old judges, or lifted a graceful hand and arm to take the oath to serve the interests of the re- public. The court was full and there must have been over a hundred young lawyers there to witness an addition to their number. Mile. Miropolsky seemed not at all self-conscious, but wore a bright smile and nodded vivaciously about the room. She said she had been particu- larly attracted to the law on account of its picturesque and chivalrous side.

Keeps Silent, But Does Much Thinking

perhaps, to some girl friend who is as romantic and visionary as herself. But judging from actions, which as we are told speak louder than words it is safe to assume that in her heart of hearts she would prefer to be the chosen instrument for the conversion of the romantically interesting sinner rather than be given any amount of high principle, ready made and that her estimation of the importance of good health begins and ends with an outward appearance which strikes her fancy. As to worldly means, does not go around proclaiming her views abroad so that the immense part which imagination plays in her selection must be drawn from deduction. Is it not to this that what have been called the picturesque callings of men owe their taste and popularity with women of all sorts and conditions of life? The army, the navy, the stage, the church, the careers with what may be termed flamboyant distinctions whether associated with scenes of danger or the influencing of multitudes it is sufficient that they dazzle

Next to Picturesque They Admire Strength

Next to the picturesque women admire masculine strength—strength which can be gentle upon occasion. But unfortunately for their own happiness women have a little discernment as to the nature of the strength which they admire. Strength which is accompanied by sensitive shyness, fastidious taste and refinement—mental strength in fact—they are apt to overlook, especially when as sometimes happens with that type of man it is coupled with a little bit of effeminacy. Which is a pity since it is only the finer sympathies which effectually can save a woman from receiving the one wound which is incurable the neglect and coldness when she is sick or in trouble which it is the nature of the ruthless heart to inflict with perhaps unconscious unkindness.

If man had a more correct appreciation of the strength of the position given him by the romantic estimate placed upon him by the woman who loves him he probably would be surprised to know how easily he could continue to preserve its glamour; that glamour which, alas! so often fades into dismal griveness. What a woman requires of the man whom she loves is the tith of mint, anise and cumm - small attentions, little compliments and courtesies - all the trifles which he regards as not worth while.

 Given these she will pardon great omissions - she in fact. Most men make a great parade of their passion during courtship and expect their devotion to be taken on trust.

is of course a broad fundamental education that is just as necessary to develop the powers of a woman as of a man. There is also little in regard to the training of the children that the man as well as the woman ought not to learn. If womankind were restricted to rearing and teaching children she would be deprived of many of the best opportunities for learning how to do that very work. The greatest idea in education as in other things is freedom and any restriction placed upon the education of a woman would tend to render her less efficient in any special service to which she may be by nature adapted better than man.

"I used to," replied the clerk slowly

CHRISTIANITY MUST BE CURB OF SOCIALISM

Gentlewoman Points Out the Way

(By Lady Henry Somerset)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The great war of the twentieth century has begun in earnest. It is not a campaign with military troops for the conquest of some foreign policy or the invasion of new territory. It is a struggle for the right to last longer than the heretofore military struggle.

Labor versus Capital, Conservatism and Liberalism versus Socialism are the antagonists. For long while in this country Socialism has been looked upon as a sort of safety valve which has allowed noisy fanatics to vent their spleen and has enabled the ruling classes to let off steam. The feeling too deep rooted and the evil too deep seated for Socialism to remain an innocuous and harmless froth on the tide of life.

No one who looks upon great social questions with a thoughtful and far seeing eye can for a moment imagine that as things exist now either of the contending parties is likely to promote the public good. It is not the fault of the Socialists that they are in the wrong, but that they are in the wrong. It is not the fault of the Socialists that they are in the wrong, but that they are in the wrong.

The Socialists are in the wrong because they are in the wrong. They are in the wrong because they are in the wrong. They are in the wrong because they are in the wrong.

NEWS FROM ALL THE WORLD'S CAPITALS

NOTED AMERICAN WOMAN IS DEAD

Noble French Husband Diplomat at Court of Russia.

DUC D'ORLEANS IS NOT PLEASING TO WIFE

(By the Marquis De Castellane.)
PARIS, Nov. 23.—Miss Beatrice Winans, American by birth, but French by her marriage with Prince de Bearn, who is the bearer of one of the greatest names in France, has just died in the flower of her age.

As much by her charm as by her real beauty, she had conquered for herself the first position in the society of the Russian capital, where her husband was the secretary of the French Embassy. Clouds had, however, begun to loom up in this lady's life, the question being whether she would continue to bear without a contest the fine title of Princess de Chalais.

Nothing was less certain, and everything pointed to the fact that on the death of the Duc de Talleyrand, who is now prevented by illness from undertaking any judicial action, this right would be tested before the courts. As a matter of fact, the Princess of Chalais is not, as the Prince de Bearn supposed, a title transmissible by women, like any ordinary title.

Only the oldest representative of the family of Talleyrand-Perigord has a right to it. It is not sufficient to be a Talleyrand by the female line to obtain the title. Beatrice Winans knew this, and although the matter still had to be fought out, she was not ignorant of the fact that one day or other the privilege of bearing this title of nobility would escape her.

DUC D'ORLEANS.

If one is to believe a note which appeared recently in a publication that is supposed to be rather favorable to the Duc d'Orleans than otherwise, things are not going on very well with this young Prince, his family and entourage.

The Duc, an Austrian Archduchess, seems not to have learned from her reading of French history that resignation which has always been a marked quality of the queens of France. She finds that her husband, who is a very handsome man, takes too little trouble to please her.

He is, for one thing, too fond of travelling. When he is not travelling toward the North Pole he is going at high speed between Brussels and Palermo. Briefly, she finds herself neglected, and she has begun to complain. She feels the matter so keenly, indeed, that during the Duc's recent police expedition she went to her mother, from where she now refuses to judge to join her husband at their usual home at Wood Norton. This has caused great excitement in the entourage of the Prince.

These being the facts, the Duc could not preside at the marriage of his sister, Princess Louise.

A family council was held, and an emissary was sent to negotiate a reconciliation between the young couple. I learn now on good authority that the Duchess d'Orleans has reconsidered the matter and that she will be at Wood Norton to receive the princely and other guests who will go there to be present at the marriage of her sister-in-law.

Great preparations are being made so that these royal guests will be royally treated by this king without a throne, but who likes to show that he is first of all the royal races now in existence.

Twickenham House being sold and York House also given up, the Duc now only has his estate in the north, an extensive and even sumptuous hunting lodge, but it is hardly vast enough to offer becoming hospitality to the monarchs of England and Spain and their respective suites, although mentioning as the guests from France who are going to be present.

BLOODS ON WARPATH.

It is again rumored that the young bloods are on the warpath. For whom, or for what? For the colors of clothes. They have decreed in their wisdom that the black coat has had its day, and that humanity thus dressed is far too ugly, whence an attempt must be made to liven it up by the variety of male costume.

It is some years ago since a similar effort was made here, and some very chic young men—or those who thought themselves such—appeared dressed up in mauve, violet and red suits at a soiree given, if I am not mistaken, by the Comtesse de Kersaint at her mansion, in the Boulevard de la Tour Manbourg.

But as this new fashion had also been started by Paulus, the famous singer, I had no success at all. Will it have more today? That is the question, and will the Duc de Morny, who is at its head, succeed in carrying out "jeunesse dorée" with him?

"In our world," said the Comte de Vogue the other day to one of the initiators of the anti-black coat movement, "only one color for our suits is possible—green." The Comte is, of course, a member of the French Academy, the members of which, as is well known, wear green suits in public, and it must be said, look like so many old parrots.

DOG EATS DINNER OFF SILVER PLATTER

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Parisians have learned something of interest regarding a bull-terrier belonging to Princess Louise of Belgium, who now makes her home at a fashionable hotel in the Rue de la Paix. The terrier is fed upon roast chicken served on a silver platter. This came to light through a veterinary surgeon who was called in to attend a torn ear the terrier got in a fight in the Place Vendôme with a setter belonging to the Minister of Justice. The veterinary found the dog engaged in having its meal and communicated the details to the press. The dog of Belgium got only a bad ear, but the setter got a broken leg and numerous serious wounds.

BELGIUM'S COAL INDUSTRY. Belgium produces about 24,000,000 tons of coal per annum, valued at $58,320,000. The safety of the workers has been brought to a high pitch of excellence, and the average death rate from all causes during 1901-1904 was only 10.10 per 10,000. This figure, says the British consular general, is said to be the lowest mortality attained in any country, notwithstanding the fact that the Belgian mines—deep, irregular and containing great volumes of fire damp—may be considered as among the most dangerous in the world. As regards equipment, the majority of the mines are well fitted up, and some of them have already adopted electricity as the sole motive force.

NEW NOBILITY IS ESTABLISHED IN FRANCE

Republican Aspirants Make Hyphens Alter Standing.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The parliamentary session has just reopened, and if we are to believe the prophets of evil who are always more numerous in France than elsewhere, the return of the deputies to the legislative palace is to be the signal of discord and difficulties without end.

The Moroccan affair is going to lead us to a European war! The Socialists are going to force their objectionable doctrines upon us! France is becoming more a lost and immoral country! Such are some of the comforting things we are told, while our military operations seem to be triumphing in Morocco without any other European power troubling about what is, after all, nothing but the work of a policeman, and not at all of territorial conquest.

Also M. Clemenceau, who has hitherto been considered as a kind of French ogre, is making use of language which is so patrician that all hearts are warmed by the flame of his words.

And again the Von Moltke-Harden trial is throwing the lie in the face of those who insist that we easily hold the first place as regards our want of morality.

AN EVOLUTION.

It is only just to point all this out, and to inform the foreigners that if our old aristocratic and ultra-conservative France continues to metamorphose herself into a France where all her citizens weigh equally in the balance, her advance on the road of democracy is not so much a revolution as a simple evolution.

As a matter of fact—pace the scare-mongers—France is doing very well, thank you, and the doctors will publish no more bulletins.

If times change, human feelings do not, or but little. One might think that in a society which every morning proclaims itself to be the most democratic in the world, all the citizens would be equal and would wish to remain so. But this is not the case at all. The republic is in the act of creating in France a nobility which differs very little from that of the monarchy, except that instead of calling themselves counts or marquises, the republican aspirants to nobility have invented the hyphen as a distinctive mark to differentiate themselves from the common herd. Here are a few examples:

USE HYPHENS.

The daughter of the ex-president of the republic, Felix Faure, who married M. Goyau, a simple writer, calls herself Madame Felix Faure-Goyau; the same thing with the son of Casimir-Perier, another of our presidents, who calls himself Casimir-Perier. So with the nephews of Leon Gambetta and Sadi-Carnot—they are "Pierre Leon-Gambetta" and Georges Sadi-Carnot.

So you see the hyphen does the work of the aristocracy in the new society, and before long these noblemen will have their coats of arms and will only marry among themselves. And as Alphonse Karr said of something else: "Tous ces change plus c'est la même chose."

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is not only the first actress in the world, but as I once told her, she has such a dose of radium in her blood that at the same time she is a sculptor of great talent and a remarkable writer.

BERNHARDT SCULPS.

I do not know anything more surprising than the marble face of Demeter, her husband, who was a remarkably handsome man and whose face she has transferred to marble with extraordinary talent. The bust is in her salon in the Boulevard Pereire.

Now she is adding a fresh laurel to her artistic glories—that of a humorous and charming writer. Her memoirs, the first volume of which has just appeared, are the most unexpected and the best made series of narratives I have read for a long time and the style is at once directed and natural.

One would say that it was of her that Buffon wrote a hundred and fifty years ago, "the style is the man." The style of her memoirs show us Mme. Sarah Bernhardt as she is, supremely intelligent, with a soul open to all emotions, knowing how to make something of nothing, and interesting the reader in the smallest details of her existence just because it is her existence. As soon as the translation is made it will be read with eagerness all over the United States.

QUEEN ENA HAS SET JEWELRY FASHION

Her Antique Necklace From Paris Firm Is the Rage.

NEW YORK SOCIETY DAME ORDERS COPY

(By PAUL VILLIERS.)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A new fashion in jewelry will be one, at least, of the outcomes of the visit of the young king and queen of Spain to Paris on their way to England. Queen Ena, it will be remembered, bought much of her trousseau in Paris and the shops in the Rue de la Paix are well known to her.

Hardly had she arrived in the Ville Lumiere before the young queen ordered her automobile and went around to Callier's, the famous jeweler, and bought there an article of jewelry which, it is stated on good authority, will be the rage this coming season. It consists of an antique necklace of curious and artistic design, which strongly reminds one of the English sheriff's ancient emblem of office. The necklace is composed of four rows of small pearls, to which are attached a diamond pendant, studded with pure water diamonds.

It is said that Mrs. George Kossler, the wife of the well-known New Yorker, immediately ordered one of the necklaces of exactly the same design.

M. Francois Flancon, the celebrated French artist, has just completed a portrait of Queen Alexandra. A number of interesting events are now taking place in the French artistic world.

The unveiling of a statue at Dieppe to the famous composer, Camille Saint-Saens, which was the gift of a lady admirer, was one of the very rare cases in the history of hero worship of a man being present in the flesh at the unveiling of a statue to himself, this being reserved, with but very few exceptions, to royalty. A purely literary manifestation took place at Montmorency when the statue to Rousseau, by Carrier-Beaucourt, was inaugurated, after many years, to take the place of the one destroyed during the Commune in the place where the philosopher had his "hermitage."

DEMAND FOR LOTS IS GOOD

Many Outsiders Look over Berkeley Land With View to Making Purchases.

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—The realty market continues active in Berkeley despite the unfavorable conditions in the money market. Inquiries for property continue to pour in from all over the States. J. H. Tompkins, of the Western Realty Co., says that at fully three-fourths of the residence lots in the various tracts controlled by them were sold on Nov. 20. All realty dealers here are a great majority of sales are to new owners.

Building operations continue as lively as ever. Many buildings have been started during the past week the great majority of them being small residences.

STORES AND OFFICES

Ripley and Reynolds, architects, are in the contract for the construction of a three-story class A building to be erected on Shattuck avenue. On the ground floor will be stores on the second floor offices. The three-story building will be equipped with every modern convenience. The name of the owner is the Berkeley Building Co. The building is being started for the present.

There are other large buildings being planned for Berkeley, but at the present time no owners are not prepared to give any details. Under the city street changes will be made on Telegraph avenue from Durant street to Park street and to Broadway street and on Shattuck avenue to Shattuck at one in the near future.

SELL MANY LOTS

The Scrib Skillings Company reports heavy sales in its Buellville tract in Berkeley. Many lots have been sold to people who came from the interior towns on the railroads which were attracted to the company. Buellville tract is situated near the county line on the low hills and commands a beautiful view of the bay and of Oakland and Berkeley. The lots are all 100 by 125 feet which makes the property much more desirable.

The Scrib Skillings Company has made the lots so convenient that it would accept cash, books and clearing house certificates as deposits. A large number of people took advantage of this and secured lots.

Preparatory Plans Drawn For 5-Story Building On Shattuck Avenue.

Berkeley is to have another large business block. If the plans of its projectors are carried out. The new structure is to be located on Shattuck avenue in the college town and will be five stories in height.

Ripley and Reynolds, architects of this city have drawn preparatory plans for the structure but they state that they are not at liberty at the present time to announce the names of the projectors and the location of the proposed building other than that it will be on Shattuck avenue one of the main streets of Berkeley.

The architect state that they have several projects in hand for the erection of large buildings in this city but they are not ready as yet to announce the location of the buildings.

The proposed building for Shattuck avenue will be a large addition to the thoroughfare which is now graced by many substantial business blocks. Other buildings are projected for the street but no definite plans have been given out as yet. When the temporary financial flurry is over and money more plentiful the developments now projected will be realities.

Arrangements will probably be entered whereby the hall will be renovated before this time and again made ready for lodges many of which had their headquarters there prior to the fire.

BUILDING IS COMMENCED

Construction Work on Frames of Two Big Blocks, Now Under Way

The erection of the steel girders and columns of the new Pitt and Penneyer building on Clay between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets has been commenced and already the structure is assuming proportions which are good to look upon the building being the first to be erected on the proposed new fashionable shopping center of the city.

An application for a building permit was filed with the board of public works by the contractors this week and the partial cost of the structure is fixed at $125,000. The building is to be of class A construction and will contain the largest retail store in this city.

The Pitt and Penneyer building on application this week to commence work on the $100,000 addition to a building at the south east corner of Fourteenth and Jefferson streets. It was originally planned to make this building only four stories in height but the addition will make the structure five stories in height and will make it a complete brick block.

The construction of the walls has been commenced. When the building is completed the upper stories will be used in connection with the Hotel Metropole the lower floor and basement being used for stores.

WILL RENOVATE ALCATRAZ HALL

West Oakland Building to Again Be Occupied by Lodges As Before Fire

Alcatraz Hall at one time one of the principal lodge halls in this city will probably be fitted up again in the near future for lodge purposes. The hall is to be a building on the corner of Seventh and Alcatraz streets near the city hall.

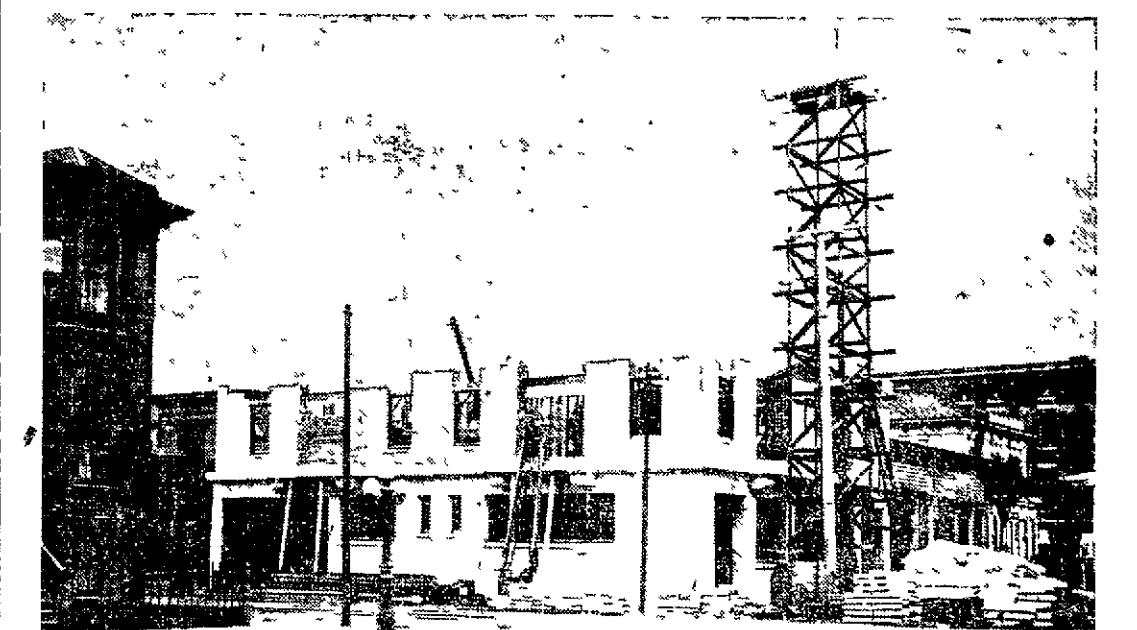

After the earthquake the building was leased to W. and J. Stone and Company of San Francisco to be used for storage purposes. The company has a new model its goods to San Francisco although its lease will not expire until June 1 of next year.

Arrangements will probably be entered whereby the hall will be renovated before this time and again made ready for lodges many of which had their headquarters there prior to the fire.

One of the notable features of this deal is the fact that the purchase price for the property in cash the money being paid over the counter in the office of the Lynamance Company. This transaction shows that the money market is less stringent than it has been for some time.

The property is 50x100 feet and the building is a three-story structure all of which are erected and have been erected since the construction of the building.

This deal emphasizes the fact that property on Telegraph avenue is looked upon as a good investment and that the avenue is becoming a lively business center.

SAILORS TELL OF WRECK ON BLEAK SIBERIAN COAST

With the simple straightforwardness of the sailor to whom courage and suffering are old companions, the wreck of the little whaling schooner Carrie and Annie on the bleak Okhotsk shores is told in the log book by Chief Officer John Bertoni. Captain J. J. Thomas of the Third Street master of the wrecked ship and his crew are now back in Oakland. Without embellishment they tell the story of the loss of their vessel and the attendant hardships.

The American Consul at Vladivostok extended slight courtesy is also stated in the log.

The Carrie and Annie was a well known craft in Oakland harbor and her crew were mostly local men.

STORY OF CRUISE

On March 2, 1907, the American whaling schooner Carrie and Annie, commanded by Frank J. Thomas of Oakland sailed from San Francisco for Okhotsk on a voyage after bowheads.

After a pleasant voyage of twenty-three days of light weather the vessel touched at Honoluli and landed a sick man. On March 2, the vessel passed through the Kailash straits and into Okhotsk sea and commenced to cruise for whales. On June 12 Second Officer C. H. Thomas captured a small bowhead whale and by 8 a. m. the head was on deck. During a fresh southwest storm the first mate and thirty fathoms of chain cables.

August 27 8 p. m. drifted down into a small bay situated in 43 degrees 45 minutes north latitude 136 degrees 45 minutes east longitude during a calm. The weather did not look threatening and barometer steady. A long heavy swell setting us in onto the rocks we anchored in fifteen feet of water at dead low tide. Towards morning it commenced to blow fresh from the northeast followed immediately by a heavy sea and working into a gale by noon. Dropping anchor and anchor as it was now impossible to beat out.

All that day and the next night to both anchors bows under in the heavy seas. At low water the schooner would touch bottom at times.

ANCHOR CARRIES AWAY.

Morning of August 30 at 9 a. m. starboard anchor carried away.

The port anchor being too small to hold in such heavy gale was slipped overboard as we had no time to beach it in 15 and starboard was hoisted forward with full mainsail aft.

As we had no time to reef anything sail proved too much and the schooner became unmanageable and drove ashore at 11 a. m.

Landed all hands inmediately and all stores at low tide. Unbent the sail and built shelters, as we had several sick people.

ARE WELL TREATED

Our two captives, Captain, officers and crew and all Russian party we came in contact with was the extreme of kindness and courtesy.

Upon arrival at Vladivostok we were kindly requested to remain on board, when the American Consul told us he had no place at which to put us up.

The consul did not seem to consider us as destitute seamen as some of us had come to.

M. N. Gray is not to blame as he only held office in absence of the regular consul and consequently did not know the law concerning shipwreck sailors.

October 2 we put our own way to Yokohama by boat and rail where we arrived October 3. The United States Consul General at once took us in his car and sent us home to San Francisco by the S. S. Asia where we arrived October 5.

This is a true story of the Carrie & Annie's last voyage as taken from the log book by Chief Officer John Bertoni.

BALLOONING NOT DANGEROUS

The uninitiated are prone to look upon the balloon as a sort of country fair attraction whose principal interest lies in the play the aeronaut makes. This is a mistake.

Like the automobile the balloon requires an experienced pilot and when such a one is in charge serious accidents are never recorded. Most balloons require all seasons to be made under a regularly licensed pilot, who receives his certificate from the club only after having demonstrated his fitness. The pilot who is willing to go up only in favorable weather and to come down to the proper time need never endanger his life. He knows he has only to open the valve and he can descend to his only to throw out a handful of sand and he can prevent his balloon from coming down or even end it up. When he is ready to land he picks out a favorable spot ahead of him. Let his balloon come gradually down near the ground, cuts loose the anchor, stops the ropes, prepares then opens the valve again if necessary. When the car touches the ground it tears out the ripping strips and the balloon stretches out on the ground a flat and empty bag—from Ballooning and Aerial Navigation by E. F. Lohm, L. C. A. C. G. Grove Johnson Attacks Lincoln-Roosevelt Club and Defends Corporations.

(Special to The Tribune)
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—A feature of the closing hours of the extra session of the Assembly was an attack by Grove Johnson on the Lincoln Roosevelt Republican League and the men whom he classed as its protagonists with especial mention of Francis J. Heney and Lincoln Steffens. His address also contained a defense of the Southern Pacific and the corporation.

In the course of some remarks upon the holiday bill yesterday Johnson took occasion to scold Heney as a "fakir" and of fered on some future occasion to explain the real causes for the present so called financial panic. This morning when the house had concluded its labors and was waiting for the noon hour to adjourn, the die was cast. Johnson, probably with no other design than to while away time called upon Johnson to make good his promise. The result was an exceedingly warm hour.

lows committed suicide. The prosecution will try to show that Kleinschmidt forced cyanide of potassium between the lips of Bellows, or caused him to inhale it through his nose by either of which means death could have been caused.

WOMAN'S REQUEST.

When Bellows called upon Kleinschmidt on the night of July 28 it was at the behest of Miss Blanche Kerfoot. She told him Kleinschmidt had stolen letters from her trunk while she was a guest at the home of his family and that he had forged other letters to show around and quote for the purpose of assailing her character. She begged Bellows to get possession of those letters and warned him to be cautious and to take some one along for protection as she feared Kleinschmidt would do Bellows harm.

BORROWS PISTOL.

Bellows borrowed a revolver from his roommate, Peck, and with Peck as a bodyguard, started for the Kleinschmidt home to demand the letters. When within easy hailing distance from the spot in the rear of the house where the two men had agreed to meet in a telephone conversation, Peck stopped, letting Bellows go on. After what seemed to Peck a sufficient length of time he left the neighborhood and returned to his home.

A milkman found Bellows' body within two feet of where he had stood talking to Kleinschmidt. Peck's revolver was in the pistol pocket of the dead man. A jury impaneled by Coroner Jamison returned a verdict of suicide by taking cyanide of potassium.

CHEMISTRY BATTLE.

In the dead man's hand was a bottle peculiar to chemistry laboratories in the University where Kleinschmidt is a student. Franz Kleinschmidt said yesterday that Bellows had demanded the letters on the night he met his death, and that his brother, Harry, had refused to give them up.

FOOTBALL PLAYER TALKS.

"I met Bellows on his way to the Kleinschmidt house the night he died, and he seemed to be in a cheerful mood, though determined in manner," said Reginald Weston Kitterell, the well-known football player, who was intimately acquainted with Bellows.

"When I heard of his death it was a great shock, and the idea that he committed suicide was queer to my mind. Only the night before he invited me to join a theater party the following week, one of the members of which was to be Miss Kerfoot. He was always cheerful and came to me for advice."

"He told me of the stories Kleinschmidt was circulating about Miss Kerfoot. He said he did not care what anyone said, that he loved her and would marry her in spite of the world. I told him that if anyone talked that way about Miss Kerfoot he should give the slanderer a good thrashing."

GIRL RELATES STORY.

Blanche Kerfoot, for whose affections Frank Bellows and Harry Kleinschmidt were rivals, told her story to Mrs. Herbert D. Clark of 79 Valley street, Oakland, on Sunday, July 28, the day after Bellows met his death.

The following day Bellows' body was sent to Chicago, two hours after Miss Kerfoot started for the home of her father, James Kerfoot, a mining engineer, at Sutter Creek, where she has been ill since the death of her fiancé.

The story as told to Mrs. Clark by Miss Kerfoot was as follows:

"Harry Kleinschmidt broke open my trunks and took private letters and papers in the hope that he would find something on which to base an attack on my character. He failed. But he then forged letters and signed the names of men with whom I had the most casual acquaintance. In those he wrote many vulgarities and made statements that would ruin me if believed."

SAYS LETTERS EXHIBITED.

"After I broke off my engagement with him and became engaged to Frank Bellows, he showed these letters about, quoted from them and made life so unbearable for me that I could not sleep nights. It was unendurable and on Friday afternoon, July 26, I met Frank Bellows in San Francisco and begged of him to get those letters from Kleinschmidt. He said he would demand them that night that he would go to Kleinschmidt's house and force him to give them up."

"When he left me I begged of him to be careful. I said Kleinschmidt would do him terrible injury if he could, and I advised him to take someone with him. He went to the Kleinschmidt home that night and talked with Harry Kleinschmidt. The next morning he was found dead. I shall tell this story in court."

MRS. CLARK'S STORY.

Mrs. Clark added the following to her repetition of the story told her by Miss Kerfoot:

"Blanche Kerfoot, whom I have known for three years while she lived at my mother's home during the period she was attending the Oakland

And said complainant is informed and verily believes and so alleges that Harry Kleinschmidt did commit the said crime hereinabove designated and set forth, and all the acts of the said Harry Kleinschmidt in the premises were and are contrary to form, force and effect of the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the people of California.

Said Complainant therefor prays that a warrant issued for the arrest of the said Harry Kleinschmidt and that he be dealt with according to law.

HENRY E. JAMISON,

ROBERT EDGAR,

Justice of the Peace in and for the Town of Berkeley.

High school, is as true and womanly a woman as there is in the world."

"She never used any language that could be considered the least impolite and unbecoming, and all that Kleinschmidt said of her was unfounded and engendered by jealousy and hatred following her rejection of him and acceptance of Bellows."

WOULD ASSIST HER.

"If she should come here to testify I shall be glad to have her at my home and will do everything possible to assist her. I cannot speak too highly of her. She was a beautiful, vivacious girl and had many suitors. Any one who would look into her soulful brown eyes would see the purity and depth of fervor that she inherited from her parents. She was strongly like her mother's family, which for generations was Italian, though her firm chin marked her as her father's child, he being English."

"Blanche was an accomplished girl and much sought after. She visited my house frequently, and when the body of her sweetheart was found she came to me and told me the whole story."

BECAME ENGAGED.

"Blanche came to visit the Kleinschmidt last June. She had met Harry Kleinschmidt nearly two years ago while she was at the High School and while she was at a great deal. When she went home a year ago, having tired of school, she carried on a correspondence with Kleinschmidt, and once, during a short trip to San Francisco, she became engaged to him."

"Once or twice she had taken dinner at the Kleinschmidt house, and finally her visit here to prepare for her wedding was decided upon. Thus it was that she came here in June. Everything seemed to go well until the early part of July, when, for some reason, she left the Kleinschmidt house and visited among friends."

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN.

"Then I heard of her having broken the engagement with Kleinschmidt and her subsequent engagement to Bellows. She and Bellows were very fond of each other, though she had known him but a short time. Kleinschmidt introduced them, and it was a matter of love at first sight, I think."

"Blanche did not hear of the death of Bellows until Sunday morning, when she read the accounts of the finding of his body. Then she came here and my heart bled for her terrible anguish. She thought then an investigation should be made, but remained quiet."

STORY OF G. L. SHURTER.

G. L. Shurter of 98 Fulton street, San Francisco, who lives in Berkeley, and is a sales agent for a number of cement and plaster concerns, a boarding house proprietor, of Bellows, Peck, Kleinschmidt and others, who moved in the circle of the interested persons in a distant sort of way, throws some light on the first meeting of Blanche Kerfoot and Frank Bellows.

"Bellows, Peck and some others and I met Kleinschmidt with Miss Kerfoot one night early in July last while they were walking in the street. Bellows stopped and was introduced to Miss Kerfoot and went along with her and Kleinschmidt. After that he became a steady caller at the Kleinschmidt house and I often saw him with Miss Kerfoot alone after that."

FEARED TROUBLE.

"Once I remarked to a friend that Bellows would get himself into trouble by interfering with Kleinschmidt and that he, especially as they were engaged."

"I came home from a trip the day Bellows' body was found and when I was told that he had committed suicide it was a great shock to me as he was a cheerful fellow and as interesting a young man as one would meet in a day."

Kleinschmidt is one of four sons of a prominent mining man and merchant of Helena, Mont. He first came to San Francisco in 1902 to study mining at the University. He has made several trips back and forth, his time in Helena being put in as cashier for his father. He has two brothers, one a student at the university, Franz, and the other a youth in Berkeley and one in Helena."

BROTHER'S STORY.

Franz Kleinschmidt tells the following story of the coming and going of Miss Kerfoot:

"Miss Kerfoot was engaged to marry Harry. She came here to visit us and prepare for the wedding. She was introduced to Bellows by Harry and soon they became rather too friendly to suit our ideas of such matters, and a little difference arose."

"Finally, one day while she was out with my sisters, someone in the family came across in some manner, a number of letters that had been sent to Miss Kerfoot by a man in Sutter Creek. The contents were such as to make us feel that we should entertain Miss Kerfoot no longer and she was invited to leave about two weeks after she met Bellows, who was very much in love with her."

The letters, and not Bellows' attentions, led my brother to break the engagement and she went to live with some people in Oakland."

Secretary Cortelyou remained behind closed doors all day and denied himself to all newspaper men. Morgan rose early this morning and called upon Assistant Secretary of State Bacon. At the Treasury Department he was closeted with Cortelyou for over an hour. When he left the Treasury Department he drove directly to the station and took the train for New York.

HOLD CONFERENCE.

It is known that Morgan and Baker discussed the details of the issue of the certificates of indebtedness. It is known that the feeling of resentment against the banking interests of the country entertained by the administration was expressed to Morgan and Baker. It is believed that Morgan and Baker made representations to the President that so far as they were concerned an effort would be made to ameliorate the methods now in force by the bankers, and caused serious disapproval from the White House. Nothing was furnished as to a central government bank issue. Secretary Cortelyou had nothing to say.

FAVOR ISSUE.

It is known that the Secretary of the Treasury, the administration leaders and Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, who is drafting a bill for the establishment of such a bank, have been in touch with financial experts both here and abroad on the subject.

There is authoritative knowledge that such a plan is under way, and the dissatisfaction in administration circles has given great impetus to the proposed plan.

SAY GOMPER'S IS UNDOGATED

SAMUEL GOMPER'S.

Expected Opposition Growing From Charges Regarding Bribery Did Not Appear.

(Special to The Tribune.)

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 22.—The unanimous re-election of Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor was the event of today's convention of that federation.

It has been expected that some opposition to Gompers might develop as a result of the controversy with E. A. Brandenburg, who, Gompers charged, had attempted to bribe him into a betrayal of labor leaders and labor movements, and who repaid with promises of exposing Gompers. The result of the election is regarded as a vindication of President Gompers.

The federation adopted resolutions to the effect that the Supreme Court of the United States alone shall have authority to declare federal laws unconstitutional and the State Supreme Court to declare State laws unconstitutional, no law to be unconstitutional except by unanimous vote of the court.

The election of all judges by the people for four year terms with the right of re-election was also demanded.

ENDS HIS LIFE WITH POISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—"My dear wife—I take this means of bidding you good bye. Since selling the house when I was held up and drugged, my mind has not been all right. I can't help myself. Don't think hard of me. Yours and the little ones' lot will soon be all right. Good bye."

(Signed) "E. A. LEGAL."

(P. S.)—There are five cases all prepared at the River Express company's at the ferry containing all necessities.

The blind wife and four children of E. A. Legal, a railroad engineer, who came here from Stockton two weeks ago, cried as this note was read to them tonight.

Legal, who was 53 years old, had swallowed an eighth of an ounce of strychnine near Lake Golden Gate Park this afternoon and was found unconscious on a bench. He died before an ambulance reached the scene of the tragedy. An agent of the Associated Press who was investigating the suicide took charge of Legal's family. The Legal's arrived from Stockton two weeks ago.

WILL PREVENT TRAIN WRECKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A company having a wireless telephone invention, which it claims can transmit messages between moving trains and prevent railroad accidents was incorporated in Oakland today.

The articles filed with the County Clerk designate the new concern as the Aerial Telephone and Power Company. It is capitalized for $25,000, 25 per cent of which is represented as having been subscribed by Albert Janke, the inventor; W. H. Shadburne, Henry B. Dwyer and Albert Roedel are the incorporators.

Janke lives in San Francisco and has been experimenting with wireless telephone for several years. He claims to have made a successful sending of messages in a distance of 25 miles. A recent test, he says, enabled him to transmit communications through six solid walls for a distance of 100 feet.

Janke claims the distance he can send messages simply depends on the voltage he employs with his apparatus. Its employment on moving trains, however, he regards as the most striking advantage.

The company is arranging to give a demonstration of the system between Oakland and San Francisco. The incorporators said today they proposed to organize a company to send out messages claiming messages can be sent by their invention cheaper than by either the telegraph or the telephone now in use.

knowledge that they were written in her own handwriting, but she does not recall when or how she came to write them. They only prove the more clearly why she wrote them, and cannot cast doubt upon the veracity of the jury in any way.

Service them. Mrs. Bradley contemplated murdering Mr. Brown. At least that is the way our side feels about it, although the prosecution will look upon it as a "trump card."

HOOVER CONFIDENT.

Hoover feels confident of his client's freedom.

"While the case is not being tried under the unwritten law, but by pure fact and actual testimony, there is no doubt in the world but that the jury will be affected in large measure by the other side of the case. Mrs. Bradley's refined appearance and the character of the man she is alleged to have shot as given by such representative men of the bar as have gone on the stand and testified as to his character and habits will have weight. No jury, I say, but must be impressed by the charm, intelligence, the actual worth of our client, for Mrs. Bradley is a woman of no common clay. She is a woman qualified in every respect to adorn any circle of life. The only thing to be feared is a disagreement, but we hardly expect such a thing."

HYPOTHETICAL QUESTION.

Hoover said that Monday would be devoted to the reading of several more of Brown's letters and then the experts, the alienists—will be put on the stand to give their opinion upon the hypothetical question.

"Our case will be closed by Monday night. It will be perhaps three days more before the case goes to the jury. I do not think they will be out long," added Hoover.

Mrs. Bradley spent a quiet day at the jail today reading and writing to many Western friends. She ate well and when seen she said she felt sure of her victory in the case.

"I am confident that no jury could convict after the testimony that has, and is yet to be offered in my behalf. I am weary of the long strain, but intend to keep myself together and not collapse, because I cannot afford to do so for my children's sake."

LETTER FROM BROWN.

Among the letters to be read on Monday are the following characteristic letters which Arthur Brown wrote to Mrs. Bradley:

"May 28, 10:02.—Dearest and Brightest—While you are the brightest woman in the world, it seems impossible for me to make myself understood or understood. Are you living in Santa Monica or in Los Angeles, which you neglect to state? You seem to be everywhere. Your d-d code is more trouble than it is worth. I cannot and have not read correctly a single telegram since you sent the new book. Your telegram just received says children are at 55 Pignora street, don't whether in Los Angeles or Egypt, don't appear."

"I got the telegram at 9 p. m. I answered that it was 'too late.'"

"YOU ARE A BRICK"

"A telegram asking what I meant by 'too late' was received. Too late to send by dispatch. You are a brick and you will perhaps see a brick wall big enough at least to know in what city, town, state, nation, globe you imagine you live in. You told me you thought of moving, moving, moving. Did you ever think of not moving for ten minutes—but where and from where and why God only knows. I am not out of patience with the lack of appreciation of the situation. If you could be here and see how unprofitable all our telegrams are you would appreciate what I can be out of patience for without being angry."

"I know you do not mean it and I do not mean to be ugly and that there is nothing to interfere with our living in all this but it is exasperating to have to drive an idea into the brightest brain in the world with a sledgehammer."

"With true love and impatience, Yours own."

MADE NO PROMISE.

"October 2, 1902. Dear Dolly: What caused you to think any promises had been hinted. I made none. Madame says she will send us both to the penitentiary. She is very bitter. The only talk about compromise is in the imagination of the reporters. Train late. I got in at seven, tired, sick, disheartened, faint and feverish, found your telegram and two letters. I hasten to reply, after supper at Headquarters. There is nothing in the compromise business. Will send money on Sunday and write about cattle and about paying Davis. What ailed the steer. Who wrote the second letter of Matthew? Will telegraph in the morning and try to satisfy you but don't go off on tangents any more. I do not know whether Pocatello case will be heard Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday but will wire and learn tomorrow and let you know. Excuse my hasty letter. I am truly loving but I find my table full of business and I am sick and worn out."

"Your own, A."

KING MADE ANGRY

voiced, have been living apart for twenty years.

WENT TO CASTLE.

When the Countess learned of the presence of the King at her husband's home and found that she had not been included in the list of guests, she determined to visit Ingeburg Hill.

To the amusement of everybody, she arrived just as the King and the Earl, with the other guests were about to proceed to luncheon. The Countess presented herself at the door of the stately hall and announced herself as the Countess of Arundell.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE.

The servants knowing of the feud which existed between herself and the Earl, declined to admit her to the house, but she pushed the powdered finneys forcibly aside and she made her way into the dining-room and in angry tones she began to upbraid her husband but was quickly quieted and finally induced to leave. The news of the painful incident was suppressed but ultimately leaked out.

Professor George P. Baker of the department of English at Harvard University has been appointed lecturer at the University of Paris and other French universities for the year 1907-08. This is the lectureship maintained by James Hazen Hyde, which, for the three years it has been in force, has been filled by Harvard men. The first year by Professor Wendell of the English department, the second year by Professor George Santayana of the department of philosophy, and last year by Professor A. C. MARTIAL LAW RULES LISBON

KING OF PORTUGAL.

Uprising of Army and Navy as Well as People Threaten Portugal.

(Special to The Tribune.)

MADRID, Nov. 23.—Martial law now rules Lisbon, Portugal. Police and municipal guards constantly patrol the streets. All telegraph matter is censored and senders of letters must put their names and addresses on their envelopes or have them refused by the postoffice officials. The army shows signs of much dissatisfaction, notably among the officers, and three generals have been relieved of their commands and it is reported that some 300 political prisoners have been sent from Lisbon on board a cruiser. The navy is also said to be very much dissatisfied.

Laq. advises indicate that the aristocratic agitation is growing and that a crisis is imminent.

According to the Liberal, the report of the banishment of Louis Philippe, the crown-prince, has been confirmed. The place of his retirement is the Villa Vi-coey. One of the royal residences situated in a forest fifteen miles in circumference and walled in, is said to be his place of safe-keeping. The paper says the Prince's banishment followed a tempestuous scene between Louis Philippe and his father, in which the former demanded that King Charles either change his policy or abdicate.

RELATIVES IN A LEGAL BATTLE

Efforts Made to Set Aside Dead Man's Deed Which Granted Property.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A suit to set aside a deed to property worth $12,000, the executor and recipient of which are both dead, was begun in the Superior Court today by Henry C. Duncomb and Isabella R. Letch against Annie S. Grant and Mary W. Grant, through Attorney Samuel M. Shortridge. The property has already been distributed to the defendants.

Edward J. Duncomb, a merchant of this city, and his wife, Abbie Frances Duncomb, were the owners of realty on Devisadero street, near Sacramento. According to the complaint Duncomb decided the property to his wife Mary, 6, 1906, while he was ill in a hospital. The plaintiffs who were brother and sister of Duncomb, say he was of unsound mind when he signed the deed, and did not know what he was signing.

Mrs. Duncomb died October 19, 1906, leaving a life estate in this realty to her husband, the same to revert to her sisters, the two defendants, on his death. Duncomb died May 11, 1907, and his brother and sister, who live in New York, have retained Attorney Shortridge to prosecute their claim.

They ask the court to set aside the deed to the property and grant them title to it, and also to direct the defendants to render an accounting of the property received since Duncomb's death.

If the deed is set aside the property would revert to Duncomb's estate, as he died after his wife. As his brother and sister are said to be his only heirs the realty would, by operation of law, become theirs.

MANUFACTURER DIES IN LOS ANGELES

(Special to The Tribune.)

LOS ANGELES, November 23.—John Miller Wilson, the president of the Willson Steam Boiler Company of Omaha, and one of the greatest boiler-makers of this country, who has been in that business for sixty-five years, died yesterday afternoon in his late home here. Though still in his hand on his interests in Omaha he has resided for some time in Los Angeles.

RICH DIAMOND PUZZLES JEWELLERS

With a valuable diamond ring in his hand, which he said he had just purchased from a young woman for $5, J. Sorina, a jeweler of 1263 Broadway, entered the police station last evening and asked that an officer accompany him to his store and question the woman as to how she obtained the ring and why she was willing to part with it so cheaply. Sorina estimated the real value of the ring as $150. He said that he had left the young woman in his store and had locked the door behind him. A policeman went back with him, but when they reached the store the bird had flown. The police are wondering why the woman did not try to raise a larger sum on the stone.

TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE LIFE

CHICAGO.—Mrs. P. H. Welch, 32 years old, who was the subject of what was believed to have been a blood transfusion, died five weeks ago, is dead at her residence, 400 North State street. Anemia, which had been the cause of her death, was the result of the transfusion. For four hours on September 8, Mrs. Welch, under the care of Dr. J. E. Murray, was undergoing a transfusion of blood from an open artery in the wrist of her brother, the wealthy brewer, John R. Welch, into an open artery in her shoulder. The blood seemed to give her a new lease on life. Two weeks ago she died. In spite of the best medical attention she steadily grew weaker.

POLICEMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Chauffeur Dashes Away Leaving Officer in Street With Broken Leg.

While attempting to board a moving car at the corner of Twenty-second and San Pablo at 11 o'clock last night, Policeman Nelson R. Degelman was struck by a passing automobile and received a compound fracture of the right leg.

The automobile continued on its course up San Pablo avenue without stopping to ascertain the extent of Degelman's injuries, and this far the police have been unable to learn the name of its occupants.

AUTO TURNED NOT.

Degelman said that he ran across San Pablo avenue to catch the car, supposing that the approaching auto would turn aside from its course to avoid hitting him, but it continued straight ahead, and he was struck just as he reached the car. Police Captain Beck and Sergeant Forgie went out to the scene of the accident in the police department automobile and conveyed the injured patrolman to the Receiving Hospital, where the broken leg was set.

PAPINTA WELL KNOWN

and a half ago. He died of heart disease.

Papinta was well known in California, and a great favorite in San Francisco, where she appeared annually at the Orpheum Theater. Aside from her professional life she and her husband owned and maintained for many years a large stock farm about five miles outside of Concord, which is near Martinez. It was known as the Papinta stock farm.

OWNED FINE HORSES.

The ambition of both Holpin, her husband, and herself was to have an ideal stock farm. They owned the famous horses, Star of the East, El Rey, and "Buckley's" gelding. Many of the race track patrons will remember some of the horses that ran under the colors of Papinta. In fact, all of the horses were named after her favorite dances.

"Papinta," stated Manager George Eney of the Oakland Grand Opera House last night, "was one of the oldest and best friends. She was an artist, and a very pleasant and congenial woman."

Professionally, Papinta was the only rival that Louis Fuller ever had in her famous dances. In fact, both of their dances were arranged by the same man, Prof. Yon Tassou, and her sudden death will be a great shock, not only to theater people by whom she was liked and respected, but by other friends, of which she made many.

TRAIN KILLS TWO MEXICANS

Laborers Attempt to Cross in Front of Owl and Meet Death.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—"Freight wreck above Mojave and killed two Mexicans at Burbank on our way into town. The train was a freight train. Frank Short, former State Senator and a prominent attorney of Fresno, thus tersely told the story of why the "Owl" train of the Southern Pacific was nearly six hours late today."

Short arrived shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon. His train should have arrived in Los Angeles at 8:55 in the morning, but as usual, the train was late.

At Burbank two Mexican laborers, A. Orando and Gracia Flores, attempted to cross the track in front of the delayed train, which was running at a high rate of speed to make up time. Arica was instantly killed. Orando was picked up unconscious and brought to the city. He died an hour after reaching the receiving hospital.

KILLS HERSELF AND HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Grace Smith shot and killed her husband, Nicholas M. Smith, at their home in New York City. She then set fire to the house and killed herself. It was discovered that for years she had been living a double life.

Mrs. Smith had told her husband she was the daughter of a wealthy man. She had been the daughter of a wealthy man in Connecticut and she would in a few days come into one-sixth of an estate of $2,500,000 that Buckley had left at his death. The certainty that her story would be revealed led her to kill herself and her husband.

WOMEN HOLD BIG BANQUET

Large Attendance at Monthly Entertainment Given by Oakland Camp No. 94.

Fraternal greetings and joviality marked the banquet and entertainment which was tendered by the Women of Woodcraft No. 94 last evening in the Pythian chapel on Twelfth street. Lodges and their friends, numbering 100, were seated at the banquet which is the monthly feast given alternately by the chapters.

Attendance exceeded all other affairs given by these two fraternal organizations, and was deemed one of the most successful events of the season.

The banquet was in charge of Mrs. A. Manderson, chairman; Mrs. J. Williams, Mrs. J. Peterson, Mrs. J. Turner, Mrs. D. Shonoda, Mrs. E. McDonald, Mrs. E. Baird and Mrs. E. Harris.

C. H. Harvey acted as toastmaster of the evening and spoke on the "Women of Woodcraft," a sister organization. The toast was responded to by Past Counselor, C. J. King, Capt. Mrs. J. L. Miller, Past Counselor, Commander Albert Trower, Capt. E. G. Hunt and F. M. Reed, Head Manager Thomas Robinson. The returned the regular meeting of the board of head managers in Denver, where the order invested $90,000 in school funds, also responded to the toast of the value of the investment and stated that Sexton Van Arden of San Francisco was awarded the contract for the printing of the official organ of the order for the coming term.

Mrs. J. T. Williams also made a few brief remarks.

The Women of Woodcraft, Oakland Circle No. 94, elected the following officers:

Guardian neighbor, Mabel Haywood; advisor, Louise Moss; magician, Mrs. Lucia Peterson; clerk, Clarabelle Barnes; banker, Francis Calhoun; attendant, Mrs. Stevens; instigator, Mrs. E. Wright; outer sentry, Mrs. Lilly; musician, Mrs. Holmes; manager, Mrs. Wright.

"There is more currency in the country today than there was a month ago, when the supply was ample. Since then $55,000,000 in gold has been imported and the government has deposited already $60,000,000. These are facts; and I appeal to the public to co-operate with us in restoring normal business conditions."

HOLIDAYS MAKE PRISONERS SAD

Petty Offenders Held Over in County Jail Beg Sheriff for Liberty.

The legal holidays have worked a hardship on many petty offenders and two of these unfortunates have made a formal complaint to Sheriff Barnett asking for release from the county jail. But no matter how willing the Sheriff may be he is powerless to act, and the men must drag out time in their cells.

Yesterday morning T. L. Burch wrote formally to Sheriff Barnett asking for his release. He was arrested over two weeks ago on one of the ferry-boats for refusing to pay for a meal. He stated in the original document to the Sheriff that he had been employed upon the Western Pacific Railway as a laborer, working three miles from Miles. He says that sixteen days ago he received a check of $8.05 from the company and came to Oakland to get it cashed.

On account of the legal holidays, Burch says, no one would cash his check. He had money enough to get to San Francisco and back again, but not enough to pay for a meal. On the ferry he went below to eat and after he had partaken presented the check for payment. This was not taken and he was saving any other money he was arrested. He claims in his letter of yesterday morning that the steward had promised him a meal when he explained his penniless position to him.

Burch has been in jail fifteen days. Barnett says that it is hardly fair to hold him any longer, but that he has no jurisdiction to release him and he must stay until the holidays are over.

ANOTHER LETTER.

The Sheriff also received a letter yesterday from L. E. Brown, another unwilling prisoner. Brown was brought in by the Berkeley police a week ago yesterday and has been occupying a cell in the county bastille ever since.

Brown says in his epistle that he was arrested for drunkenness and that he has thoroughly sobered up and would like to be at liberty. Brown says that men are not kept that long in the city prison for intoxication, but are often released as soon as they have sobered. He implores the Sheriff to give him his liberty.

In spite of willingness, however, the Sheriff is not empowered to act and the man is still in jail.

MANAGER MADE MASON BY HIS EMPLOYEES

An event which has created much discussion in Masonic circles was the bestowal of the third degree on Frank A. Leach, Jr., general manager of the Oakland Gas Light and Heat Company, in Live Oak Lodge, in which none but gas workers participated. All men employed by the gas company who are members of the fraternity were on hand to assist in bestowing this degree on Mr. Leach and the entire affair was handled by them, and by Abraham Leach, master of the lodge and brother of the new member.

After the ceremonies a banquet was held at which Mr. Leach was presented with a Masonic emblem by the gas workers.

Fish shown at Paris in 1900 had been preserved in nitrogen for seven years. Canned peas, grapes, cherries, etc., are now being packed in paper boxes containing nitrogen and the exclusion of oxygen seems to keep the fruit from decay for an indefinite time.

(By LANGDON SMITH.)

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—A greater crowd ever witnessed a football game than that which saw Harvard go down to defeat before the giant team from Yale. Fully 40,000 persons filled the great stadium.

The crimson in a rage of bitterness over recent adversities, fought like madmen. Time after time they swept Yale back with the savage energy of their attacks. Their unexpected display of fire and force was a surprise to the crowd, although the Yale team was prepared for it.

YALE'S FAST WORK.

There were great holes in Harvard's playing, however, and mistakes which Yale never failed to take advantage of. Where three or four Harvard players would fall on the ball, one Yale man would get among them and nip it every time.

It must be said, however, that Harvard did not lose the game through these mistakes. Yale won on her merits, while Harvard failed to score on her own demerits.

In the latter part of the second half Harvard had the ball one inch from Yale's goal. True to her old "last ditch" traditions, Yale held fast and true, and with that last desperate rush the hopes of Harvard vanished. Yale got the ball on that third down, made one play, gained a few yards and then the whistle blew and the game was over.

It was a heartbreaker for Harvard. The sensation happened in this wise:

TIED AND BLOODY.

With the ball in Harvard's possession on Yale's thirty yard line, the crimson sprang into place. They were tired and bloody; their uniforms were ripped and slashed and muddy. The Yale team, silent and alert, crouched Yale-fashion to meet the attack.

It came like a thunderbolt. Back went the ball to little Newhall, the quarterback. The lines swung and smashed together.

There was a rasping of shoulder against shoulder, a jumble of men, and then out of it came black-haired Wendell, the punter. Harvard back, curving around Yale's left end like a greyhound.

Cooney launched himself through the air like a catapult, barely missing Wendell's flying legs. Dunbar half turned with a futile grab as he passed. Jones, Yale's left end, and all the blue backs were in his front. Jones was bowled off by McDonald.

The Harvard interference converged rapidly, and the Yale backs could not get through it.

FLYING TACKLE.

Down near the goal post big Coy, coming across the field like the wind, made a flying tackle and the plucky Harvard man came a cropper five yards from Yale's goal. Then came the three plunges against the Yale wall, and within a bare inch to gain, Yale got the ball on downs. The gloom on the Harvard side of the stadium could have been cut with a knife.

Altogether it was a great game and reflects no discredit on Harvard. A more beautiful day for the game could not be imagined.

START VICTORY TRIAL.

On either side of the stadium was a band which added materially to the general uproar. Harvard was first to set the tumult going. They started a song of victory—a rather solemn production—which rang over the field dimly. Yale roared back the old-time "Bools" chorus, and the vocal duel was on. After that there was no cessation. The tumult rose and fell in wild waves of sound.

At ten minutes to two o'clock Yale swept out on the field, a ragged, shaggy looking troop, many of them being bandaged from former battles, and helmeted and padded like old-time crusaders.

The Harvard men, following soon after, seemed worse off than Yale. They wore more bandages; some of them limped, but they looked as though they were eager for the battle.

It did not take the teams long to get to work. Captain Bigelow and Parker met in mid-field. A coin flashed into the air and Yale won, taking the wind, which blew from the northwest, and giving Harvard the south goal.

GAME STARTS.

Burr, looking like a reincarnated mummy, teed the ball in the middle field, while the Yale men deployed over the field in open skirmish order. Running forward, he swung his toe against the ball, and the game was on.

Tad Jones caught it and ran it back twenty yards, part of the distance with a Harvard man hanging to his neck. The battle raged in mid-field for a time, with the crowd surging and roaring out encouragement to both teams. With the plegkin in Harvard's possession Newhall lifted a short twisting punt over the Yale ranks. The Yale ends came down the field like the wind. The ball barely touched Roman when Starr grabbed it and set sail for Yale's goal. Twisting and dodging, he ran it down to Yale's twenty-yard line before Jones could throw him.

CROWD "SITS UP."

This was the first indication of Harvard's strength, and the crowd "sat up and took notice." After a few smashes at the Yale line, Parker dropped back for a try for goal from the thirty-yard line.

The kick went ludicrously wild and the battle began to rage in mid-field again. Harvard, by a series of swift plays, again took the ball down to Yale's five-yard line, where the fighting became savage and the scrimmages colossal. As usual,

Yale got out of the crisis without hurt. She got the ball on the five-yard line and, on a trick, Bomar tore through the crimson line like a locomotive, leaving a trail of prostrated Harvard men behind him. They pailed him after he had covered thirty yards. Yale then began to hammer the Harvard line with her big swift backs, and slowly took the ball down to mid-field, where a quarterback kick took them within striking distance of the crimson goal.

TRIES FOR GOAL.

Here Yale tried the Harvard scheme and Bomar dropped back for try for the goal. Like Parker's, it failed, but the ball shaved the outside of the post.

All at once Yale seemed to discover the fact that she was getting the ball on almost every occasion where there was a scramble for it. Then she began to try the spectacular forward pass.

This appealed particularly to the feminine element in the crowd. Every time the ball rose into the air after a scrimmage, they would scream and jump up and down and imperil their gloves with applause and handclapping. Even the Duchess of Marlborough was heard to utter a small and dignified shriek.

Yale began to hold an dplay off side and were penalized so often that the referee looked like a little tin walking man measuring off the distance. One of these forward passes gained twenty-five yards for Yale, Harvard as usual missing the ball.

For ten minutes or more the battle swung up and down the field until the torn turf grew black with the underlying mud.

TRY THE ENDS

Finding that she could not gain through Yale's line, Harvard began to try the ends. On the first trial Wendell, started for the left and ducked in behind its interference which had pocketed H. Jones and, guarded by four red jackets, tore off six chalk marks before he was downed.

A few minutes later Wendell, who was playing like a fiend, again turned Yale's left flank for fifteen yards.

Harvard developed unexpected strength in her line, and in consequence Yale opened her game. An on-side kick by Jones of Yale took the ball to Harvard's twenty yard line. Bomar was replaced by Philbin who began to plunge against the center.

His arrival was the signal for Harvard's downfall. Rushes by Philbin and Bines took the ball to Harvard's ten-yard line. Two plunges by Coy laid a yard from Harvard's door. Philbin advanced it two feet.

MAKES FIERCE RUSH.

Back came the ball to Coy. Lowering his bull-like head, he slashed into the red line as fast and hard as he could drive. The Harvard line sprang to meet him and for a while the men stood up, locked hard and fast, swayed this way and that, and eventually fell in a great pit just over the goal line.

Was it a touchdown? Nobody knew. Somewhere down in that tangle of anatomy was Coy with the ball. Feet stuck out of it. Arms and hands were locked and groped here and there. Chalky and staring faces were seen here and there.

Slowly the referee untangled the wheat from the tares. It was a touchdown for Yale, and Harvard was heartbroken. They lined up behind their goal posts mute, but wringing their hands. Bigelow kicked the goal.

The battle swung this way and that, and soon Harvard abandoned her runs and close formations and resorted to the forward pass.

REMARKABLE PASS.

Suddenly with the ball in Harvard's possession Newhall made one of the first remarkable forward passes seen on a football field this season. It went fully thirty-five yards and fell into the hands of McDonald, twenty yards from Yale's goal. Parker scooted back for a place kick for goal, but was dreadfully slow in getting the ball away, and it struck an incoming Yale man in the breast.

Fish fell on it and Parker again dropped back for a try. Again Yale blocked the kick and again a Harvard man got it.

Once more Parker tried and failed. Then Yale got the ball, and the crisis was over. The first half was ended.

The second half was practically a repetition of the first. Harvard had never put a pluckier team in the field.

A forward pass by Yale, which Harvard fumbled, brought the ball to within ten yards of Harvard's goal line. Philbin drove it five yards. Coy four and Brides half a yard. Coy took it within six inches.

Coy then took it over and Bigelow kicked the goal, making the score 12 to 0.

Soon afterward Wendell made his remarkable run and the game was over.

SAYS ENERGY TALK IS BOUFF

French Lecturer Asserts That It Is In Europe Where Real Effort is Shown.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—M. Urban Gohler says the stories of the boasted United States' energy are only a bluff. M. Gohler was giving a lecture in the "University," founded by a woman from the United States, Miss Alois Kuhn, for American and French girls, in the Boulevard Malherbe, and he said:

"The United States, they tell us, the country of all the energy. What? rubbish! The Americans are no more energetic than we Europeans. They have luck in all. Flouting themselves in a new country where they have only to stoop in order to harvest, and where everything is to be had in abundance—naturally they succeed."

IS ONLY A BLUFF.

"The American millionaire says: 'I have acquired great wealth, have created a model farm and workshops; therefore, I have energy.'"

"Why," continued M. Gohler, "the real energy is found with us in old Europe—the French peasant, for instance, who spends his days in cultivating his hard and thankless land. We have much more necessity over here to exercise our energy than the Americans have, and we do so."

"American energy is nothing but a bluff. I am telling this to American girls, because truth is always good to tell, and in telling it I am doing a service to United States pride. Intelligent Americans will know that the fools are not those who criticize them, but those that flatter them."

GOOD WIRELESS RECORD MADE

Operator on Transport Talks 1500 Miles to Station on Coast.

Remarkably fine wireless work was accompanied by the army transport Thomas on her trip from Honolulu to San Francisco, the record being set off-shore messages being made when at 8 o'clock on the evening of November 17, Operator Frank N. Moseley was in communication with the operator at the North Head, Wash., government station, over a distance of 1500 miles.

The weather was good at the time and conditions favorable. This is the longest wireless work yet accomplished off shore, but not the best in the Pacific, this record being held by the steamer President, which talked with Point Loma station from a point far off the Alaskan coast, a distance of 2200 miles.

OTHER MESSAGES.

Operator Moseley of the Thomas reports that he was in communication with the Pacific station over a distance of 1345 miles, last Sunday night, and at a distance of 1100 miles sent and received messages with great distinctness. Commercial messages were sent in considerable numbers, many of the passengers taking advantage of the opportunity to advise their relatives and friends of their homecoming.

Communication with Honolulu was maintained for only about 170 miles after the Thomas left that place, on account of the poor wireless apparatus stationed there. Operator Moseley states with some positiveness that with an equipment as good as that on the transports, Honolulu could easily maintain regular communication with this city.

QUICKLY "SUBBED."

From away off shore, more than half way to Honolulu, Operator Moseley tried repeatedly to get into communication with the coast stations, all of which were talking and keeping up a continual conversation, but paying no attention to the Thomas. This apparent snub was taken kindly by Operator Moseley, who explained yesterday that the coast instruments, not being properly attuned to long distance work, could not easily recognize him, though he could easily catch every word they said. Point Loma station, particularly, could be heard as plainly as though it were alongside the Thomas, although more than a thousand miles of water intervened.

EXCEPTIONS FILL OVER 1000 PAGES

Voluminous Bill in Glass Case Will be Ready Next Wednesday.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The bill of exceptions in the case of Louis Glass, a document of over 1000 pages, probably the most voluminous ever filed in this State, will be ready for Judge Lawlor's signature by next Wednesday. Attorney District Attorney Harrison and Attorney General Connelley and O'Connor, who represent Glass, conferred with Judge Lawlor yesterday.

Harrison stated he had read 500 pages of the bill and prepared amendments for the same. He thought he would complete his work by Tuesday night.

Bola Connelley and O'Connor insisted on haste in the settlement of the bill, as without it Glass' appeal cannot be perfected.

ARRESTED FOR ABUSING A HORSE

Frank Rosa, a dairyman, and Frank Gomes and Manuel Margalido, teamsters employed by him, were arrested by Court Officer Murray at 855 Fifty-eighth street to set apart car Sunday and Sunday nights for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, charging the men with mistreating a horse. The trio were taken to the station and were released pending the hearing of their cases in the Police Court.

"DRUNK" CARS.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Prof. Ford and his various assistants in the temperance propaganda have petitioned the Government to set apart car Sunday and Sunday nights for the Prussian railways for intoxicated persons; or if that be deemed inexpedient, to reserve cars for abstemious with train bands at the doors, when the trains stop, to exclude intoxicated persons and thus aid sustains quiet traveling. Minister of Justice Schoensted is leading the movement through the committee of the universities to check drinking on the part of the students.

HOLD BOY FOR HITTING WOMAN

Youth is One of Quartet Accused of Attempt at Highway Robbery.

Douglas McFarland, who is accused of being one of the quartet of boy highwaymen who attempted to hold up a pedestrian in West Oakland on Thursday night, is under arrest and it is probable that he will be immediately charged with battery by Mrs. A. Bruschini, in whose store the intended victim of the youthful hold-ups took refuge.

The members of the gang stood on the curb and hurled stones into the store. One of these struck Mrs. Bruschini in the face, inflicting a painful wound. The injured woman has identified McFarland as the boy who threw the stone which struck her.

The police have not yet determined whether a charge of attempted robbery can be established against the boy.

LEGISLATURE COMPLETES

SENATE PLEASSED WITH FINANCIAL CONDITIONS

Declares, in Set of Resolutions, That the Saneness and Confidence of People Is Rapidly Returning.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—The State Legislature concluded the business of the thirty-seventh extra session at noon today and adjourned sine die.

There was little to do this morning. The senate, through a joint committee on open conference, agreed to the assembly amendments to the sixty days' tax extension bill, and by this means the measure passed both houses and went to the Governor.

A joint committee on banks and banking laws was appointed. Leavitt, Wolfe and Curtin represent the Senate on the committee, and Sanborn, Fisher and Cutten the Assembly.

The Senate in a body refused to put in any claim for the $25 apiece, contingent expenses allowed by law, but in the Assembly a "tempt" was made to collect it. Berry, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, introduced a resolution providing for the "grab," but when it was put to a vote the resolution was lost by a vote of 25 yeas against 43 nays. The result was a genuine surprise to the "scrubbers," who thought they had a majority of the house.

THIRD TERM.

Assemblyman Smith of Santa Clara asked the adoption of his resolution introduced last night declaring the California Legislature in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt. Speaker Beardslee, upon the point being

WHAT THE LEGISLATURE DID

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—This is what the State Legislature accomplished at the extra session:

Passed four measures defining holidays and declaring that on special holidays declared by the Governor of the State, the courts may transact all kinds of judicial business except such as concerns actions for the direct payment of money.

Extended the time for the payment of taxes to the last Monday in January, 1908.

Appointed a committee, consisting of three Senators and three Assemblymen to investigate banks and banking laws.

Secured the resignation, under pressure, of Andrew M. Wilson as Railroad Commissioner.

Passed the bill providing for the development of Islais Creek and a $1,000,000 bond issue.

Appropriated $17,587.19 for the adjutant-general's department to pay militia expenses incurred during the car strike in San Francisco.

Allowed the Governor's office an addition of $1000 to the contingent fund.

Passed a perfunctory bill appropriating $4000 for the State Printing Office to cover expenses incidental to the session.

Approved four San Francisco charter amendments specified in the Governor's call.

At the second extra session:

Approved the sixteen San Francisco charter amendments which were adopted at the November election, but were not included in the Governor's call for the extra session.

LINCOLN-ROOSEVELT LEAGUE FLEYED JOHNSON AT LEGISLATURE CLOSE

"The same kind of people are now widely preaching the doctrine of hate. They have attacked the banks and have told lies about these institutions having loaned large sums in New York, when, as a matter of fact, as you heard the bankers themselves declare the other day, they have not sent a dollar out of the State on loan. Our banks are the salvation of the State, and when the people regain their senses confidence will be restored and things get back to normal conditions."

"Let us drive out the demagogues with their doctrine of hate and start California on the career of unexampled prosperity that certainly lies before her."

DEVILIN SARCASTIC.

When Johnson had concluded Assemblyman Frank R. Devlin of Solano jumped to his feet. Devlin, who is president of the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League, detected in the corporation lawyer's remarks a dead slap at that institution. He resented with warmth the charge of "preaching a doctrine of hate," and read from the league's platform to show that its organization is directed chiefly to driving out the Southern Pacific from political power in California. Devlin waxed sarcastic when he said:

"The gentleman from Sacramento seems to have changed front since last March. Where are the agents of the Southern Pacific at this session? Where are Jere Burke, Walter Parker, George Hutton? Their absence has been commented upon."

Devlin wound up with an appeal to manhood and Republicanism to resent the imputations cast upon an institution organized solely for the purpose of cleansing the political atmosphere of the State. Drew of Fresno also went after Johnson.

"It is not time that any attack upon wealth is responsible for existing conditions," he declared.

SAYS GAMBLING CAUSE.

"It is the senseless extravagance of the people during the past year, including

TOO LATE TO DEFEAT MEASURE

Islands Bill Was Signed Before Delegation Arrived.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—A committee of San Francisco merchants, representing the Merchants' Exchange, Merchants' Association, Chamber of Commerce, Ship Owners' Association and the redwood lumber men, came up on the overland limited today to see Governor Gillett not to sign Senator Elmer Welch's Islais creek bill.

They arrived too late. The bill had been signed an hour before they arrived. The delegation included Carey, Friedlander, Captain Mason, James J. Tyson, W. H. Marston, F. L. Tilden, R. H. Swayne and C. R. Johnson.

They were much disappointed when they visited the capitol and learned of the Governor's action. They declared they had sent a telegram warning the State's chief executive of their coming and begging his indulgence. The Governor said he had not received the message, so there was nothing left for the delegation to do but to turn tail and go back to San Francisco.

TO RAISE PAY IN HAWAII

Movement on Foot to Give Governor $10,000 Yearly Instead of $5000.

HONOLULU, November 14.—The Honolulu Chamber of Commerce has adopted a memorial to Congress asking that the salary of the Governor of the Territory be increased from $5,000 to $10,000; the salary of the Secretary of the Territory from $3,000 to $5,000; that of the Chief Justice from $3,000 to $7,000; the Associate Justices from $3,000 to $7,000; the Circuit Judges from $3,000 to $4,000; and that of the United States District Judge from $3,000 to $7,000.

The reason assigned is the higher cost of living here than elsewhere, and as to the Governor and some other officials the geographical location of the Territory, which calls for more entertaining, public and private, than is called for elsewhere.

blesing, guidance and wisdom might be the portion of the solons in the Senate, but Controller Nye who deals with facts and figures and not with things spiritual and a supernatural, says he will have to be convinced that the State should pay for Rev. Mr. Darling's coming and going.

SAYS MILEAGE JUST.

The first move in this strife between the minister and the state master of finance was made a few days ago. A friend of the gentleman of the cloth reasoned that mileage was allowed Senators who deal with only the affairs of this world. Why should not the man who was paid to inspire them with thoughts of the heavenly kingdom be also allowed to ride at the expense of the State?

THE MATTER GOT INTO COMMITTEE AND THE REPORT TO THE SENATE WAS THAT, AS SOME PERSON HAD TELEGRAPHED THE REV. MR. DARLING TO COME TO THIS CITY TO DIRECT THE THOUGHTS OF THE SENATORS TO THE HEAVENS, AND ESPECIALLY TO THE realm of the clouds, he should be permitted to draw down money to defray the expense of coming.

AGREED TO PAY.

Regardless of this fact, there was a fight in committee over the proposition and when the recommendation came to a vote in the senate, one of the clergyman's opponents readily admitted to the "Oh yes, let us pay the bill and get rid of him."

"We," the payment of the bill was ordered, but Controller Nye has stopped the home-run to the treasury.

Nye has been reading the law since he became controller and has discovered among other things, in section 237 of Article II of the Political Code, the fact that "the secretary of the Senate, the clerk of the Assembly, the minute clerks and the sergeant at arms of each house" and no others, shall be entitled to mileage.

Mr. Darling prays in an easy, canting style, justifying it, he said, the sobriquet of the "Horse-Jockey Person," which has been bestowed upon him, but the controller is not willing to allow Mr. Darling's warrant unless his gibbous can convince him that the Political Code is wrong and that he is really entitled to the $13 car fare which a divided body of lawmakers has voted him.

MAY ENLARGE P. O. BUILDING

Authorities Planning to Increase Size of Structure in This City.

Oakland's postoffice building may be increased in size within a short time, the proposition to enlarge it meets with the approval of Senator George C. Perkins and Congressman Joseph R. Knowland, to whom the matter would be referred by the federal authorities.

Congressman Knowland, when asked about the projected improvement just before his departure for Washington, said he and Senator Perkins had made a examination of the Oakland postoffice building and had agreed to recommend some action to relieve Oakland from restricted postoffice accommodations.

SHOULD BE LARGE.

"From my own observation I am convinced that there is no sufficient room for the work in the Oakland postoffice to be done expeditiously and thoroughly," said Knowland. "Anybody who looks into the conditions must arrive at the same conclusion."

"As soon as the matter can be reached, proper legislation will be asked."

"The rapid growth of Oakland in the last two years has placed the city far beyond the postal facilities it has, and there is every reason to believe that the increase in population in the immediate future will be still more rapid."

"The suggestion of Postmaster Schafer that the land in the rear of the building, running back to Franklin street, be used is wise, in my opinion. It is better to have all the business on one floor, though it may be conducted on two or more, with proper elevator service."

MORE STONES.

Knowland was asked what he thought of the proposition of adjacent property owners that the height of the building be increased by adding two or three stories. He said he had not given that phase serious consideration.

Senator Flint said he would do what he could to obtain an appropriation for the proposed postoffice enlargement. The first step would be to secure a recommendation from the Treasury Department. To get that would be more than half the battle, he said.

Property owners on Broadway in the vicinity of the postoffice building hope to see the height of the structure increased.

ELOPER HAS TO FACE CHARGES

Accused of Stealing Money From Husband of Woman He Ran Away With.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SEATTLE, Nov. 23.—P. P. Roller, the Seattle sanitary inspector arrested with Mrs. Anita Morton, the wife of Dr. Harry R. Morton, an Oakland dentist and with whom he eloped from Berkeley on funds alleged to have been fraudulently obtained from the husband, will be taken back and prosecuted on a charge of grand larceny.

The Oakland authorities have wired that they would dispatch an officer for Roller. Mrs. Morton was released on order of Prosecuting Attorney Mackintosh. This is her second elopement with Roller and she says now that she has done with him forever and intends to return to her sister in San Francisco.

After her first elopement about eighteen months ago she was forgotten by her husband, but Roller again induced her to flee with him.

of the skull. Death was almost instantaneous.

Zelnitsky had no relation in this city, but the police have learned that he has a family in San Francisco. He had been peddling matches in Oakland for some time past, and was in the habit of stopping at different lodging houses. In one pocket was found a receipt made yesterday for four nights lodging at the Clarendon House on Washington street.

The car which caused the death was in charge of Motorman H. Landa and Conductor P. J. Wright.

Zelnitsky's body was taken to the morgue, where an inquest will be held.

NOT INFORMED.

Governor Gillett was informed this evening of the gossip that was going around. He said:

"I haven't heard anything about it. I don't care to say anything about a matter that has not been officially called to my attention."

The Governor, in his call for the extra session, scored the banks and asked for the appointment of this committee.

ACTRESSES IN WRECKED AUTO

Identity of Railway Official's Companion Has Been Established.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 23.—The mystery that surrounded the identity of the two women who were with W. L. McKinley, the Sonora traction man, when his automobile plunged over the bridge into the Guadalupe River, has been lifted at last.

From an acquaintance of the women it has been learned that the two mysterious women were May Keane and Camille d'Arville, both well known actresses. After the occupants of the machine had been rescued for murder the car, the women were assisted up the bank and nothing was seen of them afterwards.

It is now said that they went immediately to the house of Miss Keane on River street, scarcely a block from the scene of the accident. Miss Keane is said to have sustained a fracture of the wrist and a broken jaw. After the accident McKinley and his companion Frank Montgomery maintained an unyielding silence as to the identity of their companions. Miss Keane is well known in San Jose where she has appeared in the part of the heroine in many of the plays presented by stock companies at the Jose Theatre.

Camille d'Arville was formerly a singer in the famous Bostonian troupe, but she retired from the stage several months ago and has been living ever since in San Jose.

WILSON'S JOB TO LOVELAND

Governor Names San Francisco Man to Vacancy on Railroad Commission.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—H. D. Loveland of San Francisco was appointed by Governor Gillett this afternoon to fill the vacancy in the Railroad Commission due to the resignation of Andrew M. Wilson. Loveland is now in Oklahoma, where he has gone to reside at the Trans-Mississippi Congress. He received notification of his appointment this afternoon by telegram and immediately wired back his acceptance.

Loveland is a personal friend of the Governor and is a member of his staff.

ITS WORK

SECOND EXTRA SESSION LASTS JUST ONE HOUR

Assembles in Afternoon, Answering Executive Call, and Adopts 16 San Francisco Charter Amendments.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—The State Legislature was called into a second extra session at 1 o'clock this afternoon under a proclamation issued by Governor Gillett this morning. Its purpose was to adapt the sixteen San Francisco charter amendments that were not included in the call for the extra session which closed at noon today.

It was not a long session. It took the Senate just fifteen minutes to organize and pass a concurrent resolution covering all the sixteen charter amendments. The Assembly went to work more slowly, and occupied an hour in ratifying what the Senate had done, but it was all harmonious. There had been talk of opposition in the Assembly to the recall, on the ground that the small percentage would permit of an elective political opponents getting him out of his office upon flimsy pretext. But when the vote came up the opposition did not materialize.

JOKE SENATOR WOLFE.

In the Senate some good natured badinage was flung at Senator Eddie Wolfe of San Francisco who, while having always consistently opposed the recall, himself introduced the concurrent resolution approving all the charter amendments. Wolfe's diplomatic answer was:

"I was opposed to the recall when the people of San Francisco didn't want it. But now, when by a decisive vote they have expressed their desire to have it established, I'm for it."

WHAT THEY ARE.

The sixteen charter amendments so approved are:

- Providing for the recall of elected officers.
- Relating to the apportionment of the income and revenue of the several funds and a provision for income to pay interest on the bonded indebtedness and provide for the sinking funds.
- Relating to contracts entered into by the Board of Public Works and permitting progressive payments on contracts.
- Relating to bonds of officers.
- Permitting the supervisors to appropriate $100,000 a year for urgent necessities not otherwise provided for by law.
- Permitting the supervisors to acquire, operate, maintain, sell or lease public utilities.
- Giving the city power to sell lands.
- Permitting the supervisors to change grades and perform such other work in connection therewith.
- REGARDING STREETS.
- Permitting the supervisors to open, extend, widen, straighten or close streets.
- Protecting the city against damage suits by reason of defective sidewalks and streets.
- Permitting the leasing of real property of the school department.
- Giving the supervisors power to permit the laying of spur tracks.
- Giving the supervisors power to regulate telephone charges.
- Creating a playground commission, and giving the park commissioners control of outside land.
- Creating a department of public health.
- Providing for a department of electricity under control of boards of fire and police commissioners.

FORD TRIAL WILL CONTINUE FRIDAY

Judge Lawler to Resume Grant Case Under New Law of Legislature.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The trial of General Thayer L. Ford, accused of bribing former Supervisor Jennings Phillips, will be resumed before Judge Lawler at 9:30 o'clock next Friday morning.

This was decided on yesterday by the Judge after a conference with counsel for prosecution and defense, and is the result of the legislative action allowing the courts of the State to open for certain purposes on special holidays.

Judge Lawler communicated his decision to the jurors, who were pleased to learn their long confinement is nearing an end.

A few days ago David Pingree of Salem, Me., bought several hundred thousand acres of the "wild lands" of Maine, thereby becoming possessor of a tract of land larger than the entire State of Rhode Island. It is the best hunting ground in the eastern part of the United States.

MRS. KEPPEL IS NOW ACCEPTED

American Society Woman Causes Queen Alexandra to Laugh at Her Jokes.

(Special to The Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The society sensation of the moment is the fact that the Queen has finally "accepted" Mrs. George Keppel.

On the occasion of her third visit to Sandringham, the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel, who was accompanied by her husband, sweet all before her. Her first visit to the King's Norfolk home was marked by a great cordiality on the part of Queen Alexandra. Her second visit was far more pleasant and on this, the third excursion, the Queen completely succumbed to Mrs. Keppel's charms.

QUEEN LAUGHS AT JOKES.

It was the Queen who took Mrs. Keppel along around the dachas, the farm and the kennels, and it was noticed that the Queen laughed almost as heartily at Mrs. Keppel's jokes as she invariably does at those of M. De Seneval, the Portuguese minister. Mrs. Keppel has a wonderfully distinct way of speaking, and Her Majesty, who is dearest than ever, manages to catch all the entertaining lady's stories, which are always new and up-to-date, but never ill-natured.

It was really a most informal and jolly house party. The Duchess of Westminster, always in high spirits, was seen in vivid crimson, playing dice with little Prince Orléans, the spoiled child of the party, and Lord Roseberry enlivened the men after dinner with his witty anecdotes.

KING SHOTS POORLY.

Another feature of the King party was a sporting bet between King Alfonso and the Prince of Wales as to who should bring down the largest number of birds. The game keepers were wildly excited over it and made many bets between themselves. The Prince, however, was an easy winner by more than fifty birds.

SENT BIG GEM THROUGH MAIL

Cullinan Diamond Goes From Africa to England in Registered Package.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—King Edward's receipt of the famous Cullinan diamond in Sandringham on his birthday has been noted in the dispatches, but the story of the difficulties and fears confronting the responsible authorities for the safe conveyance of the gigantic gem to Sandringham from its place of custody in London has not been told. It is doubtful, too, if they are comparable with the serious vicissitudes which the Transvaal postal authorities had to consider when entrusted with the task of the safe carriage of the stone to London.

The portion of the journey in which the greater possibility of molestation lurked was from Johannesburg to Cape Town, where the diamond was placed in the strong room of the Union Castle. Line Steamship Company. Almost 1000 miles of railroad had to be negotiated, and in the course of this portion of the trip there are many lonely spots which afford admirable opportunity for the operation of "Starlight" gangs of desperadoes. These places are passed in the dead of night as well as in broad daylight.

USE "BLUFF." Several schemes were evolved to insure the safety of the precious stone. Finally all were rejected for the extremely venturesome game of "bluff." About two hours before the departure of the train from Park station, the principal station in Johannesburg, an order was issued to two members of the railway detective staff to travel to Cape Town by the mail on an "important mission."

There was nothing unusual in the order, for both men were seasoned to the peculiar duties that arise in the "land of distances," but a subsequent instruction that they go well armed made them curious as to the nature of their mission. Their curiosity was not appeased, however, until they were in a first-class compartment and ready for departure. Then, with an effusive air of seriousness and mystery and many admonitions of caution, a patrol, nearly clad in brown, brown and carefully sealed, was placed in their charge.

HINTS MADE PUBLIC.

This parcel they were told to deposit in the strong room of the box, where the outer wrapping would be stripped off and the return of this to the postoffice in Johannesburg was to be the guarantee that the postal authorities had taken over the parcel. At the same time, hints were allowed to become public of the detective's mysterious journey. Naturally, the forty-hour travel was a most anxious time for the detectives. Never during the journey was the parcel cut of the night, one or the other of them. The instructions were carried out to the letter, and the package was safely delivered, and then it was guardedly acknowledged that the diamond had left South Africa.

Some months later the postmaster-general for the Transvaal, in a report on the postoffice read in the legislative council in Pretoria, astonished the council and, in deed, the whole of South Africa with the announcement that the diamond had been safely conveyed to England in an ordinary registered package.

There is no particle of risk involved in letting business take its natural course and the people can help themselves and the country most by putting back into active circulation the money they are hoarding. The banks and trust companies are solvent."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, Nov. 17.

SILVER LOVING CUP FOR THE PRESIDENT

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Lieutenant J. J. Van Schaack of the Fourth Cavalry, arrived yesterday from Manila, en route to Washington, where he will present to President Roosevelt, a magnificent gold-lined silver loving cup, the gift of the Philippine Assembly. The cup and its inscription are intended to express to the President the thanks of the Assembly for the institution of the Assembly. As a member of the Philippine Assembly, and in the presence of Secretary Taft, the loving cup was used for the first time in a toast to "The President."

Lieutenant Van Schaack, who will personally hand the cup to the chief executive, was formerly a captain of Philippine scouts, later was Governor of Cavite, and is at present Inspector General of the Philippine Constabulary.

CUT DEPOSITS ON ENVELOPES

Postal Authorities Make Important Changes in Schedule of Rates.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Postmaster Flak announces an important change has been made by the department in regard to the sale of special request envelopes. Hereafter the person who ordered the envelopes was required to deposit the full amount of postage as well as cost of preparing the envelope. Under the ruling only the letter cost is deposited, about $1.24 a box. The postage is paid on delivery.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General A. L. Lawhe has issued the following regarding postal cards in sheets:

"Postmasters are hereby notified that the one-cent 'McKinley' postal card will be issued in sheets of sixty each, when so desired for printing purposes."

SIZE OF SHEET.

"The sheet will be five cards wide by twelve cards from top to bottom; the size of the sheet will be 27.5 by 35.5 inches."

"To be good for postage, the cards must be cut accurately to regulation size, 3.25 by 5.5 inches."

In answer to inquiry as to whether a hole may be punched in a postal card, Lawhe writes that a single hole not exceeding 6-16 of an inch in diameter for stamp purposes is permissible in a postal card, provided it is not placed in the stamp impressed thereon and the outer straight edges of the card are in nowise severed by the perforation.

Postmaster Flak has been notified that as the regulations authorize the pasting of thin sheets of paper on postal cards, those treated by bromine or other process of coloring may be accepted for mailing as postal cards.

PENSION LETTERS.

Postmaster-General Meyer has ruled that letters from a United States pension agency addressed to a pensioner or a payee of the pension (in whole or in part) of another person must be delivered to the addressee or to some member of his or her family specially authorized by him or her to receive them. If, however, the addressee has been declared mentally incompetent, they are to be delivered only to his or her duly appointed guardian. If the addressee being a pensioner has died, they are to be delivered only to the duly qualified and acting executor or administrator of his or her estate, or returned to the agency at the expiration of the time named in the card request. If there be no such executor or administrator, if the deceased addressee was not a pensioner, but the payee of the pension of another person, they are to be returned to the agency.

"What is most needed just now is that our citizens should realize how fundamental sound business conditions in this country are and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings instead of trusting perfectly sound banks."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, November 17.

CHICAGO, IN FAST GAME, LOSES TO CARLISLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Outrun, out-charged and out-thought, but not out-fought, Chicago's champions went down in defeat before the brave Carlisle today at Marshall field. Chicago can offer no excuses. Its team was completely outplayed in all departments of the game. The score, 18 to 4, shows the relative strength of the teams, no element of luck figuring in any way in the scoring.

Stagg's scoring machinery, which scored down all the Western opponents with ridiculous ease, looked like a model of 1900 as compared with the gridiron mechanism presented by the aborigines. Carlisle seemed to have everything at all times, while the Maroons played spasmodically, showing but occasional flashes of the brilliancy which placed them at the top of the Western teams.

CHICAGO OUTPLAYED. Chicago was outplayed at old style football and outclassed at the new open style of attack. Its feet backs could neither skirt the redskins' flank nor penetrate their line with any degree of consistency.

However, the cause of Chicago's rout cannot be attributed to its brilliant back field. The line, and the line alone, is to blame for the downfall. Stagg's weak forwards were woefully weak. The Indians poured through them with little opposition, the entire Carlisle team streaming down the field on kicks, making it next to impossible for the Maroons to regain any of the ground covered by punts. The redmen tore through the Chicago line and blocked Steffen's kicks. Three of the little quarterback's attempts to boot the ball out of danger were stopped, the aborigines taking the ball on each occasion. Twice they scored in a direct result of their ability to stop the punts.

FRAIGHT FOOTBALL.

That same bunch of sturdy red forwards made Chicago's long-heralded offense impossible. They were through before the plays were started and the fast and open style of attack was useless as the interference was bowled over before the ends were reached, leaving the runner unprotected. Before the game had progressed many minutes the fierce attack of the Indian forwards made the Maroons abandon for the most part the many variations of the forward pass planned for the humiliation of the redskins and rely on straight football, at which they were one of a great disadvantage.

GIANT DOES GOOD WORK.

In condemning the Chicago line, however, one man should be spared. "Boss" the giant Burman played a masterly game at left tackle, holding his own with the crafty Lubo, captain of the red men. He seldom boxed and was the only one to break through and both the Indians in their attempts to turn the Chicago flanks. Burman also contributed to the downfall. They failed in their attempts to protect Steffen in carrying back punts, leaving him to face both ends as well as most of the opposing line-men with no interference.

Score: Carlisle, 18; Chicago, 4.

Growth of Oakland.

When a Hayward delegate at the recent so-called Greater San Francisco consolidation convention, promoted and organized by real estate men there and that misnamed organization, the California Promotion Committee, in voicing his sentiments on the subject under consideration, made mention of the fact that the growth of Oakland and its suburbs had been so great of late years that it was practically one continuous city from the eastern shore of the bay to Hayward, he simply concisely presented the situation as it actually is today. To the San Francisco delegates, the statement was, of course, a surprise, for most of them have been doubtless too much engrossed with their local affairs to spare the time to make a personal inspection of the changes that have, during the past two or three years, taken place here, and the still greater changes that are in course of development. None of these represent rehabilitation, but absolutely new growth.

Indeed Oakland and its suburbs have been growing and are still growing so fast that their own residents are filled with astonishment. But when it is considered that Oakland is spending alone at the rate of about $15,000,000 a year in new buildings and other permanent improvements, without considering the many other millions of dollars the public service corporations are expending in order to adapt their respective properties to the new conditions, there is nothing really to be surprised at in the changes that have taken place or those which are being developed. Nor is there any reason to question the most optimistic views which may be cherished respecting the future. As one of the results of these changes, the major part of the permanent population around San Francisco bay is now located in the three cities on this side and their environs.

The effect of this growth in population, the invasion of new territory, the establishment of important industries, in which millions have been invested, and the erection of thousands of new homes, could not have been more clearly stamped on any community than it has been here during the recent period of unusual financial stringency. Most communities would have been paralyzed by it. With the exception of the temporary postponement of minor building improvements, until such time as coin will be in normal circulation, which the way things are shaping is only a matter of a very short period, the demand for home sites has not slackened. Some of the leading real estate brokers in town report that within the past two weeks this feature of the real estate market has been exceptionally active, and interest in property located in the business quarters has not diminished one whit; nor have the values dropped in the least, as is proved by a recent transaction on Broadway, involving the changing of hands of $400,000 and the prospective expenditure of $600,000 additional in new modern improvements. This is emphasized also by the projection of the erection of large business blocks, involving the expenditure of many hundreds of thousands of dollars on the outskirts of the old-time business quarter and the plans which are in course of development for the substitution of costly, massive, modern business blocks for old-time landmarks long out of date in the business heart of the city, some of which are now disappearing. For the comparative infrequency, as compared with the operations of a year ago, in realty sales in the old and new retail districts and in what is developing as a wholesale business district, there is a rational explanation. Owners have realized the value of what they possess and the future in store for the city, and they are holding on tenaciously to what they possess, with a positive assurance of higher values in store in the near future. It is simply a case of discovery on their part that, in the past, they have not had a proper appreciation of what they possessed, but have it now. Nothing can be more convincing of the effect of Oakland's recent great growth than the fact that at no time has there been the slightest indication of a slump in land values in any part of the city, and the large projects which are maturing for public and private improvements of the greatest importance to commerce are infallible signs of future advance in land values and further growth in population and business.

Is Our Merchant Marine Doomed?

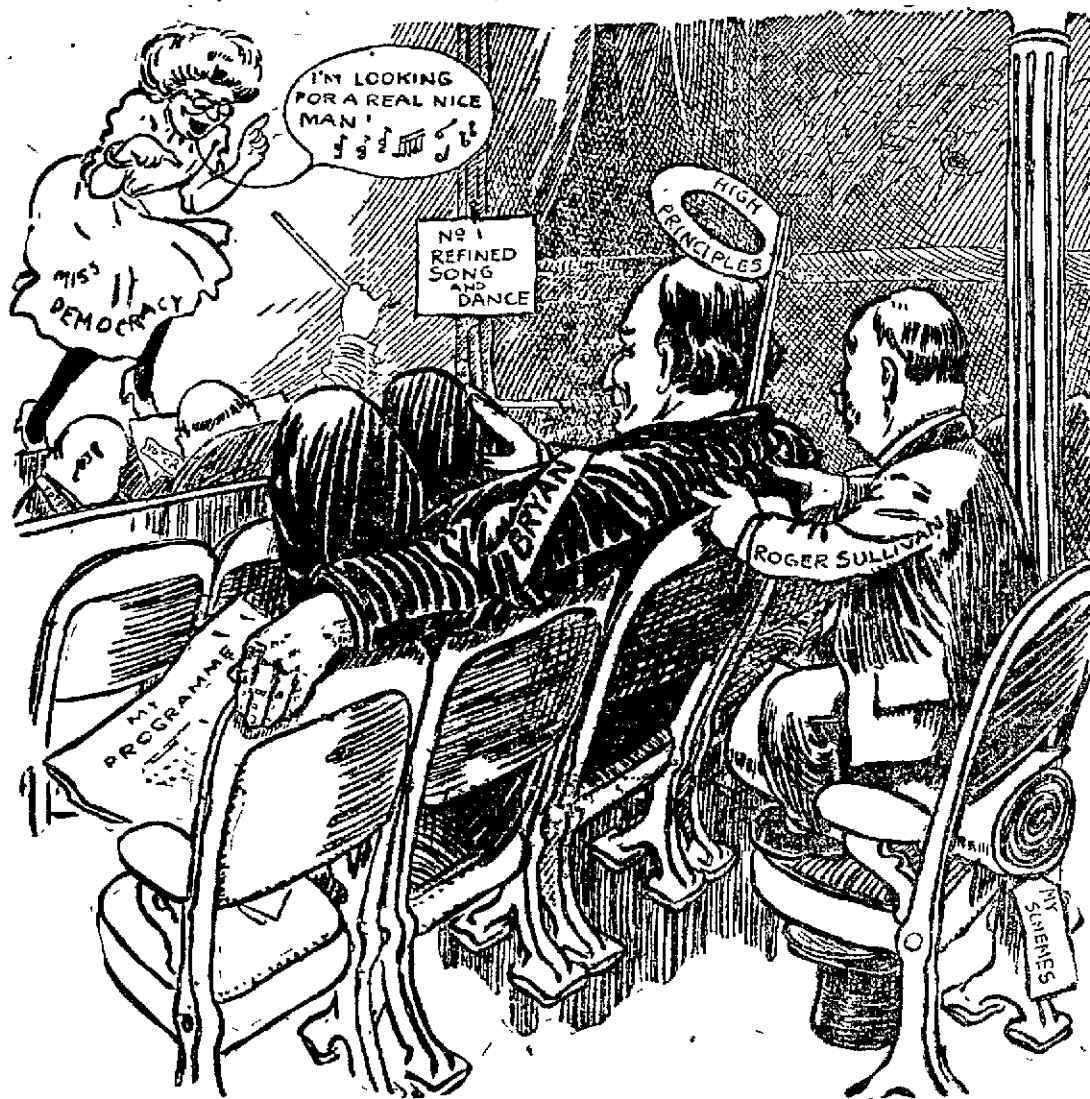

The informal announcement of Manager R. P. Schwerin that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will soon retire from the marine carrying trade will not be welcome news to the California business public. The Pacific Mail has been identified with the commerce of the Pacific Coast since the argonautic mining days; for nearly sixty years it has made the American flag familiar in the Orient and in the ports of Mexico and Central America, and it has been the one American company to contest with foreign shipping for the vast sea trade that has grown up between the United States and the Orient. While the company has been often impolitic, it has never been fairly appreciated. Out here it has invariably been judged by its faults and shortcomings; never by the benefits it conferred or the good things it did. Many years ago it became the fashion to abuse the Pacific Mail and to rail at its policy and management. The company was treated in a hostile spirit by the newspapers and the commercial public, and latterly it has had severe legal restrictions imposed on its operations. Mr. Schwerin says these restrictions so discriminate against American shipping in favor of foreign companies as to render it impossible for the Pacific Mail to profitably compete. It is to be hoped that Mr. Schwerin has overdrawn the picture and his company will continue to fly the flag of the American merchant marine in the Pacific ocean. At least one American steamship line should ply between San Francisco and the ports of China and Japan. Let us hope that the rage for regulation will not entirely drive the stars and stripes from the sea.

It is estimated by an expert that the total value of the un-mowed cotton crop of the South this year amounts to $900,000,000. We may be a trifle short of ready money, but so long as any section of the United States can show such enormously valuable resources the country is a long way from "going broke."

Money talks. Over $31,000,000 of gold has crossed the Atlantic from Great Britain, Germany and France since the financial flurry which has swept the country started in Wall Street. That amounts to a dollar for every man, woman and child in the United States. So much money ought to do considerable talking of the right kind these days and help to induce every fellow who has hidden his savings to cough up.

On the tenth of next month, Stockton will hold a Sunday closing election. The purpose of the movement is really to stop the sale of liquor on Sunday. Liquor dealers are actively opposing it, because they construe it as the entering wedge of prohibition, which is doubtless an extreme view of the case.

OBSTRUCTED VIEW

IF THE LARGE GENTLEMAN WOULD KINDLY REMOVE HIS HALO THE OTHER GENTLEMEN COULD BE SEEN BETTER.

The New Senate.

When Congress convenes next month, several Senators who have been conspicuous in the Upper House for a great many years will be missing as the result of either voluntary retirement, death or defeat in their respective State Legislatures. The death roll contains the names of Alger, Morgan and Pettus. Those who failed of re-election are Hiliard of Nebraska, Berry of Arkansas, Blackburn of Kentucky and Carmack of Tennessee. Those who have passed out of the Senate through voluntary retirement are Clark of Montana, Patterson of Colorado, Gearin of Oregon and Spooner of Wisconsin. The latter has been for many years a prominent leader in the Senate and one of its most influential members.

The new faces which will appear in the Senate to answer the roll call at the opening of the Senate in the coming session are Richardson of Delaware, Dixon of Montana, Curtis of Kansas, Briggs of New Jersey, Borah of Idaho, who has been conspicuous in the prosecution of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners accused of the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg; Boone of Oregon, Brown of Nebraska, Guggenheim of Colorado, who is a member of the American Smelting trust; Stevenson of Wisconsin, Smith of Michigan, who has served a short time as the successor of Alger by appointment; Davis of Arkansas, Taylor of Tennessee, Painter of Kentucky, and Bankhead and Johnson of Alabama, the successors of Morgan and Pettus, both of whom were retired by death.

Of these fifteen new Senators, ten are Republicans and five Democrats. They have succeeded eight Democrats and seven Republicans, which increases the Republican supremacy in the Senate for the next four years at least.

Tom Taggart says he is anxious to be relieved of his duties as chairman of the National Democratic committee. The committee ought to be glad to be relieved of the odium of having Taggart at its head. A man who runs a gambling resort is not a fit person to be the executive head of any political party. Taggart is a disgrace to even the poor old discredited Democracy.

The San Francisco Chronicle says the sentiment in favor of annexation is strong on both sides of the bay. Apparently the Chronicle has not sounded public sentiment in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. If the proposition were to call San Francisco West Oakland the scheme might receive favorable attention.

In proof of the prosperity that is upon the country among the tillers of the soil, two items are afloat in the newspapers that attract attention. One is the sale of sixteen million pounds of tobacco by a Kentucky firm to an English buyer for a million and a half dollars. The second item is that of a farmer in Oregon who sold this year's crop of wheat, off his 3000 acre farm, to the Pacific Elevator Company for $70,842.70.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

Squatter Titles in Los Angeles.

A squatter in possession of an old city cemetery, many years ago closed to burial, is one of the curious discoveries just made in Los Angeles. This squatter, who bears the ubiquitous name of Smith, is a son of a former caretaker of the cemetery, and has, through long familiarity with the burial of the dead, lost all fear of spooks, for he occupies a comfortable house, which he erected over the plot containing the graves of pioneer volunteer firemen. An effort has been made to eject Smith, but he claims title to the land through a tax deed which he holds.

Los Angeles has had lots of experience with squatters. Many of them took possession of pueblo tracts when the city exercised very little vigilance over its property, and years later, owing to the looseness in which the early records were kept and the indifference of the municipal authorities, they obtained title by railroading quit claim deeds through the common council, which an obliging or ignorant executive signed without investigation. Land in that city in those days was of little value. Thirty-six-acre pueblo tracts were, in fact, freely given in early times to bona fide settlers in order to encourage settlement. Some of these land gifts constituted the foundation of several modern fortunes.

In the early seventies the present court house site was held by a squatter—an old soldier, who followed the humble occupation of a bootblack and held possession to the hill, which was then needed as a site for a high school building, through the instrumentality of a sentry box, which constituted his home. All efforts to dispossess him failed, until he was finally arrested on a trumped up charge and lodged in jail. While he was awaiting a preliminary trial, which resulted in his acquittal, his sentry box and its contents were unceremoniously dumped into a neighboring street and a gang of laborers was put to work at once to grade the high school foundation. And he accommodately died, without heirs, shortly afterward, so the contest instituted for the recovery of the property was dropped. Possibly Squatter Smith will have to be similarly treated before the city will regain possession of its neglected pioneer cemetery.

A Vienna dispatch reports that owing to the success of experiments to cheapen the cost of the production of radium, made at the Imperial Academy of Sciences of that city, its value has been reduced from $3,000,000 to $1,000,000 per ounce. However, the precious mineral is not so plentiful but what John D. Rockefeller is quite capable of acquiring a monopoly of the supply and have still a big surplus to spare. If he doesn't do it, it will not be because he is overlooking the opportunity.

The financial boycott the Los Angeles banks attempted to declare against San Francisco was the most flagrantly, ungenerous manifestation of sectional meanness and jealousy that has yet come under our notice, and Los Angeles in the past has given some very raw examples of unfairness. Fortunately for the State at large the sharp kick-back warned the Southern financiers that they were reckoning without their host, and that they were likely to be by far the greatest sufferers from a severance of financial relations between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Still the effort of the Los Angeles bankers to injure the credit of San Francisco rankles and smarts.

GREAT DEFEAT OF MORMONS

Former U. S. Senator Sees Much Significance in Utah Election.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 23.—Former United States Senator Thomas Kearns, who has arrived here from Salt Lake City for a visit at his fine country home at Kenwood, near this city, sees much significance in the victory over the Mormons in the recent Mayoralty fight in Salt Lake City. He stated yesterday afternoon that the Mormons lacked only a few votes of being beaten two to one by the opposition party.

Senator Kearns regards this as an instance of what may be expected in future elections. Just before the election, Mrs. Kearns and some lady guests whom she was entertaining here, went to Salt Lake City to cast their votes.

Senator Kearns is stocking his big ranch with some fine cattle and sheep. He is taking much interest in legislation regarding the stamping out of tuberculosis in the dairy herds.

BIG TRANSPORT IN TIDAL WAVE

U. S. S. Thomas Returns Home After an Eventful Voyage From Honolulu.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The tidal wave that struck the Norwegian steamer Admiral Boreason during that vessel's voyage to Honolulu from Tacoma and, totally dismasted her was encountered by the transport Thomas on the way here from the Philippines, but no serious damage was done. The transport, which docked today, brought a number of cabin passengers and ten troops of the fourth cavalry, en-route to Fort Snelling and Fort Meade. The returning soldiers participated in the fighting last March at Jolo, when a number of men were lost during a battle with the Moros. Sixty-two blue jackets from vessels of the Asiatic fleet also arrived and were at once sent to the Mare Island navy yard. When 1500 miles at sea, the Thomas established wireless communication with the North Head, State of Washington.

EXPENSES OF SESSION SMALL

Legislature Costs but Little More Than Half of Sum Originally Estimated.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—It was supposed that the expense of the extraordinary session of the Legislature, which came to a close yesterday, would amount to $25,000. But such is not the case. Shortly prior to the final adjournment of the session at noon yesterday there had been filed in the office of Controller Nye claims aggregating only $18,015.19. This amount includes mileage, rent, salaries and supplies. It must be stated, however, that all the claims had not been filed, but it did not seem likely that when all the obligations assumed should be satisfied that the cost of the Legislature would reach the sum which it was thought the State would be justified in expending for the purpose of affording relief both to the courts and business which had been so ardently desired.

In this connection it may be stated that the mileage of the Senate amounted to $1500.40, and that of the Assembly to $1223.40. The wages of the attaches of each house was in the vicinity of $150 a day. Had the members of either house listened to the appeals of their friends, this sum could easily have swelled to enormous proportions. The Senators and Assemblymen, however, made up their minds that no person should, in this instance, draw money out of the State Treasury without giving a regular therefor, and as a consequence, the expenditure was kept down to the lowest possible figure.

Assemblyman Sackett of Ventura returned his warrant of $96 to the Controller, because he was in Sacramento when the Legislature adjourned. Bill of Los Angeles, who resides here now, also returned his warrant. Warrants for small amounts, such as $0 cents, were declined. In the upper house Senator Lukens of Alameda not only returned his mileage, but refused to accept his per diem.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS TO BE GUESTS OF HONOR

(Special to The Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 23.—On the evening of December 4th the recently organized Ladies' Club of Santa Rosa, Commandery will give its first reception in Masonic Hall in honor of the Sir Knights of Santa Rosa Commandery. Mrs. H. L. Tripp is the president of the Ladies' Club, and the committee is sparing no pains to make the affair a success. At the reception the Sir Knights will appear in full Templar regalia. Sir A. B. Herrick is the eminent commander of Santa Rosa Commandery, Sir J. H. Elmhorn, generalissimo; Sir H. C. China, captain-general; Sir J. H. Elliott, senior warden; Sir Herbert Slater, junior warden; Sir A. B. Lemmon, treasurer; and Sir B. M. Spencer, secretary.

JAP WIFE HAS ASKED DIVORCE

Asserts Husband Was Out With Other Women and Seeks Legal Separation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—One of the few cases of its kind that have ever been filed in this city was begun today when Tono Nakashima, sued Morisoburo Nakashima for divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The records of the local courts show that one or two Japanese divorce cases. The one filed yesterday is identical with many actions commenced by Caucasians, as Mrs. Nakashima says her husband remained away from home all night on one occasion, she believes in the company of other women. The couple have no children and no community property. They were married December 19, 1906. Nakashima is employed in a restaurant in Oakland. His wife asks the court to allow her to resume her maiden name, Tono Aki. Maude E. Till has sued Arthur W. Till, a real estate solicitor, for divorce. Till accuses her husband of slapping her.

ANOTHER CHARGE AGAINST AH CHING

A new complaint was made to the police yesterday against Ah Ching, the Chinese sneak thief, who was arrested on Thursday for stealing a bolt of goods from the Erbe Drygoods Company on Washington street. Mrs. C. Wessler of 911 Seventh street says that last week Ah Ching entered her store and purloined an umbrella for 50 cents. When she had her back turned she declares that the Chinese stole $16.50 from a counter and made his escape. A second larceny charge may be placed against the accused celestial.

TO TURN WASTE LANDS INTO VAST VINEYARDS

(Special to The Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 23.—A great movement has been started to turn hundreds of acres of land in Mendocino county into productive vineyards and the Mendocino County Vineyard Association has been incorporated with a capital stock of a million dollars for this purpose. The incorporators are John L. McNab, Frank L. Gaughey, F. M. Reader, Philo Handy and F. Handelin.

"What is most needed just now is that our citizens should realize how fundamentally sound business conditions in this country are and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings instead of trusting perfectly sound banks."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, November 17.

BERNARD SHAW ROASTS AMERICA

Scorae Flow From Volcanic Literary Lion Pours From Over Seas.

Again Bernard Shaw is scratching holes in the American constitution with a vitriolic pen. Again B. Shaw, plucking pinfeathers from the American bird of freedom.

Again Bernard, most spectacular and eruptive of literary volcanoes in the Old World, pouring a stream of denunciatory epigrams toward the New.

Again B. S., the brilliant, the abusive, rebelling himself on the American people for their alleged prudery in ringing down the curtain upon his pet play and the unpleasantness thereof.

This time a current magazine for December is made the vehicle of the famous dramatist's views of us.

AMERICAN TRUSTS.

Listen to this, after declaring us "A Nation of Villagers." "The trusts have suddenly shown the world the danger of the political imbecility of the American nation. That imbecility has been concealed for a whole century from Europe, and is still concealed from America itself, by the personal braininess and hustle of the American man of business, who indeed hustles so energetically that he never has time to get the simplest thing done in less than three months. But now that the social evolution of the United States has reached the point at which bright selfishness becomes a nuisance and all Americans must reform and enrich America, and enable America to reform and enrich the world, before they can reform or enrich themselves, their childish incapacity for any such task is becoming more and more apparent."

AND LIBERTY WAS ACCIDENT.

"America has never been successful in politics. It was made independent largely in spite of its own teeth by a declaration of sentiments which it did not share and principles which it barely grasped the narrow end of. Even today, neither its ordinary security nor its liberty is up to the monarchical standard of Central Europe. The famous constitution survives only because whenever any corner of it gets into the way of the accumulating dollar, it is pettishly knocked off and thrown away." Shaw pounces upon Anthony Comstock, denounces that official censor, and crumples his bones, after a savage snarl at "free love" and "race suicide."

SENSATION ON IN SOUTHLAND

Wholesale System of Alleged Chinese Immigration Graft is Charged.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Sensational revelations of an alleged elaborate system of graft, perpetrated by former officials connected with the United States immigration and Chinese bureau, upon a syndicate of Chinese engaged in illegally bringing their countrymen into the United States, is expected by Federal authorities as the result of the investigations just completed by Robert Taylor, special agent of the government, who has been in Southern California for several months gathering material to use against the alleged backers of the system.

United States Assistant District Attorney A. J. McCormick declares that the government was for months made the victim of a clever band of immigration inspectors, who not only sanctioned the smuggling of scores of Chinese across the Mexican line, but who extorted large sums of money from those in charge of the transportation of these Chinese on promise of immunity from punishment.

FURTHER CHARGES.
Not satisfied with these gains, it is said, these officials broke their word and repeatedly re-arrested the intruders, fleeing the syndicate heads out of even more money by threatening to deport those for whom they had already received large bribes.

The over-zealousness of the promoters in reaching for larger returns finally led to an investigation, during which the suspects are said to have fled the country. J. H. Jenkins, the inspector in charge of the local office, under whose administration the system was carried on, was replaced by A. C. Ridgeway of New Orleans, the present head of the department here. Officials state, however, the talent of graft is attached to Jenkins personally. He was removed for failure to detect these irregularities.

ONE RESIGNS.
Guy H. Tuttle, chief inspector under Jenkins, resigned several weeks prior to the exposure, and is thought to have gone to Honolulu, where detectives are now looking for him.

The disclosures form the missing link in the wholesale violation of the government's restriction laws. It was known in the District Attorney's office for some time that hundreds of Chinese were being smuggled into Southern California monthly. Investigation showed that ships were being sent out from Hongkong to the Mexican coast, where the Chinese were unloaded.

Then, according to an alleged agreement existing between the suspected immigration officials and the smugglers, the men were secretly hurried across the border without molestation. The payment for the supposed immunity from arrest passed through many hands before it reached those for whom it was intended, and so cleverly were the backs of the transients concealed by the maze of transactions through which the money passed that only those at the head were aware of who finally received the money.

COUNTY FUNDS ARE PLENTIFUL

County Clerk Cook States That There is Sufficient Money.

County Clerk John P. Cook said yesterday: "Considerable publicity has been given of late to the subject of the finances of Alameda County, and a general impression seems to have prevailed that by January 1, 1908, there may be a shortage in funds. In order to ascertain definitely just what the true condition was the finance committee of the Board of Supervisors, in conjunction with the District Attorney, made a careful examination of the accounts and ascertained that if rigid economy were practiced in all departments until January 1st there would be sufficient on hand at that time in all the funds to meet every legal charge against the county."

SAFE MARGIN.
"A later investigation developed the fact that there was $29,000 in the county general fund which had not been taken into consideration by them. As this amount is available for all purposes of current expenditure it should leave a safe margin."

"At the time of fixing the county tax the Board of Supervisors provided amounts in each fund sufficient to maintain the government in all its departments for the present fiscal year, eliminating all items which did not seem to be absolutely necessary."

MEET CLAIMS.
"All departments were notified that no claim would be allowed by the board unless the expenditures had first been approved by it. This policy has been consistently carried out and there is no reason why any valid claim of the county should not be met promptly out of the current funds."

"I can see no reason whatever for any concern on the part of any one to whom the county is indebted. The finances are in first-class condition and the only delay in the payment of these claims is the unavoidable one caused by the extension of time for the payment of the first installment of taxes."

SHOOTS WHEN DISCHARGED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—"Give me the money you owe me and give me my job back or you're a dead man," excitedly shouted Fred Goebel, a sign-painter, today as he stood in front of the desk of Edward Herwick at the latter's sign-painting establishment at 123 East Fourth street.

"Get out of here," said Herwick in reply. Quickly drawing a revolver, the infuriated man thrust it through the iron railing of Herwick's desk and fired four times point blank at the latter. Herwick collapsed and fell to the floor. One bullet passed through his left hand, injuring the bone. Another clipped off the end of a finger on his right hand. The other shots missed. Herwick's collapse was almost complete and until a physician had been called believed himself fatally wounded.

Goebel sprang down the aisle between the rows of desks and ran into the street. He fled to Los Angeles street, and although closely pursued by attaches of Herwick's office and officers, succeeded in escaping. Goebel had been employed by Herwick on November 14, but was discharged for alleged incompetency after a few hours' work.

CALLERS FOR FUNERAL MET BY "DEAD" BRIDE

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mrs. Anton Sebesta of 449 West Erie street, Chicago, who became the bride of a Chicago druggist several months ago, and who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sedlak, 2719 Mississippi avenue, was the victim of a fake death notice that appeared in a St. Louis newspaper yesterday. Flowers began to arrive, and many acquaintances of the family called to attend the funeral. Several of the sorrowing friends were met by Mrs. Sebesta herself.

Mrs. Sebesta was Mary Sedlak until her marriage. She had several suitors in St. Louis. The family dislikes to believe one of them had the death notice published, but it is evident it was inserted by some one familiar with the affairs of the Sedlaks.

"The father of the bride says he will prosecute the faker if he can be found."

SEGREGATION.
"Aren't you afraid of these Wall street panics?"
"Not so long as they follow the modern custom and confine themselves to Wall street."

LAW ENDORSES COURT OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Michigan students guilty of light misdemeanors hereafter will be tried in a special court in which their fellow collegians will be judges, instead of going before the city courts and getting "soaked" in the limit in fines. The body before which they will appear is the senior council, composed of fourth year men.

The arrangement for the special court was effected today by a conference of the president of the council, chief of the city police and President Angell, who has pledged his word to enforce the decisions of the council against students to the extent of expelling those found guilty and unwilling to abide by the verdict against them.

HOLIDAY GOODS RICH IN ATTRACTIVE LOCAL STORES

Judicious Purchasers Begin Shopping Early

If you intend buying any Christmas gifts—and all right-minded people do—buy them now, as the advice of experienced shoppers. The stores have their holiday novelties in stock, and now before the Christmas rush begins and before the pretty things have all been bought by wiser persons, just take a trip downtown. There is no time to lose. This is especially so if you wish to avoid many inconveniences. The less the shopkeepers, the less the time you don't intend doing your shopping in as well as close your doors for nonbusiness, or masculine person either, would consider an unbroken Christmas gift.

If the recipient of the gift be feminine, whether she be mother, aunt, sister or "she," you can find something suitable for the very highest. The first article that one shopper saw was a fine blue book. It was a copy of a book with little compartments within for engagement reminders, receipts, fads and cards, and was given away with quotations on the back and pictures of pretty girls on the front. All sorts of calendars and desk sets that she could be sure to like are shown.

IN GREAT VARIETY.
The newest sets are in crystal, with brass trimmings, and include book racks, letter racks, stamp boxes, paper cutters, inkstands and penholders. Then there are pretty brass sets in old shapes and a new novelty pattern of inlaid and holly enameled on polished brass. A man might prefer something sturdier and sturdier for his desk, but the daintily elaborate sets appeal more to a woman.

Then, of course, there are umbrellas, some of which are made this year with adjustable handles that are so convenient for traveling. With silver handles and silver tips made of silk, they are pretty gifts. If a man is buying an umbrella for himself it is rumored that he has been known to pay more than $50 cents, marked down from $1, and it is said that the ones with elaborate buckskin and club handles are scarce.

In the leather department is an abundance of suggestions. Pocketbooks in all sizes, from the small vanity bag, with a powder puff and mirror, to the large carrying bags, that are big enough to hold a week's necessities. They are in all leathers, including morocco, tan, orchid, pleasin, alligator and snake. The range of clocks and cases for bric-a-brac, including bottles and toilet articles are often convenient.

GLOVES.
Gloves, too, are always acceptable gifts. It is said that the vogue of the long glove is over, and that folks are buying short white gloves instead. Something nice for a man is a shaving set of mirror, brush and mug, finished in leathers and nickel frames.

A dainty gift for a woman is jewelry. Jade is the new and popular fad in this department. It is like the old-fashioned set on that our grandmothers wore and comes in brooches, necklaces and buttons. Some of the card cases there is a new one called the lapels. It is round in all colors and is particularly pretty in light buckles. Fancy touches are popular in combs. There are sets of combs trimmed with cameo heads and fancy stones. The prettiest combs are those of carved shell in the old Spanish pattern with fancy barrettes to match.

Then there are opera bags, studded elastic belts (lans and solid silver purses and card cases. Some of the card cases are adorned with beautiful mermaids, which means that they are designed for use in the bath.

DAINTY LINENS.
In the linen department are hundreds of beautiful things. The shops are making a specialty of sets of tablecloth and napkins to match. The tea cloths, lunch cloths and doilies of hand embroidered linen are exquisite. One shop exhibits beautiful lunch cloths of fine lace and embroidery set in squares and according to metropolitan designs. The handkerchiefs are prettier than ever and are embroidered in initials and dainty French designs. For men there are large colored ones, in effective patterns and some are also using the colored ones with tailored suits.

FOR THE MEN.
For the men himself it is only necessary to go into the men's department and see their jackets, bedroom slippers, ties, vests—which last, by the way, are considered good form to give one's gentleman friend—and even slippers in pastel shades to please the woman buyer, and in reds and blues and follows the masculine color. The slippers are quite fascinating and are done up in small boxes adorned with holly and things.

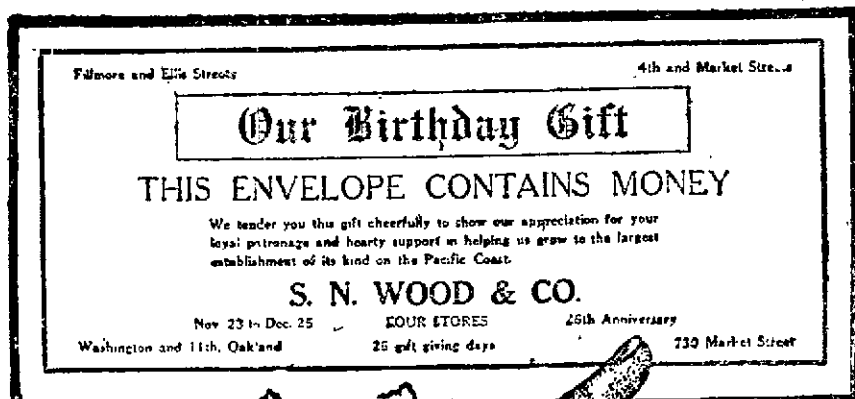

There was once a gift to the shoekeeper said who had bought an uncle an ash tray every year for 15 years, and who this year decided to vary her gift and purchase a smoking sock. She told the salesman that he took a 10 stocking, so would he please give her a jacket that would fit. The salesman said that this way of guessing a size is one of woman's universal accomplishments, and that it necessitated only the trouble of always changing the purchase at the request of the masculine recipient.

"Indeed," said the shoekeeper, "was exchange after Christmas almost everywhere that the women have made for the husbands. Women really have no taste in buying men's clothes."

Then, being a man himself, he was not supposed to have an idea of the taste men show in selecting women's clothes.

INSECTS ATE THROUGH LEAD.
In the Vienna mint the leaden walls of a reservoir containing sulphuric acid, although 48 millimeters, or about 1.7 inches thick, were eaten through by an insect. The leaden gas pipe in a cafe was also damaged in like manner. Such damage is due to a sort of wood wasp, of which there are many sorts in Central Europe. The largest of these, the black and yellow giant wood wasp, resembles the true wasp.

Activity of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League Is Disturbing the Politicians

THE KNAVE

Alex Greggains, the New King of the Tenderloin; Gumshoe Ethics Are Violated

SAN FRANCISCO, November 23. — Word comes from Sacramento that the Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers are very active around the Legislature. Daniel A. Ryan, Ralph Hathorn and others held a meeting there on Thursday night, and there have been constant executive sessions of the League members of the Legislature. They have been making faces at the Governor and a good deal embarrassing his administration. The regulars are gnashing their teeth at them and calling names.

In return the Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers have been threatening members that if they did not come in under the League tent they would be killed off politically next fall. There is no denying that these threats have had much effect. It has been hard to hold the old organization forces together. Some of the Senators and many of the Assemblymen have said in excuse for breaking away from the old control:

"The League is very powerful up my way, and I want a renomination next year. They threaten to kill me off if I don't train with them this session."

And so the fight is on and is getting more and more bitter every day. To be sure the League got to calling Dan Ryan bad names when he ran for Mayor, but now that Taylor has been elected, Ryan has been forgiven and he is to be supported in his effort to hold control of things in this city. Again he is regarded as the backbone of the opposition movement — the Moses of the exodus from the Herrin corral. In fact, "without him what's the band?" If Ryan cannot keep control in San Francisco the League movement must continue as merely a minority opposition.

There is a strange dearth of candidates for the Railroad Commissionership, vacated by the malodorous Andrew M. Wilson. Now this is a fine place, with a good salary, free passes on all railroads, and nothing to do but keep Jud Brunsie in his job as secretary. But there has been no rush to reach out and grab the plum.

Perhaps this is because there was a general notion that State Senator Eddie Wolfe was slated for the place. Wolfe has been a fairly good programmer and has earned recognition. Then, too, he is not in the very best possible shape politically in his Senatorial district.

He has been representing the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eight Assembly districts, and has held the place for three terms. He lived in and controlled the Thirty-eighth district; but the Thirty-seventh grew to be the larger and controlling district of the two. There began to be a clamor in the Thirty-seventh for the Senatorship, and so Wolfe very wisely moved from the Thirty-eighth into the Thirty-seventh. But he doesn't control that district and by moving away has lost control of the Thirty-eighth. Consequently it was deemed advisable to give him the Railroad Commissionership and avoid complications over his renomination to the Senate.

But Governor Gillett does not seem to have been advised of this programme, and no more does Wolfe himself. Before he left for Sacramento Wolfe told his friends he was not a candidate for Railroad Commissioner and that his ambition centered on being returned to the Senate. The Governor said this week to one of his friends at Sacramento that he never had heard the name of Wolfe mentioned for the place. So the crop of candidates should become larger from now on.

The regulars are having a fling at the Lincoln-Roosevelt League these days by saying the opposition is being organized in the interest of Ed. T. Earl for United States Senator. The charge is made that the Los Angeles millionaire fruit man is putting up the money for the League and that he expects the Senatorship as his reward. He is a holy man of prayer, brother of former Senator Guy C. Earl of your county, and has long been spoken of as a man who might like to go to the Senate.

But Pardee and Belshaw and De Young will not be very warm for the League if they find that Earl is to have the inside track in the Senatorship race. And perhaps it is just for the sake of alienating the friends of the other candidates that the Organization men have started the story about Earl.

The tenderloin of this city appears to be now in the absolute control of the "Big Three." The persons instituting this interesting group are Detective and otherwise Chief of Police William J. Burns, president of the Police Commission Charles Sweigert and Aleck Greggains. Burns, who has expressed a desire to capitalize himself before returning East, appears to be the head of this remarkable group. Sweigert, as president of the Police Commission, is the "whole thing" in connection with that Board.

Sweigert is credited to James D. Phelan as a political asset of the ex-Mayor. For several years the Police Commissioner has been on the Democratic stump for others and for himself as candidate for Supervisor in which latter campaign he was unsuccessful. He has gained the title of "Windy," possibly because of his being so prolific of oratorical effort that he resembles an aeolian harp in his speeches, being produced by atmosphere.

Greggains, the one time pugilist, but who subsequently found it more profitable to have others do the fighting while he promoted the game from the box office, has succeeded "Kid" Sullivan, he being to the new combination what the "Kid" was to Chief Dinan. Where the gamblers and other law breakers of the redlight section were accustomed to say "Go and see the 'Kid,'" they now advise those wishing to open a crap game, start a hand-book or obtain any special privilege in the half-world, to "Go and see Aleck Greggains."

That it pays those that prey on the unwary in the redlight zone to "go and see 'Kid' Greggains" is indicated by the fact that crap games that were tabooed are being opened again and other games are slowly but surely being given "protection." Week before last there was a moral flurry in the Tenderloin and some of the gambling houses where "Black Jack" was being played, were ordered to close. But now conditions are easing up a little for the gamblers and craps and other gambling games are being opened at different points by those with a sufficient "pull" to secure the privileges. On Fillmore street the tariff charged for these privileges is reported to be twenty-five per cent of the receipts. One specially favored gambling house is situated back of a cigar store on Fillmore street, between Ellis and Eddy. More than 300 keys have been issued to patrons of this joint. Here it is said one can get any kind of a game he wishes. This den is reputed to have the special favor of the new combination because its proprietors, while assuming to be friendly to the Ruef-Schmitz administration, were all the time acting as "stoolpigeons" for the special graft prosecution and keeping it informed on gambling and other conditions in the redlight zone.

The old resorts of iniquity on the "Barbary Coast" are being reopened under the protection of the reform administration, so-called. The notorious place called the "Municipal Crib," at 620 Jackson street, and with which the graft prosecution sought to connect Mayor Schmitz, Abe Ruef and others, is now being run at full blast under the protecting wing of the municipal government appointed by that same prosecution. In fairness to the reform officials it should be stated that the place has changed its name. No longer is it called the "municipal brothel," but is officially referred to as a "parlor house." This change of designation seems to meet all the requirements of civic righteousness as dealt in by the prosecution although the purposes to which the den is devoted are the same as when it was being attacked by these same purists. In addition to the change of name, it is related that the collectors of tolls, or percentages, from the wages of sin have also been changed, which possibly adds to the purity of the purpose in permitting the place to run.

"Wisely, the Police Commissioners have refrained from delimiting precisely the territory within which their rule will be more lenient than in the residence districts. Lower Pacific street, however, and its environs will be a sort of Alsatia, where no one need go who is not looking for what he will find."

Oh, what a difference in our morals when we run the police machine ourselves!

William H. Langdon has gone East for a visit. That the District Attorney should leave his post of duty at this time, when the trial of Tiley L. Ford is pending, might cause comment by those not familiar with the situation. The fact is it makes little difference whether Langdon is here or not, the balance of advantage to the State being in his absence. His incompetence is so notorious that fewer blunders, on behalf of the People, are liable to be made while he is away, although the part he has played in the trial of the cases for which his department was turned over to a special prosecution was insignificant.

Nominally, Langdon has gone to New York to deliver a lecture before the Civic Forum Club on "Municipal Government as the Modern Problem of Democracy." Langdon will be given a fee of $250 and his expense for the outburst of eloquence with which he is expected to thrill the people of the metropolis. As his salary will run along here just the same as though he was attending to his official duties, and the term of the contract or agreement under which he relinquished his office to a private and personal prosecution has not expired, his absence will not be noticed and much less felt, except it be to work a benefit to the city.

Among those announced to lecture before the Civic Forum during the season are Governor Hughes of New York; Secretary of War William Taft and William Jennings Bryan and Governor Folk of Missouri. "Old Muley" will indeed find himself in select company, which probably accounts for his accepting the low rate of $250 for neglecting his duties here to dazzle the East with the effulgence of his oratory, and possibly gain a national reputation as a reformer of municipal graft. While it may not be worth $1 a ticket to hear Langdon lecture, it will undoubtedly be well worth that price of admission to view him as an exhibit of the San Francisco graft prosecution.

What Langdon will do when he shall have been paid off by the lecture bureau is indicated in a shadowy suggestion by himself that he is going to Washington, D. C. There he will probably do a little politics and seek additional applause for his mighty work of reform.

Francis J. Heney has announced that he, too, is going to Washington in about ten days. So the two great men will be in the National Capital at the same time and yet, strange as it may appear, the residents may not discover the fact. As Langdon is regarded as a candidate for Governor and Heney for United States Senator, there does not seem to be much left for Rudolph Spreckels, who hires them. Possibly the Baron, and it has been so announced, will be content with a portfolio in the President's cabinet. There is little else in the open for the Baron except it be the Presidency itself, which some of the sycophants that follow in his wake have urged him to contend for—not next year, but four years hence. Possibly Heney will go East to jog President Roosevelt's memory in respect to the cabinet position for the Baron. The latter may have suggested that his special prosecutor make good on this line of political advancement as a reward for his alleged financial sacrifices for municipal purity.

The appeal of Eugene E. Schmitz from the sentence of Superior Judge Dunne to five years in San Quentin for having extorted $5000 from the French restaurants for their liquor licenses, and which is now pending before the District Court of Appeals, is of direct interest to others than Schmitz. One of the contentions of the defendant, as presented by his lawyers, is that no public offense was charged in the indictment. They assert that as any person was at liberty, under the law, to oppose the issuing of such liquor licenses, no public offense or crime would be committed by a person taking a fee for using his influence to secure a license for a restaurant keeper. Should the Court of Appeals decide in favor of this contention it will sweep Ruef's plea of "guilty" to the same charge off the legal board, for the former political boss will have pleaded to an act that did not constitute a public offense and, consequently, was not a crime.

George Hess, one of William J. Burns' leading gumshoe men, has disappeared from his haunts in the Tenderloin. By some it is said that Hess has gone back to New York, while others suggest that he is in Los Angeles gumshoeing on the libel cases that grew out of the graft prosecution. When Hess first appeared on the scene of local reformation by private political prosecution, he was hailed as a "Greek god" and many were the stories related of his being a graduate of a law school of Washington, D. C., who sought excitement in trapping moonshiners in the south.

He was assigned by Chief Burns to the honorable and responsible, if not fascinating, post of body-guard to Francis J. Heney to see that no harm befell the Assistant District Attorney in the city of his nativity which he announced he had come to save. Hess soon made acquaintances and became a popular and well-known figure in the redlight zone. He also, with equal rapidity, wearied of the arduous duties of protecting the sunny Heney from harm. From this grave responsibility he sought and was granted relief, being assigned to less arduous duties.

Recently the Tenderloin was agog over the rivalry between Hess and Prince Salmon of Tahiti for the favors of a maiden of that section. While the dusky Prince's funds were plentiful Hess was de trop with the fair one, but as soon as the Polynesian sprig of royalty from Tahiti was forced into temporary retirement for the non-payment of an automobile bill, Hess was once more allowed to bask in the smiles of the fickle one.

But strange as it may seem, Hess lost caste with his associates, they claiming that he had violated the ethics of gumshoe society by permitting himself, a distinguished bodyguard to the no less distinguished Heney, and confidential whisperer to Billy Burns, to enter into competition with a "coon" for the favors of even a belle of the redlight zone. Hess was coldly received by the secret service men and even Burns is reported to have treated his one time confidential Vidocq with a frigidity that caused the latter to realize that he had violated the ultra-strict rules of select gumshoe society beyond repair. Hess in his disappointment and despair is said to have sought relief in the gay whirl of Broadway, New York, although a brief sojourn in the City of Angels may work the desired cure and enable his associate detectives to forgive his gross violation of the ethics.

There is a distinct rumor on Fillmore street that Hess' departure was merely a move in practical finance. It is whispered that the salaries of the operatives of the graft prosecution have not been paid, if paid at all, during the past three weeks, with a celerity that inspires confidence in gumshoe circles. During the present financial stringency the item of expense in the bills of revenge of the graft prosecution is alleged to have been quite difficult to meet and as a result the circumstances have been resting on their oars, if not on their laurels, since the beginning of the bank holidays.

Lawrence J. Dolan, or "Larry Dolan" as he is familiarly called, the recently elected Sheriff of San Francisco, furnishes a good example of the aphorism—"It pays to be loyal to one's friends." "Larry" has consistently lived up to this maxim and now gives illustration that it applies to politics as well as other affairs of life. Dolan keeps a saloon in the Mission district and is an extremely popular man in his environment. His ability to make friends has frequently been commented upon. He controls the Democratic politics of the Thirty-third Assembly district, and his influence even runs over into adjacent political subdivisions. As a district boss he has always turned his delegation into the McNab machine and he is the personal friend and loyal supporter of the "Big Chief."

There have been many efforts made to disrupt these relations. When the organization known as the "Horse and Carts" was in full swing James H. O'Brien, the leader of that machine, Mayor Schmitz, and many other interests, not exclusive of a leading paper, sought to induce "Larry" to contribute his influence to the cause of the animal and vehicle party. The unvarying reply of Dolan was: "But I have signed with McNab," and with that Democratic boss he stood through that and subsequent campaigns.

When the conference committee of the Democratic and Good Government organizations met to put up a joint ticket and the office of Sheriff was reached McNab presented the name of his loyal supporter, Larry Dolan. Baron Spreckels demurred but to no avail. It was Dolan or trouble with McNab, and the man from the Thirty-third was given the nomination for Sheriff and has been elected, thereby typifying the maxim in relation to the rewards that may follow from "standing pat" in politics as well as other games of life.

The story of Larry Dolan's political policy that paid, recalls an incident that recently occurred at the Family Club, as related by one of the members of that social organization. James H. O'Brien, the leader of the once conspicuous "Horses and Carts," had been chatting with Superior Judge Lawlor. As O'Brien moved to another part of the house, a member inquired of the Judge: "Is that not the man who had some trouble about a 'hosecart' at one time?" For such is political fame.

As January, 1908, at which time the candidates elected on November 5 will take municipal office, approaches, it becomes more and more apparent that the so-called Good Government League will sit down to a Barmecide feast. If that organization elected anything or anyone to an office of importance, patronage or prestige, the returns have not indicated it. Their's was an imaginary victory at the polls for all that was worth having in political office went to the friends of Gavin McNab. During the confinement to the house of the latter, because of the injuries he sustained in a runaway, nothing will be done by the officials-elect in respect to the distribution of the loaves and fishes. It is believed that McNab will have sufficiently recovered, long before January 1, to once more take an active part in the game of politics as it is to be played in San Francisco during the next two years.

The Citizens' Alliance is reported to be much perturbed over the recent fierce denunciation of their organization by the usually mild Dr. Taylor, who the members thought they had contributed much toward electing Mayor. In a speech before the Alumni of St. Ignatius College, Dr. Taylor said:

"I have seen a circular advocating the recrudescence of the Citizens' Alliance. If the Citizens' Alliance wants more trouble it can get it. All the power that my office confers upon me I shall use in crushing it out."

A committee of fifteen members of the Alliance has been appointed to ascertain whether there is to be a public execution of the organization on a day set. The committee waited on Dr. Taylor but the latter delayed the interview, stating that he would set a subsequent day for the meeting. The members of the Alliance are very urgent in their inquiry as to whether their annihilation is to be by placing them in a rock crusher or whether they are to be pulverized in a quartz mill.

The Citizens' Alliance, being a private organization of merchants, are skeptical in regard to the power of the Mayor to either disband or crush them. Since the doom of the Alliance was sealed by the good Dr. Taylor the members have become quite quizzical and will insist upon a bill of particulars from the Mayor. If they cannot get a reprieve they will demand that they, at least, be given an opportunity to prepare for their awful exit by crushing, at the command of the new Lord High Executioner.

Dr. Taylor, in his sonnets, has allowed his fancies to run to love and not war, to gentle dalliance in a lady's boudoir rather than the din of battle. Consequently he has avoided a meeting with the committee of the Alliance, which has Andrew Carrigan as its chief. Late last week the good Doctor made a concession. He agreed to meet three, not the whole fifteen, of the committee some day this week when he shall not be otherwise engaged in delivering law lectures or furnishing atmosphere at banquets. The meeting between the sonneteer and the business men should prove entertaining.

That there should be an abundance of small change in San Francisco was indicated by a statement made last week by Thornwell Mullaly. The enemies of the United Railroads have been active in circulating a report that that corporation in refusing to accept Clearing House certificates for fares was endeavoring to corner all the small silver in this city. It appears from the statement of Mullaly that in refusing to accept the new paper currency the company acted on the advice of Homer S. King, President of the Clearing House, and other bankers and with the purpose of keeping small silver in general circulation. The receipts of the railroad company are daily deposited with the Bank of California and Wells Fargo-Nevada National Bank and if the small silver is not in circulation it is for the reason that it, as well as gold, is being hoarded by those two financial institutions.

The United Railroads has been paying off in coin right along, refusing to either pass pay days or to pay off in certificates. It has been a good thing, too, for retail business as well as for the carmen, for it has kept in circulation a vast quantity of silver and small gold that current trade very much demands at present.

There has been some talk about the Federal Government taking legal exception to the Clearing House certificates of deposit issued by the local banks in that Association. It is believed in banking circles that there is little danger of this. It is said that the form or phrasing of the paper currency was the work of a no less expert in the law of the country than United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin. That the State will take no adverse action relative to the circulation of this paper money is indicated by the fact that both Governor Gillett and Attorney General U. S. Webb gave their approval before the issue was delivered to the bank for circulation among the public.

It is reported that Heney and Spreckels are going to Washington shortly and while there will make a concerted attack on Robert T. Devlin, United States District Attorney, and through him on Senator Perkins. The ground of the attack on Devlin will be that his firm was for years retained by the Southern Pacific. Perkins will be accused of having Devlin appointed to protect Southern Pacific interests.

It will be remembered that Heney recently assailed Senator Perkins and Mr. Devlin in a speech at Sacramento. He did not threaten to send them to jail as he did with General Otis of Los Angeles, but he pledged himself to their political extinction.

He is ordinally ambitious politically, and he is deadly jealous of Devlin because the latter so easily convicted John A. Benson and Dr. Perrin, Heney's brother-in-law, of land frauds. Heney had found Benson an exceedingly difficult nut to crack, but Devlin convicted him without flourish of trumpets or spectacular gallery plays on the side. He tried Benson and Perrin as a matter of course and without resort to the peculiar tactics characteristic of the Heney method of prosecuting. Hence his signal victory has produced a feeling of jealous resentment in the mind of the Great Prosecutor, who really wanted Devlin to fail and has been sore ever since because he didn't.

Now the President will be confidentially told that Devlin is no good, and Benjamin Ide Wheeler will be called to prove it.

CAR SHORTAGE PROBLEM SOLVED BY CARD SYSTEM

S. P. Method Trails All Loads and Employs

The Southern Pacific's new card record system, which has been in operation in West Oakland for the past year will do away with the car shortage problem as soon as it is universally adopted on the Harriman lines.

The principal result obtained is that of getting the number of cars now in operation to do about 20 per cent more business. This is accomplished by a follow-up system, which watches each car separately, sees that each one is promptly unloaded and again reloaded.

The experience all over the country has been that it takes five and one-half days to release a car after it has been loaded. The knocking of one day off this average would mean an immediate increase of one-fifth of all freight equipment available.

In the event of a blockade on any section of the line, during which a large number of cars accumulate, it has always been a matter of difficulty to break the blockade and get back to normal conditions.

Under the new method there is no trouble whatever. Every car in the yard is under surveillance. The rush freight is sorted automatically and it is only a question of power available until all cars are traveling toward their destination.

The Pennsylvania system appointed a commission of chief clerks about a year ago to inaugurate some such system as this, and as a result of their labors, inaugurated the card record system at several of their larger stations. Officials of various roads who have inspected the method in operation in West Oakland claim the local system is vastly superior.

HANDLING EMPTRIES.
A feature of the system which out-shippers. From the company's point of view the system is also satisfactory on account of the enormous reductions in special expenses, which amounts to over 50 per cent.

This system was invented by Richard J. Barry, systematizer on the Southern Pacific, and extended and improved by Florence M. Driscoll, terminal agent at West Oakland, and Charles F. Muller, chief clerk at West Oakland.

The card system is being instituted at San Francisco, San Jose and Tracy. Officials are now considering the formation of divisional car record offices, where accounts will be kept of all cars from the moment they strike the division till they leave it for another one, the arrival being wired to central office and also all subsequent data either on car or its loads.

Oakland shippers have noticed the benefits of the new plan, as also do San Francisco merchants who receive freight through Oakland, as all cars for the former place are forwarded as fast as they arrive.

SCOTT APPROVES.

W. R. Scott, who is now assistant general manager, approved of the scheme from the start.

He says the results brought about by the Barry system have outdone the most sanguine expectations of its originators. When first started it met with disfavor, as men were afraid such a radical change could not be carried out without putting matters in a mudhole, but from the first day it gained in favor and at the present time everyone is pleased with it.

Starting the new system involved a huge amount of work, as a nature of the method changed the routine of every desk in the office, and in order to give the matter a good trial it was necessary to start an office of over 100 men on new jobs in one day, and at the same time do so without damaging the service. Not a hitch was experienced, trains moved promptly and from the first day's working the system was an assured success.

The net results accomplished are:

First—The starting of all freight trains at exact time called for.

Second—Train being checked up there is no delay for conductor to do it.

Third—Movements of cars recorded immediately all queries are promptly answered.

Fourth—Push, direct, or special orders being registered ahead, cars are tagged and switched on arrival so as to insure fast movement.

Fifth—All cars being checked up, there is no longer any "no dope" or "maverick" cars, a result which was impossible under the old method.

Sixth—All cars being recorded on cards and same sorted in cases in exact order, any record of car movements whether an hour or a year old, can be found readily in a few seconds.

Seventh—As each load is recorded individually and is kept under surveillance continually the cars are released in the shortest possible time, thus making an increase of available equipment.

Eighth—Empty cars being segregated by capacity and routing, better results in loading to capacity and in home direction are achieved.

Ninth—Rush or perishable freight being recorded in duplicate and records of same handled by different clerks, it is next to impossible for orders to be overlooked.

Tenth—On arrival of trains all cars are tagged with symbol cards showing destination, thus allowing switchmen to immediately break up trains and sort cars on proper tracks.

Thus a green ball tag orders a car on tracks where train is made up. For industrial tracks about Sixteenth street green ball with a green tail orders the car in same direction, but beyond Sixteenth street a red S says car is for San Francisco, and so on for every possible destination. Result of this scheme insures prompt movement of all cars and at a greatly reduced cost.

THE OLD WAY.

The old way was to chalk destination on side of car and when it rained this was washed off. Even if it did not rain it was hard to decide which was the latest destination.

Eleventh—Waybills being sorted by desination and indexed by last number of car trains are checked up in a few minutes.

Twelfth—Home routing of cars being recorded on cards with other information, loss of route cards entails no delay. As a proof of the accessibility of records, one O. S. & D. clerk who hunts up information on claims can do as much work as ten men hunting for some information where the old book system is in use.

PRACTICAL TEST.

A practical test of over twelve months in a large station like West Oakland, where over 50,000 separate car records are made monthly, has demonstrated the superiority of this system over any yet tried on this class of work. In the period mentioned there has been a large increase in the number of cars handled, thus making a further reduction, as under the book system a large number of clerks would be needed for the increased work. The movement of freight is facilitated and a smaller amount of equipment is needed.

The reduction in the amount of cases from claims caused by delay to perishable goods is great. A comparison of the amount lost under this head since the introduction of this system with a similar period of time under the book system will in itself prove argument sufficient for the universal introduction of the new system. Before starting in to explain how the records are handled in addition to data carried in the books the cards carry also records of movements to and from Kirkham street, the transfer platform, the P. L. and West Oakland points, as well as all cannon ball movements in and out. The card records of movements to and from Mission Bay and Vallejo street are kept.

Waybills made at West Oakland are registered in the same manner and all these things tend to make a complete record of all cars and waybill movements, a thing which was utterly impossible under the book method.

SUPERSEDE BOOKS.

The cards supersede the following books: Incoming and outgoing trainmaster's books, incoming and outgoing terminal number books (two of each were necessary so that more than one clerk could work at them at the same time and each had to have all records). The cards also carry all train register data. If necessary cards could be made to show scale and weights as well as track location.

When a train arrives in the yard the conductor hands into the office his bunch of waybills together with a switch list showing the cars in his train. It is immediately taken by clerk on incoming desk, who checks each car against special order list and makes out indication cards to be nailed on the cars. As he passes each waybill it is taken by clerk who makes records and the clerk writes all necessary data on the cards as on sample.

Every point on which a record is ever needed is jotted down for each car till the whole train is worked and waybills given to clerk on outgoing desk, a process which usually takes about twenty minutes for a 45-car train.

Cars are next handed the clerk on case, who sorts them away in his live or yard case, indexing them by three numbers, the initial and two terminal. In this manner the cars in the yard are segregated by 900 guides, for instance S. P. 7242 would be placed in section 7 behind guide 42. If there be other cards in the same place the smaller number is placed in front.

Before a train leaves the yard it is first listed and waybills picked out for each car in exact order for cars in train, and on train departing the number of same, name of conductor and time of departure are noted on train list and passed to clerk on card case, who at once withdraws the cards representing the cars in the train and passes them to the clerk who makes outgoing records. After this man has put down the necessary data he sorts the cards into storage case, where they can be held as a permanent record of that particular movement. By making cards for all arrivals and placing same in live case and withdrawing all departures the live case will always exactly represent the cars in the yard.

While the foregoing is one method of doing the work the following will be found an improvement. Keep but one case, the storage one, and use the cards printed as in samples, before making new cards on arrival of train first check storage case to see if you have had a former movement on your card reported, and add the new record opposite "A" form arrival on the last occasion, by this means a continuous record of a car is kept on one card and a great saving in storage space is made as well as providing a check against lost movements.

The card system, either plan, brings the car record business down to straight bookkeeping. Every incoming movement must be balanced before it becomes too late. By using different colored cards the case clerk is enabled to keep track of perishable freight and special orders. For instance, if white is the main color, blue can be made to cover perishable and rush orders and salmon for "highly perishable." Owing to the contrast in color, case clerk when working on live cases can keep under notice all the time the cars which require attention, and can be held responsible if he fails to draw attention to such as are becoming stale.

Storage case guides are made in hundreds. An initial guide being made for every hundred up to 999-00 and numbers higher than that. The six figure cars are sorted by guides as in live case. Each hundred should be divided by sub-guides 10, 20, 30, etc., in cases where a large amount of cars are handled, by means of this method instantaneous references is possible and twenty men can look up records at the same time, with the books only one man can look up a car and while he is doing so the others must wait, and the man who enters the records is also idle.

Another important point is that records being up to date, all wires and letters are promptly answered, one man using part of his time, being able to attend to wire work which formerly took three to handle.

RUSH AND DIVERT CASE.

In addition to regular records it will be found advantageous to run a second case to handle business. Make a set of 99 guides 00 to 99 and index all cars by last two figures. As orders are received make card instantly and put in place this of course, after checking to see if it has not already arrived. Incoming desk clerk checks incoming trains and notes special order car as it arrives. Issue instructions to switching department or make what change on billing as are called for, keeping record on your card. Place indicator on card to show that you have attended to it. Every morning and evening check up all tagged cards to see if instructions have been carried out. If not issue new order to switching department and make notation again on card. In this way such cars will be handled and satisfaction given in this very particular branch.

This system is so elastic that it can be made to suit special local conditions. For instance, San Francisco waybills are received for the twenty-four hours in one package every night. In order to be sure that cars do not remain here without waybills or vice versa, a suspense case is divided into sections. "Cars without waybills" and "waybills without cars." When a car arrives from the city a check is made against the waybills and if there is no record cards are made to cover showing arrival data and place cards in section showing cars awaiting waybills, on arrival of waybills a similar check is made and in this manner all San Francisco freight is kept strictly to account.

In the same manner cannon ball records are kept in suspense, holding cards until conductor returns at night and gives spotting records. This would be of great advantage in assessing demurrage as it is easy to show actual spotting and switching time to the minute, and in parallel columns. The form of the card should be changed to suit any requirements. It is large enough for all practical purposes and as small as can be used so as to meet emergencies.

It is the handiest size to use, as it is the easiest to handle. In the printed cards "A" line is for arrival record, "D" for departing record and "R" for remarks such as "Diverted order WRS 5-23 file 5432," "Car delayed account being cripple," "Contents transferred to car SP 74322 account bad order, see later car."

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN'S HEALTH RAPIDLY FAILS

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Joseph Chamberlain, still devotedly nursed by his American wife, in his Highbury home near Birmingham, is steadily going downward.

In spite of the pleasant actions which are circulated about once a fortnight concerning his improved health, it is an open secret among the friends of the family that the recent damp weather has had a very bad effect on the noted Englishman, and he has not left his room for more than a week.

ALAMEDA CHILD LOST IN SHOPPING CROWDS

"I stopped in front of a store and my mamma ran away and lost me," sobbed little six-year-old Florence Massie, who was found wandering about the streets yesterday afternoon and taken to the county jail.

When she had stopped crying long enough to tell the county authorities that her mamma lived in Alameda the police of that city were notified and in a very short time the anxious parent arrived and claimed her missing child.

ARMY NOVEL SUPPRESSED

Book, Thought ~~Written~~ by Captain, Too Realistic for German Officials.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)
BERLIN, Nov. 23.—The German authorities have prohibited the publication of a military novel called "A Prussian General," which was to have been brought out by a Brunswick firm.

The author of the book, who is said to be an army captain, has depicted some of the German officers with such realistic detail that the authorities have taken alarm. Especially as some of the manners described are said to throw a light on some of the matters that formed the subject of Maximilian Harden's charges against Count Kuno von Moltke.

DUCKS ARE SCARCE ON SUISUN MARSHES

Al M. Cumming, the well-known hunter and fisherman of Fruitvale, is getting ready to collect a lot of "millinery for men" from his fellow hunters who pool-hoped his assertion made over a month ago that there would not be any good duck hunting on the Suisun marshes this season. Cumming bet a hat with everybody who would take him up on the proposition and now the men who insisted that as soon as the northern limit was on the shooting would be as good as over, are making arrangements for credit at their haters.

Cumming's long experience in the habits of ducks led him to the conclusion that this would be a bad year for the Suisun duck hunting clubs. He based his opinion on the fact that there was lots of better feeding grounds in the State than Suisun and that the instincts of the duck would take them to these places. His ideas were right.

There are plenty of ducks in the State. At Dos Palos, Los Banos, Santa Maria and the other places in that vicinity there are enough ducks to make limit bags easy to get, and at Victoria Island in the San Joaquin, where the levee broke last winter, ducks were so plentiful that hunters are enjoying great sport.

ST. BERNARD DOGS RESCUE THREE ITALIANS

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

GENEVA, Nov. 23.—The famous dogs of the St. Bernard hospice are maintaining their reputation as life-savers in the Alps. Their first rescue of the winter season was that of three Italians who lost their way in a snow storm while crossing the St. Bernard pass.

One of the dogs, Barry, a descendant of the celebrated dog of the same name, who established a record for life-saving, discovered two of the men, and ran back to the hospice toward the monks. When the two men had been taken to the hospice a searching party set out for their companion, who was found buried under several feet of snow.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Cut Words and Sentences From Advertisements in Tribune.

During the past week the Santa Clause editor of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE has received a number of letters to Santa Claus, some of them were very good letters, too, but none has followed the conditions required for winning the cash prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE for the seven best such letters.

The little folks have overlooked the fact that these letters must not be written with pen or pencil, but must be composed of words cut out of advertisements found in THE TRIBUNE, and pasted on a sheet of paper about the size of foolscap.

Read once more the rules, which are clearly laid down in the announcement, then following them closely, try to win one of the prizes. There are seven of them. If you write a better letter than any one else you win $10.00, the next best will win you $7.50 and even if there should be six letters better than yours you will win $1.00. Think what a help that would be about Christmas time.

what you would like him to bring you this year. You will find almost every thing you can think of in THE TRIBUNE advertisements. Here is a letter that one boy wrote:

"Santa Claus: Christmas is not far off and I want a lot of things. Most of all I want a gun and a good dog, and a pair of rubber boots. Baby needs some new toys and of course my little sister wants a doll with curly yellow hair, and she would like a set of doll's furniture and a little muffy for her own hands. Every one says Santa Claus is the children's friend, so I know you will come to our house and bring some nice things with you."

"CHARLIE."

Now we think there are many boys and girls who can send us just as good a letter as that. It is a fine plan not to stop with your first letter, but try day after day. Practice will make it easy and one of your letters is apt to win a prize.

LICENSE LAID FOR HUNTING

In the Last Six Months Fines Have Netted Fish Commission $10,699.

President George Stone of the California Trout Commission states that as a result of the hunting license law, which has stimulated public interest in fish and game matters throughout the State, the fines for all infractions for the six months just closed aggregated $10,699, of which amount $575 were imposed for violation of the fish laws and $4,984 for violation of the game laws. The number of arrests made for violations of the game laws are twice the number made for violations of the fish laws, but as the minimum penalty for violation of many of the fish laws is $200, the amount is slightly larger.

The proportion of convictions as to acquittals runs about five to one, in favor of convictions, which he says may be considered a remarkable showing, and indicates that the public sentiment of the State is strongly opposed to violation of the laws.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Marcus D. Hyde and Grant C. Smith were before Judge De Haven today for arraignment on a charge of procuring a false and fraudulent affidavit for a homestead entry in Napa county. Fred L. Butler of Oakland appeared for Hyde and P. P. Bell for Smith.

Both pleaded not guilty and will be tried early in December.

Smith, who has been in jail since the Federal Grand Jury found the indictment a month ago, was released yesterday in a bond of $10,000, with Mrs. E. A. Rightmire of 754 Devisadero street and Charles W. Edgcomb of the naval pay office as securities.

CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED.

Kenella, a chauffeur, was arrested at the corner of Sixteenth street and San Pablo avenue by Policeman Reinhardt yesterday afternoon on a charge of violating the ordinance prohibiting spitting on the sidewalk. Kenella was released upon depositing $2 bail.

ONCE MINISTER NOW PLUNGER

Kansas City Man Who Did Not Always Study Race Dope Charts.

(Special to The Tribune.)

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—Last summer the New York papers devoted considerable space to Roy Offutt, the "Kansas City plunger." Offutt is indeed a product of this city. Like all good plungers, he got his first start around the stock yards. He was bookkeeper for the live stock commission company of the city, and it was there that he learned the ropes. His father was the senior member. Racing is a widely discussed subject at the yards, and naturally Roy began to take an interest in racing.

But Roy did not always study "dope" charts. He was a time, even after he had attained his majority, that racing, gambling and all other worldly subjects were from his mind. He studied the Bible, and according to his "dope" he figured many pounds better than any other publican some fifteen years ago, and he was superintendent of the First Baptist Church at Twelfth street and East Main.

One day he visited the old Exposition race track, which was located at Twelfth street and Franklin avenue, and then it was all off. He liked the excitement of the races and he knew no one could enjoy race day more than he. Roy "jarred loose" from his "silver beam" and from that day to the present time he has followed the racing game with a business. A year after he first bet he became a bookmaker, and he has always kept ahead of the game.

Today Offutt owns a large string of thoroughbreds, and he is generally considered to be one of the best horsemen in the country. During the three seasons at Elm Ridge he was one of the heaviest operators in the city, and his winnings here at the last meeting were estimated at $20,000. Last summer he operated in the big stables on the eastern tracks and made considerable money.

HIS IDEA ON THE CONSOLIDATION QUESTION

The Editor of THE TRIBUNE.—The talk of consolidation of the cities about the bay has grown to such dimensions that it would seem that it might materialize into some thing more than talk, and it certainly does not require me to say that it would be the best thing that ever happened to the cities on the Oakland side of the bay to be under one city government, but that city government should be managed from that side of the bay and not from the San Francisco side. The number of people on the east side of the bay is large enough to organize into a large city and there is no good reason why it should not be done.

The question of such a city seems to raise the most opposition in the minds of the outlying towns and on account of the location of the University at Berkeley the greatest opposition seems to come from that quarter. It is of course, that the consolidated city would be named Oakland, since that city has the greatest population. This would substantially kill the identity of Berkeley and they would always be known as the great city of consolidation having that object in view.

Now I am a resident of the city of Oakland and have been for many years, but I am liberal enough to see that if the consolidation can be effected by any means, that it would be a good thing, and I do not think it good policy to let the matter of a name stand in the way of such a great improvement. Now it happens that the Postal Guide published by the United States contains the names of no less than twenty-six places called Oakland all over the United States, so that name can be said to have no distinction at all. On the other hand there is in the Postal Guide but a single place in the United States called Berkeley, and that place is so close to the doors of Oakland, that I move for Congress to consolidate under that name since it is the only place in the United States having that name. Berkeley would then keep her identity and Oakland would lose nothing save a poor provincial name.

Very truly yours,
C. P. GRIFFIN.

TO PRESERVE "HAMLET" OF MARIE ANTOINETTE

(Special Cable to THE TRIBUNE.) PARIS, Nov. 23.—An industrial society has been formed here consisting of artists, persons representative of high society and others, calling themselves "Friends of Versailles." There already exists the "Friends of the Louvre" and "Friends of Luxembourg," but the object of these societies is to purchase for these galleries works of art of which it is thought they ought not to be without.

The "Friends of Versailles" have another object—namely, to keep the famous palace and park in Versailles and its appendages, the grand and magnificent chateaux, in a proper state of repair and preservation, and in a condition worthy of the past grandeur. Attention has been called frequently of late to the condition of neglect in which several portions of these palaces exist, and some of them are being ill-treated.

Matters have now come to such a pitch that unless the famous "Hamlet" of Marie Antoinette in the park of the Palace of Versailles be longed to exist, the cottages where the famous and ill-treated queen liked to forget her disgraces and play at being a peasant, and dairy maid are falling into ruin. The thatched roofs let in the rain, the window frames are devoid of glass, and the "farm house," "mill" and other cottages are the nightly resort of tramps who seek shelter from the elements and are able to get it owing to the bad state of repair of the hedges and walls of the park.

"The government will see that the people do not suffer if only let the people themselves will act in a normal way. Crops are good and business conditions are sound, and we should put the money we have into circulation at once to meet the needs of our abundant prosperity."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, November 17.

The EILERS MUSIC COMPANY surely are optimistic regarding the stability of Alameda County banks and future business conditions. No piano establishment in the entire country has leaped into public favor so firmly and grown as rapidly as they have. The reason for this growth and popularity has simply been a performance of continuous superior values and splendid service and a rigid adherence to any promises made.
When they advertise a special sale they take advantage of the well-known and undisputed fact that they are by far the largest vendors of pianos on the Pacific Coast and does it not look to reason that, with their immense purchasing power, supplying as they do an immense chain of stores distributed through the entire Northwest and Pacific Coast, they can afford to make prices so low that it absolutely precludes any possibility of legitimate competition. Why have they attained the prominence in the piano trade which they securely hold?
Simply by fair and square dealing and low prices. For a special holiday offering they propose to submit to the piano purchasing public of Alameda County a remarkable proposition, if not unique.

PREPARES MEAL; SUDDENLY DECIDES TO END HER LIFE

SPREADS TABLE
READY TO EAT

Strange Act of Widow Who Hung Herself
in Shed.

Dependent on account of long continued ill-health, Mrs. Lena Cutler, a widow, residing at 570 Thirty-fifth street, suddenly decided to end her life yesterday afternoon while she was preparing her noonday meal. Leaving the kitchen, which she was cooking in, she descended to the yard in the rear of the house, where she procured a rope. Climbing upon a barrel in a shed in the yard, Mrs. Cutler fastened one end of the rope to a rafter, and placing the other in a noose about her neck, leaped to her death. When the dangling body was discovered, about fifteen minutes later, by Mrs. H. A. Graham, the owner of the house, life was extinct. The dead woman was 50 years of age and lived with her son, Charles Cutler.

COOKING LUNCH.
When the fatal resolution was made
Mrs. Cutler was aiding her landlady, Mrs. Graham, to cook lunch, and had just placed some groceries on the stove for herself. She disappeared and Mrs.
Graham did not note her absence until she called her to the table. There being no response, she began a search around the rooms, but could get no trace of Mrs.
Cutler. She went downstairs and inquired of the woman living in the lower flat if she had seen Mrs. Cutler. She replied that she had seen her enter the shed and close the door, but she never behind her. Mrs. Graham, in vague alarm, rushed to the shed, threw open the door and saw the body swinging from a rafter. She immediately cut the cord and telephoned for a physician, but the woman was dead.

FAILING HEALTH.
Mrs. Cutler was a native of Illinois and had lived in California fourteen

MRS. LENA CUTLER.

years. She has been in failing health for fifteen years, and ever since an accident nine months ago has been under the care of a physician. She had two boys, Charles and James. The latter is at present in Manila working in the fire department.
The body was taken to the morgue, where an inquest will be held. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.
Mrs. Cutler, in speaking of the accident, said: "Mrs. Cutler often told me she wanted to take her life. She said she was a second widow. She always tried to dissuade her. She repeatedly asked me if I thought it was wicked to commit suicide. Her illness has caused her to be dependent. I think she tried to commit suicide last night. She prescribed medicine for her, and she took enough doses about midnight to kill anyone."

THREE YOUTHS SEEK FORTUNE

Leave Homes for Southern California, but Are Stopped by Police.

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 23.—Three runaway lads were found by Policeman N. G.
Yeager at an early hour this morning in a box car at the Southern Pacific depot.
They are John Weston of Healdsburg, Sebastian Tarantini of Martinez and Harry McEwen, some time ago from the East, who has been living at Healds-burg.

John Weston, who is about 17 years-old, was sent home tonight. Sheriff Veale of Contra Costa county wired Chief of Police Fred Rushmore that an officer would be sent to take the Martinez boy home and City Marshal Parker of Healdsburg wired that he did not know what action to take with McEwen, who is said to be an incorrigible.

SOLDIER BOYS RETURN HOME

Passengers on Transport Thomas Land, as Well as Discharged Warriors.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The 125 saloon passengers and ten troops of the Fourth Cavalry brought by the transport Thomas from the Philippines were landed at Folsom-street wharf this morning.

On the Thomas also were 102 marines, fifty-one bluejackets of the navy, whose terms have expired and who were transferred to a tug and taken direct to Mare Island to be discharged.

Seventy-four casuals, eight general prisoners and two indigents made up the remainder of the big list on the transport.

DIES ON TRIP.

Unusual incidents were scarce on the homeward trip of the troopship.
The infant son of Lieutenant and Mrs.
Rusdian, Embassy, succumbed to illness on November 18th, and the body was embalmed and will be buried at the Presidio.

The Thomas was in rough weather to the westward of Honolulu. She was on the edge of a typhoon on September 26th on her outward trip, losing a lifeboat in the high waves.

The ten troops of the Fourth Cavalry are under command of Major Guy Carlton, and have been at Caverton and Malabang, island of Mindanao, and on Jolo island. Their only notable engagement was the Mt. Doji fight in March, 1906. The regiment is en route to Fort Meade, South Dakota and Fort Snelling, Minn.

Most of the afternoon was spent by the men of the regiment in receiving an allotment of clothing intended for use in the cold climate of Dakota and Minnesota. The garments, consisting of an entire suit of thick khaki, overcoat, overshoes, fur cap and gloves, were handed out on the transport wharf, and with the men's other belongings were hustled into baggage-cars alongside the dock.

96 BIG GUNS DEFEND GUAM

Fortification on Island Rushed and Submarine Mines and Searchlights Placed

Some haste is being observed in fortifying the island of Guam by the United States against a possible foe, according to G. E. Rogers, a merchant of the island, and Edward V. W. Keen of the naval auxiliary service, both of whom arrived yesterday in San Francisco as passengers on the auxiliary cruiser Justin, Captain Meriwether.

The vessel, which is just off the big Dewey drydock at Olangapo, in the Philippines, has come to join the fleet on this coast. The Justin brought 500 tons of condemned ammunition, to be landed at Mare Island.

Ninety-six guns will, so far as present plans provide, constitute the defense of the harbor of San Luis de Apra, Guam and other points on the islands now owned by Uncle Sam.

BIG GUNS IN PLENTY.

All of these guns are new and of six-inch caliber, of the most effective kind and will be so placed that in the event of war an enemy would find Guam a much warmer place than the old Charleston found it when she called there in 1898 to capture the port and was sailed in a friendly way by the Spanish governor with an old smoothbore gun. These ninety-six new guns were carried to Guam by the Justin on her present trip from Manila.

Emplacements for the guns have already been made and little time will be lost in getting them in position and ready for business. The Justin also carried a large quantity of ammunition to Guam.

MINES FOR HARBOR.

The transport Warren, on her last trip to the Far East, landed submarine mines and a number of searchlights there for use in fortifying and defending the remote harbor and island, and the few hundred inhabitants under Governor Potts consider that they are being well looked after by the government.

The first break in the long cable extending from here to Manila occurred in the harbor of San Luis de Apra, when an anchor from the government steamer Supply fell upon a part of the cable that lay across a rock. The cable was severed and the repair steamer Restorer went to Guam to fix it. There are four cables in the bottom of that bay—one from Ynp, in the Carolines; one from Salpan, one from Midway island, and one leading out to Manila, and the Restorer made three attempts to pick up the damaged cable before finding the right one.

BURNED BY GASOLINE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Two men were badly frightened and slightly burned in an explosion of gasoline this afternoon on the schooner G. W. Mc-Near, which is unloading gravel at Channel and Sixth streets.

Chris Johnson, one of the crew, was working in the ship's hold, where several cans of gasoline are stored. He was joined by John Olsen from a nearby boat, and it is thought that Olsen struck a match to light his pipe.

Fumes from the gasoline burst into flame that roared out of the com-panionway and rose to a height of twenty or thirty feet. Olsen and Johnson were out almost with the crest of the flame. The whole interior of the ship was badly burned by the explosion
No 8 prevented any extensive damage.
The schooner is the property of John Cassaretto, the gravel dealer.

HERE TO STUDY U. S. SCHOOLS

Son of President of Guatemala Comes to This Country in Interest of Progress.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—"American methods in Guatemala," is the slogan of the party of President Estrada Cabrera of the prosperous little republic and the work of his administration has won for him the title among his followers of "the Roosevelt of Central America."

One of the institutions of the United States that is being closely followed by Cabrera's government is the inauguration of a modern public school system. It is hoped by the Guatemalan States in perfecting organization of educational authorities in the United States in perfecting organization of the school system.

SENDS SON HERE.

President Cabrera has attached great importance to improvement of educational work and as part of the labor in that direction his son, Diego Estrada Cabrera, is at present in this city gathering data that will help guide the Guatemalan educational authorities.

In the opinion of local merchants who have trade with the ports of Central America, the adoption by Cabrera of the conservative ideas of the United States government has signified a new era in the troubled history of the republic of Central America.

Cabrera's general policy was outlined by Consul-General Caldeira, representative of Guatemala in this city. "Our government was among the first to endorse the calling of the approaching peace congress in Washington," he said. "Representative men have been named by all the governments and it is believed that the dawn of a new epoch for Central America is at hand."

The most important factor toward this great result is the formation of the bureau of American republics by the United States. In reality it is a permanent vehicle for peace and we believe eventually it will put an end to the troubles between the republics. These disputes can be settled under the patronage of an unbiased but interested observer upon whom all parties could safely call for assistance in the event they found it impossible to agree among themselves."

STORM-TOSSED HE COMES HOME

Navigator Who Sailed Alone for Northwest Passage Has Harrowing Defeat.

Weak with hunger, exhausted by a fourteen-day battle against wind and wave, dazed from lack of sleep, Captain A. B. Nelson, who sailed alone out through the Golden Strait some weeks ago in his little sloop Eclipse, bound for Seattle and the far North, was found yesterday afternoon off the Heads guiding a stately craft back to San Francisco.

Nelson was dazed when found, and but for the help of some fishermen, would have run his boat blindly into the breakers.

This is the end of a daring attempt to sail through the Northwest Passage in the sloop Eclipse which measures but 32 feet.

The daring young mariner planned to spend two years at his search. He has returned at the end of two weeks utterly defeated.

NO TIME TO SLEEP.

"For the first six days," Nelson said yesterday, "I encountered strong northwest gales that kept me always on the watch. I had planned to lash the helm at night, and so obtain some rest, but to do that in those gales would have meant death. I was compelled to stay at the rudder day after day."

"The seventh day out the wind switched to the west, and I made good headway."

"On November 11th a terrific storm began and raged for two days. I had to throw out the sea anchor, and let it drag to keep the sloop's head to the sea."

"The third day of the storm I shipped a heavy sea, which ruined all my provisions. The rudder was twisted and useless. I put out my sea anchor again and rode out the storm."

WEAKENED BY STRAIN.

"All this time I was getting weaker and weaker. I could not rest—for the first week I had but four hours' sleep—and the food was revolting, soaked with the salt sea water."

"On the 18th, a three-masted schooner came in sight, and I managed to attract attention. The crew hove to, but the sea was so rough they could not put out a boat, and in the condition of my sloop I could not get near them. Darkness separated us."

"Cape Mendocino was the northernmost point I made. There I turned the nose of the little Eclipse toward home and she ran down at an average of seven miles an hour."

"I tell you I am glad to get back. At no time on the voyage was I able to make a fire and I could hardly force down the food I had to eat. Now for a seven-day sleep."

SAVED BY FISHERMEN.

Nelson's sloop, with his nerveless hands at the tiller, ran in among the fishermen in the Potato Patch and was towed in to safer waters.

"I have learned several things," Nelson said, "and I will make the Northwest Passage yet."

"A man twenty-seven years of age ought to do what he desires if he keeps trying all his life."

Nelson's plan was to make a first voyage to Seattle, rent the vessel there and with two natives continue on to Herschel's Island.

Here his sloop would be made into a double-ender and re-provisioned.

The second year would be spent in Baffin Bay seeking the Northwest Passage.

Sale of ODD ENDS

These end pieces run from 1 yard to 3 yards long and are the pieces left over from carpet lengths and rolls. They're of no use to us so we'll practically give them away. Remnants of Tapestry Carpets

Prices Are About 1/2 the Regular Price of the Carpet---Think of Getting a Rug for 50c or 60c

TENNIS CLUB TO HOLD HANDICAP SINGLES

The tennis players have been taking a rest from the strenuous work of tournament play during the past few weeks, but on Sunday, December 1, the class men of the Golden Gate Tennis Club will come together at the Park courts in handicap singles play, the play being for the three-time handicap cup put up last summer. The allowances will give the second-class men as well as the top-notchers a chance to win the trophy, and following the general rule of handicap events at the Park, it is safe to predict a large entry list. Nearly all the cracks are a number of the less finished players have already signified their intentions of playing, and the tournament, which really marks the opening of the winter tennis season, promises to be right up to the standard of past events.

The three-time handicap cup was played for last August for the first time. Paul Haremann, a second-class man, winning out and getting his name on the trophy. The winner of the trophy must have played from scratch, and fought his way through the matches by good hard tennis. He will defend his title but his chances of retaining it are not rained by many of the tennis deponents, for he has not been playing very consistently of late, while nearly all the first-class men, on the other hand, are furnishing a better article on the courts than at any time before during the year. The let-up from more regular competition has done the half-dozen players who constitute the championship class a world of good, and in the practice of the game they have been able to show a lot more snap and ginger than at the close of the long "competition" play is a good thing, but there can be too much of a good thing, even in tennis, and everyone is looking out for the rest of the year.

At the California Tennis Club there has been a good deal of practice play, but no tournaments have been pulled off, and none are scheduled. Handicap doubles were on the card for Thanksgiving Day, but for one reason or another the club members did not care to enter, and it was finally decided to call the tournament off for the time being. The California courts are in fine condition at the present time, but it is the sad fact among the first-class men to play at the Park courts just at present, and it is hard to get a representative turn-out for the club events. For this reason the tournament committee has decided to drop conventional play for the time being and schedule some interesting events for the early part of the year.

Monarch Ranges
The Stay Satisfactory Range

$8 Down and $8 a Month

Coal is rising—dealers say it is going higher and yet your coal is costing you today no less than $13.00 a ton—Now study this table of comparisons of the annual coal consumption of ALL ranges:

All cast steel ranges average 10 tons a year.
All other malleable ranges average 7 tons a year.
Monarch Malleable ranges average 5 tons a year.
With an ordinarily careful cook, therefore, all cast steel ranges expend $13 a year.
All other malleable ranges expend $10.00 a year.
Monarch malleable ranges expend $65 a year.

Therefore, the Monarch Malleable saves in coal bills alone from $26 to $65 a year—the wonderful duplex draft does it—It is worth investigation—Any Monarch range for $8 down and $8 a month—your old stove bought at a good price.

KAHNS' THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE KAHNS'

Sale of Stylish Ready-to-wear Garments And Rich Furs Starts Here Tomorrow

The Result of Large Special Purchases from Manufacturers who Were Rich in Goods but Poor in Cash—Our Dollars Never Worked Such Wonders Before.

THIS has been a strenuous season with manufacturers of Women's Ready-to-wear Garments. The balmy, summer-like weather that has clung on with such persistency in the east greatly lessened the business they expected. The temporary scarcity of money was another factor that contributed to their worries. What to do with their unsold merchandise was the problem they were puzzling over when our buyer appeared upon the scene. His departments are having a phenomenal season. He was in the market for the very purpose of filling up his depleted stocks, and offered to help solve their troubles by paying GOLD COIN for such goods as he could use—if they would sell at HIS prices. They literally jumped at the opportunity, and our representative bought liberally. His purchases have arrived, and their selling starts tomorrow. Come and see them. In all our successful experience we never offered more wonderful values.

1000 VOTE OFFER IS EXTENDED FOR ONE MORE WEEK

ANOTHER CHANCE TO GET VOTES

1000 Votes for a New Subscriber This Week.

To give the candidates an opportunity to see their friends, the offer of 1,000 votes for a new subscriber has been extended for one week. It was supposed when the offer was originally made that one week would give the candidates sufficient time in which to see their friends. Owing to the large territory to be covered, the candidates found that they did not have sufficient time in which to see many who would give them a subscription. It has therefore been decided to extend the offer of 1,000 votes for a new subscriber for one week, in order that no injustice would be done to any candidate.

GET THEM NOW

The thing to do is get busy at once and secure every new subscriber that you possibly can. Don't wait, as others want these votes, and will get them if you do not get busy and secure them now before they are secured by someone else.

A NEW SUBSCRIBER
A new subscriber is anyone who was not a subscriber to THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE on November 1, 1907. The fact that a person had taken THE TRIBUNE at some previous time does not prevent him or her becoming a new subscriber at this time.

A CHANGE OF NAME
A change of name at the same address or a change of address will not be accepted as a new subscriber.

ADVANCE PAYMENTS
Additional votes will continue to be issued as in the past on all old and new paid-in-advance subscriptions as follows:
Three months, $1.00.....100 extra votes
Six months, $2.00.....200 extra votes
One year, $3.00.....300 extra votes
Two years, $5.00.....500 extra votes
Three years, $7.00.....700 extra votes

BLANKS, CONTRACTS
Candidates and their friends can secure a supply of three-month subscription contracts by calling at THE TRIBUNE office.

INCREASE YOUR VOTE
Now is the time to increase your vote. Take advantage of this opportunity to get votes without any advance payments. Work hard during the next few days. You will then greatly improve your chances of winning one of the grand prizes.

EXTRA VOTES ON OLD AND NEW
Extra votes on new and old paid-in-advance subscriptions will continue to be issued as before.

SEE YOUR FRIENDS
See all of your friends and neighbors and if they are not already subscribers get them to alter a three-month subscription contract if they will not pay a subscription in advance.

DO NOT DELAY
Start to work today and get as many new subscriptions as possible. This is the last and best offer that will be made during the contest.

MISSSED OPPORTUNITY
A few candidates delayed in getting to work on the double vote offer. They now regret their delay, as they see that no more double votes will be given.

Don't get left, but get as many new three-month subscription contract signs as possible. Or, better still, get an advance payment in addition.

MANNER OF VOTING.
A coupon good for one vote will be published in each issue of THE TRIBUNE until the end of the contest. This coupon, if clipped and sent to the Contest Manager of THE TRIBUNE, will count as one vote for the contestant named therein.

There is another and better way of securing votes and that is on subscriptions. Votes will be given on all paid-in-advance subscriptions as follows:
Three months, $1.00.....100 extra votes
Six months, $2.00.....200 extra votes
One year, $3.00.....300 extra votes
Two years, $5.00.....500 extra votes
Three years, $7.00.....700 extra votes

Three hundred votes are also issued on a classified advertisement. A coupon-book which contains coupons worth $2.50, but sells for only 12c.

CLASSIFIED AD COUPONS.
An innovation in voting contests is the issuing of votes on classified advertisements. A coupon book containing coupons to the value of $2.50 is sold for 12c. This is a saving of 20 cents on each dollar, and will prove a great incentive for those who advertise. Classified advertisements are such as "Help Wanted," "For Sale," "Rooms to Rent," etc. These classified advertisement coupons can be used at the time the books are bought or at a later date as may be desired.

There is more currency in the country today than there was a month ago, when the supply was ample, since then $55,000,000 in gold has been imported and the government has deposited already $60,000,000. These are facts; and I appeal to the public to co-operate with us in restoring normal business conditions."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, Nov. 17.

Talks To Suffering Women

It is worth your while to carefully investigate the statements of registered, practicing physicians when he says he can cure, by painless methods, ninety per cent of female diseases now curable without the use of the knife.

No woman wishes for the sake of expediency to go through the trying ordeal of an operation if she can by consistent daily treatment avoid it.

I would like to talk personally with the afflicted women of this city upon this subject.

BASEBALL, FOOTBALL AND OTHER SPORTING NEWS

TRADING OF BALL PLAYERS HOBBY WITH MANAGERS

As a business baseball has certainly proven to be a queer proposition with no ideal or standard to work by while as an art the ideal has been reached by fully half a dozen teams in the last forty years. The winter there seems to be a craze for trading players with a hope of driving the men to their top notch speed. A change of base will often help a ball player but whole sale trading is a dangerous practice.

Baseball managers have long been in the habit of trading players with a hope of driving the men to their top notch speed. A change of base will often help a ball player but whole sale trading is a dangerous practice.

The most remarkable teams the game has produced worked together for years and usually went to pieces just as soon as the time came to make changes. The Boston Americans won two straight championships then dropped LaChance for Grimshaw and finished in the second division. From a world beater to a tail ender in two years is the record for dropping off the major league.

The game has produced forty seven champion teams in the last thirty-seven years in the eleven cities which now make up the two major leagues. This includes the National League, the original American League, the Federal League and the American League.

Four really major organizations attracted the attention of the whole country and were not in the big circuits to enjoy national wars.

Outside of the four not in the big circuits to enjoy national wars were the Boston Americans, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cincinnati Reds and the Washington Senators.

During the same time 32 O. P. Caylor at Cincinnati landed the first championship for the new and vigorous American Association.

erican Association Caylor was not the manager, but the ruling force, and one of the promoters of the American Association. Billy Sharsig with his Athletics won the association pennant in 88 while John F. Morrill landed the money for Boston. The next year 84 Frank Bancroft managed the Providence champions, and James Murti won the association prize with his New York team.

In the play-off for the first world's championship Bancroft came out an easy winner with four straight. A C. Anson led his Chicago team in 85 and 86 to the top. Then came W. E. Watson with Detroit in 87. The New York Giants now came to the front with James Murti and won out two years in succession. For four successive years up to this time Charley Comiskey won the championship for St. Louis in the American Association to lose out to William McGinnis Brooklyn team in 89. In the play-off for the world's championship Comiskey got the better of Anson and Watson while Murti won out from McGinnis.

Then came the greatest baseball war known to the game. W. J. Kelly led the Boston club winners of the Players' League against the National League winners for Brooklyn. In 91 Frank Seale came to the front with the Boston Nationals and repeated the two following years, while Arthur Irwin managed the Boston Association team in 91. Winners of the pennant in 91 were the Boston Americans. De Hanlon was next in line with his Baltimore champions taking three pennants in succession. Frank Seale won twice in succession for Boston and then for Brooklyn. Fred Clarke with his Pittsburgh team broke into the life-line light for three successive winners. In 1901 the American League and then Irwin landed the money for Chicago.

Connie Mack became a hero in the Quaker City by landing the Athletics in the first place in 02 and then Jimmie Collins carried the Boston Americans across the line in 03 and beat out Fred Clarke for the big honors.

Collins repeated in 04 and John McGraw had a walkover for the honors in the National League and then Irwin landed the money for Chicago. A new force came into the National League and Frank Chance landed his Chicago league team in first place while the Boston Americans won the white Sox and defeated Chance in the play-off. Chance repeated with Hugh Jennings came to the front with Detroit and struck his colors to the Chicago Cubs and then Irwin you have the leaders up to date.

J. CAL EWING TO WHOM THE FANS LOOK FOR INFORMATION REGARDING THE SIX CLUB LEAGUE PROPOSITION.

BIG MUSCLED MEN ARE NOT GOOD ATHLETES

The idea that huge bulging muscles are essential to athletic prowess is being steadily discarded by the developers of athletic skill today.

It used to be that the man who would succeed in baseball, football, track and field athletics rowing swimming and tennis felt it a first requisition to build up on his shoulders back, arms, thighs and calves great piles of knotted muscles.

This was called development, and the possessors were prouder of such an equipment than a woman of a good figure. But the modern tendency is getting entirely away from this idea.

Men like Delaney, Mike Murphy, Muldoon and Oakley, who know how to turn out winners, have discovered that a quantity of muscles can only be gained at the cost of speed, and that excepting in wrestling where a man has need of absolute brute strength, the big muscles are more a detriment than an aid.

The ideal athlete of the future will undoubtedly be the man built on the lines Jim Corbett had when he fought John L. Sullivan fifteen years ago.

SULLIVAN WAS AN EXAMPLE. Never was a greater disparity than between these two men of the old and new school. Sullivan had a wonderful neck, shoulders and arm. Corbett was slender and lithe. No muscles showed on his body when he got into action. His were the long slender fibers that could not be detected under the white skin, but which did their work so swiftly and well that the giant who in a wrestling bout or rough-and-tumble fight could have crushed "Pompadour Jim" to death was a child in his hands in a bout governed by the recognized rules of boxing.

Kid McCoy offers a still better illustration of the fighter without muscle development, yet who could hit hard enough to knock out men twice his size.

McCoy was flat-chested, his arms were thin as pie crusts, his legs were nothing in point of muscle and in the ring, stripped for the fray, he would have made a laugh but for the knowledge held by the public of the terrific hitting force that those puny little arms held.

Tommy Ryan a wonderful fighter whose sway has extended over fifteen years and who is still probably going where near his size, is another case of the boxer who boasts no heavy muscles. Joe Gans the lightweight champion of the world for many years shows no more development than the ordinary man out of training yet a blow from his ebony fist carries a knockout message with it.

In baseball the transition is the same. More little men are playing now than ever before.

The famous teams of the past were made up almost entirely of big fellows. Anson, Pfeffer, Williamson, Gos, Flint Kelly, Brothers, Connor, White, Thompson, Brown, all famed hitters were men who towered up to the 6-foot mark, or close to it and who were built in proportion.

Then it was thought that only a big and powerful muscled man could hit the nail hard but nobody pays any attention to ideas like that now.

Willie Keeler is one of those who blazed the way for the ball player without prominent muscular development.

Baseball Fans Desir Six Club League

Now is the winter of the fan's discontent. By the term "fan" is meant the real old baseball bug, the fellow who was first dubbed with the expressive little slang word—the word which originally applied to the batsman's unsuccessful efforts to hit the ball but which later and more appropriately came to be a corruption of the South Webster word fanatic.

All that, however, is neither here nor there. The fact of the matter is that those of the real baseball enthusiasts who have now allowed their interest to divert to the mustangs over at the track are wondering more than a little as to the prospects for next season's bill of fare on the diamond.

And what is worrying the bugs most of all is the simple little query: What is the Pacific Coast League to be a six club affair?

It is a pertinent question. Even President J. Cal Ewing the most efficient leader baseball has in the country in recent years is willing to admit that if pinned down to it.

A great silence hangs fog like over official baseball circles. It was not more than two months ago at the outside when the president and vice-presidents of the league and even the lads who did roustabout work around the park were quelling with the idea of a six-club league in a way that justified one in believing that the big noise was made in earnest.

But the six club league proposition was to be an easy sell—at that time. Nobody seemed to have any definite knowledge as to just what cities would be represented by the two extra clubs but there was a feeling of confidence in the air.

RELIANCE CLUB ATHLETES ARE SHOWING ACTIVITY

Football Game Thanksgiving Day Between Reliance and Century Teams.

At last the consummation so devoutly desired by the handball enthusiasts at the Reliance Club has been realized in the removal of the beam through the center of the court that so materially obstructed the play, particularly of those who are in the habit of driving the ball high in the air. Now that this beam has been removed and the court shortened to regulation length the spaces above the side wall screened off and other important improvements effected, the court is practically perfect and is one of the best in the State.

Among those who play regularly at the club and many of whom will be remembered as being among the most enthusiastic players of the old Reliance are J. J. Hanlin Jr., D. J. Stewart, Harry Wagon, James and M. W. Jollett, James M. McKins Jr., M. M. Guthrie, A. E. Goetz, Paul T. Carroll, Phil Rosenheim, C. N. Bonnemont, H. L. Breed, Dr. M. J. Collins, T. J. Golden, W. P. Hook, C. S. Hannan, Joe Lancaster, N. J. Prendergast, W. D. Ryder, J. P. Scanlan, R. H. Smith, Dudley Snell and others.

With the coming of winter the interest in indoor athletics is increasing proportionately and as a consequence the gymnasium of the Reliance Athletic Club is a busy place. On class nights and the instructors have their hands full training the aspirants in their various lines of work. Otto Rittler, physical instructor of the club is devoting considerable time to parallel bar work and has a class of men who are developing remarkably in that direction.

In all probability a ladies night will be given shortly and to prepare for this the instructors are working up individual and class stunts as it is not unlikely that the majority of the numbers on the program will be of an athletic nature.

The rivalry that has existed between the Century Athletic Club of East Oakland and the Reliance Club will culminate in the big game of American football to be played Thanksgiving day at Freeman's Park.

In a closely contested game last Christmas the Reliance team defeated the Century men and ever since that time the fact has rankled in the bosoms of the players across the lake. They have striven to take the scalps of the Reliance men this year and as a consequence of their anxiety to win are devoting all their available time to training for the occasion. The Reliance eleven has been nothing loath to pick up the gauntlet thrown by the Century and are indulging in regular practice under the coaching of Bishop.

The plan of holding an amateur wrestling contest at the Reliance some time in the near future is meeting with considerable response and Instructor McIntyre is developing a class of ambitious pupils to take part in the event.

It is the desire of the management to awaken the dormant interest in this sport and a public exhibition of contests for prizes will no doubt prove decidedly popular with the lovers of this form of athletics.

No form of music is so conducive to enthusiasm as that emanating from a brass band. The very sound of a drum spurs men on to do their utmost and the vibrant notes of a cornet thrill a nothing else can. Edward R. Kelly, a Reliance worker of no little popularity in club circles, is interested in a band for the organization and the several evenings practice under R. H. Willis a competent leader has developed a really clever musical combination.

The boys will make their first public appearance with the Reliance football team when the game with the Century Club is played on Thanksgiving Day.

Fraternities to Play Rugby

Rugby is all the rage among the fraternities at the University of California at present. Harvard, Cornell, Yale and Princeton are all playing it. The teams were playing games nearly every day last week and many are scheduled for this week. The boys seem to enjoy the game, although the finer points of the play are not thoroughly understood by the majority of the men.

It is these interfraternity and class games, however, which will teach the students the new game. It is only by playing Rugby that the men can become acquainted with the game. Many of the first boys who are taking up the game are doing so for fun or exercise rather than trying to make the varsity.

The Phi Delta Theta team played the Chi Psi fifteen last Tuesday. The Phi Delta proved to be the better team as they won by the one tied score of 22 to 0. The game was interesting from the spectators point of view, however.

California Field To Be Turfed

The work of turfing the football field at the University of California will begin shortly. The executive committee plans to have the field turfed similar to the one at Stanford. The seed will be planted after the first rain.

Mansell of the agricultural department of the university will have charge of the work. He has seen all the important Rugby and polo fields in England and Scotland and is well posted as to what grass will withstand the wear and tear the best. Mansell says that the grass used on all the big turfed fields of England is the species known as English ryegrass. It is tough and can withstand hard usage and drought.

After the seed is sown no one will be allowed to use the field either for football or baseball until next spring when intercollegiate baseball will be played on California field.

When the Rugby season comes around again it is expected that many more candidates will come out for the team owing to the enjoyment from playing on a field free from dirt and dust.

Flynn and Ward Game Fighters

The next boxing show to be held in Oakland will be at the Reliance Athletic Club on Friday December 6 when the club will stage the biggest attraction that has been offered the Oakland boxing fans. It will be a fight between Jim Flynn and Ward.

Jim Flynn the fighting fireman from Colorado who has shown such great fighting powers in all his matches and in the history of the game here. When he fought a man who outweighed him as a welterweight would a feather weight he never once showed the white feather.

Flynn for gameness is the real thing and when he stacks up against Bob Ward who is to be his opponent in the coming battle he will be expected to bring him into the ring all the gameness and fighting power he has for if ever he was in for a battle he is on that night.

Ward is one of the fastest men that ever trod the boxing shoe. He is well known punching ability will make him a terrible opponent for any living fighter. Ward also carries a punch that is sure to land on his opponent. This was shown in his amateur contests when he repeatedly knocked his men out in but less of short duration.

The management has announced that they intend to put on a list of preliminary fights with the contest that will startle the followers of the game.

Berkeley High School To Play Seattle

The Berkeley High School football team will leave in a few days for Seattle where they have a game scheduled with the Seattle High team for November 30th. The game was first dated for Thanksgiving Day, but the local team found that they could not reach Seattle in time.

The Berkeley boys are disgusted with the middle in the Academic League over the present football championship and are resolved to get out a good game at least with an outside team. The Berkeley men sent the Seattle team the list of their victories over the preparatory schools around the bay. The Northern men were well satisfied with the Berkeley team as one of the best of the Academic League judging from their ten victories and no defeats, and gave them the chance to come north.

The inter-club baseball championship at the University of California has reached the second round. Last week four games were played and the winning teams will now meet.

The Ridge Road Club defeated the Calimedes by a score of 10 to 3. The battery for the Ridge Road nine consisted of Christen and Hillyard. Powell and Corey occupied the same positions for the Calimedes players.

The second game of the week was between the Abacados and Dwight Way teams. Conrad and Dwight were pitchers and catcher, respectively, for the Abacados team while Steele served up the benders for the Dwight Way boys. Renout was behind the bat.

The Bachelordons and Polmar clubs were the opposing teams in the third game of the week. The game was a tie, each team scoring four runs. The Bachelordons battery was Stetson and Haffey while the Polmar pitcher and catcher were Wilcox and Sorensen. This game will be played off next week. Darkness prevented finishing the game last Thursday.

The last game to be played was between the Pirates and the Los Amigos nines. The Pirates had the better of the game

SAN ALVISO TAKES PLACE FROM RED LEAF

By LEE DEMIER.

When "Skidoo Day" and "Hoodoo Day" look horns on a race course, the devotees of the game, who as a rule are a superstitious lot, will look wise and say: "Well, go easy today, there'll be something doing." Accordingly when the "piked brigade" discovered that this was the thirtieth day of the month, they decided to keep close to the field books and deal out the one dollar certificates on "morals" only. This double dose of "jinks" was only a myth, however, as the crowd that gathered at this popular pleasure spot numbered into thousands, and the sport witnessed was such as is witnessed only on the great Metropolitan courses. Twenty-nine big stores, three field and one combination books, hung up their slates for business, and had all they could do to attend to the wants of the better.

Each race on the card was made up of high-class performers, the Gilroy Handicap of course was the star event, and seven well groomed runners answered the bugle call.

The getaway was soon made. Johnny Lyons and Mark Anthony were allowed to race their heads off the first part, and when the stretch run for home began had nothing left and dropped out of the running. Then in a driving finish Peter Sterling, which was starting for the first time, just got up in time to take the prize by an eyelash from San Alviso. Red Leaf, after being hemmed in on the rail all the last part, held on long enough to take show money.

San Alviso was probably the best horse he had bumped into in the last quarter by the winner. The race was run in the very fast time of 1:46.15.

The talent all went to Money Muse in the opening sprint and it was a shame to take the money. The De Arman gelding came on when his jockey let him down and won with something up his sleeve. The son of The Hero is sure in the fettle of this season, and today's race was run within four-fifths of a second of the track record. Creston Boy did his best and took the place from Billy Mayham.

Husky showed that he is some colt when he ran right back to his last race, and in the easiest possible manner romped home in front of Darlington and Altitude in the two-year-old event. The son of Royal Flush III went to the post practically fitter than at the pleasing odds of 12 to 1, and under a well-judged ride came on in the stretch and just rolled in. This youngster is right on edge and will be a better one.

Neither kept Canique close up to the pacemakers in the third race and after a shake-up in the stretch won going away. Willis Green made a determined effort in the stretch, but could not quite get up. Vinton outgamed the others for the show.

Pontotoc after a hustling ride, drew down the first pair of brackets for the Keene stable and broke what seemed to be a "hooker" that has been sticking around this barn since the opening. Martinmas closed ground gamely and beat out Wither Boy for the place.

Arkilla managed to grab the rail in the stretch and in a fierce drive just got up to defeat Sugarmaid in the closing race. Silver Stoking grew more heavily setting a rapid pace and fell into third place.

MONEY PLENTIFUL AT TRACK.
While Uncle Sam and his able assistants at the Capitol are preparing to issue bonds to relieve the financial situation throughout this country the great battle of dollars goes merrily on in the big betting ring at William Park as if there was not such thing as a money panic and the temporary substitute for money the Clearing House Certificates find a market value in this game as well as among the business houses of the community and if a stranger were to overlook the surging mass of anxious bettors who fill the ring he would think this talk of financial trouble was a hoax instead of a reality. It only goes to show that the sport of racing has such a strong hold on the people of California that it will take more than a mere cessation of business and declaring of holidays to keep them away from their favorite pastime.

It is a fact that more small money and what is termed pickers are on the ground than ever before and that a larger number of plunkers and men who send their money in such volumes that it can be easily felt here to see the winter season through but have not unbuckled their purse strings to any extent, as gamblers of this sort wish the game to become settled and firm established here they can judge the proper time to place their wagers and in the course of another week this element combined with the large number of small bettors will make the changing of money the heaviest in the history of racing at this famous course. The number of books on keep within the twenty-five mark which was good as any previous year at this season of the year and by the time the holidays get here it is safe to predict the ring will have a new record established for the Coast.

The excellent weather with fast track conditions has kept the form up to a very high standard and the patrons have had every advantage to decrease the bank rolls of the men who manipulate the sponge and think, the favorites have more than held their own and many heavily backed horses have gathered in the long end of the purse to the chagrin of the bookmen.

those horses that will have him astir will know they have been in a horse race when they come down the stretch and Bill getting everything that is in out of them, this boy is one of the strongest finishers in the business and may be depended upon holding his end up the coming winter. Of the other boys riding here (G. Burns the pilot for the Carman stable has caught on best with race goers and barely a day passes but he slips one or more first past the post and his work in the saddle is that of a real jockey.

"Happy" Burton another lad who went to New York and made good has been showing his home people he has not lost the art of putting over a winner occasionally and in this boy a corner can be seen and before many days will be holding his end with the best. Herman Radtke a boy that was the largest following of any jockey on the coast two years ago has been riding some few days and finally broke the ice when Nagazan finished first in the sixth race on Tuesday. Now that this popular lad has gotten in his stride much will be expected from him and the general opinion is that he will make good in every respect. With Walter Miller and Eddie Dugan the list of jockeys will be swelled to the greatest number of high class riders that have ever graced the California tracks and seldom get together on any one course at one time.

MANY CLOSE FINISHES.
One of the most gratifying results of the present meeting has been the many close finishes and the well balanced fields that have gone to the post. The handicaps have been as they should be open contests, with no one choice several being held at almost the same price and the finishes denoting the excitement in which they are made up by the close manner in which they go under the wire together. The New California Jockey Club is indeed to be congratulated on having a peer in this branch in Mr. Horace Egbert. Another feature for which the Jockey Club deserves praise is the excellent staff of officials they have gathered around them to look after the many details of a large business and for the welfare of the patrons. The gentlemen in the stand have gained such confidence with race goers that their decisions are taken without a question as just. Knowing that a correct and honest interpretation of the rules have been made.

LOCAL HORSES GET COIN.
While the general opinion seemed to be that the large eastern stables, especially those of S. C. Hillbreth and R. Corman would walk away with all the place money the contrary has been the rule since opening day and these two powerful racing firms have met foes of their own steel in what has been termed bush horses and have been pretty thoroughly trimmed in the feature events, however, the tables are apt to be turned any time and as the horses from across the Rockies become acclimated and round to their best form the gentlemen of the "big" town will get theirs, but it is indeed pleasing to see how the horses that have remained on the coast have held their end up and it speaks volumes for the racing and class of local performers.

That Harry Stover and his Butte race track will be the mecca for many large stables next summer is a foregone conclusion by the manner in which horses that raced in that high altitude have done at the present meeting and there is no doubt but the change of climate more than benefited the horses, thereby making it a place for owners of good animals to sum-

IN THE BATTLE OF DOLLARS
One of the most popular layers in the big ring Johnny Lyons came near passing in his final checks a few evenings ago when he was overcome by pneumonia pneumonia but fortunately has recovered and is back and attending to business as of yore.

This gentleman has a host of friends among the bookmakers and players alike and great concern was evinced at his sudden illness, but the well wishes are with him.

Little "Pete" Christenson is among the late arrivals and is studying form with an idea of recouping on his heavy losses of the past summer.

John M. Crane the popular bookmaker keeps playing at his old favorite Byronerdah and when this one gets a bracket will have his checks drawn as usual. No matter what they say "Genial Jack" is there with his money every time his old stand-by starts.

Harry Trelch of the Bohemian Club and one of the oldest in fact of number of years operating, but not in actual age is leading off the ring in setting prices. As usual, Harry is a winner and will be seen regular on the front end until the winter in spring.

"Hee" Cornick and his Palstaff crew are busy handling the coin.

Frank Bain always alert for any angles is one of the busiest men on the block and his score never turns an anxious bettor away.

"Billy" Engstrom the shrewdest chaser of odds in the ring keeps a corps of outside men busy getting down his commissions and is one of the biggest winners of the season.

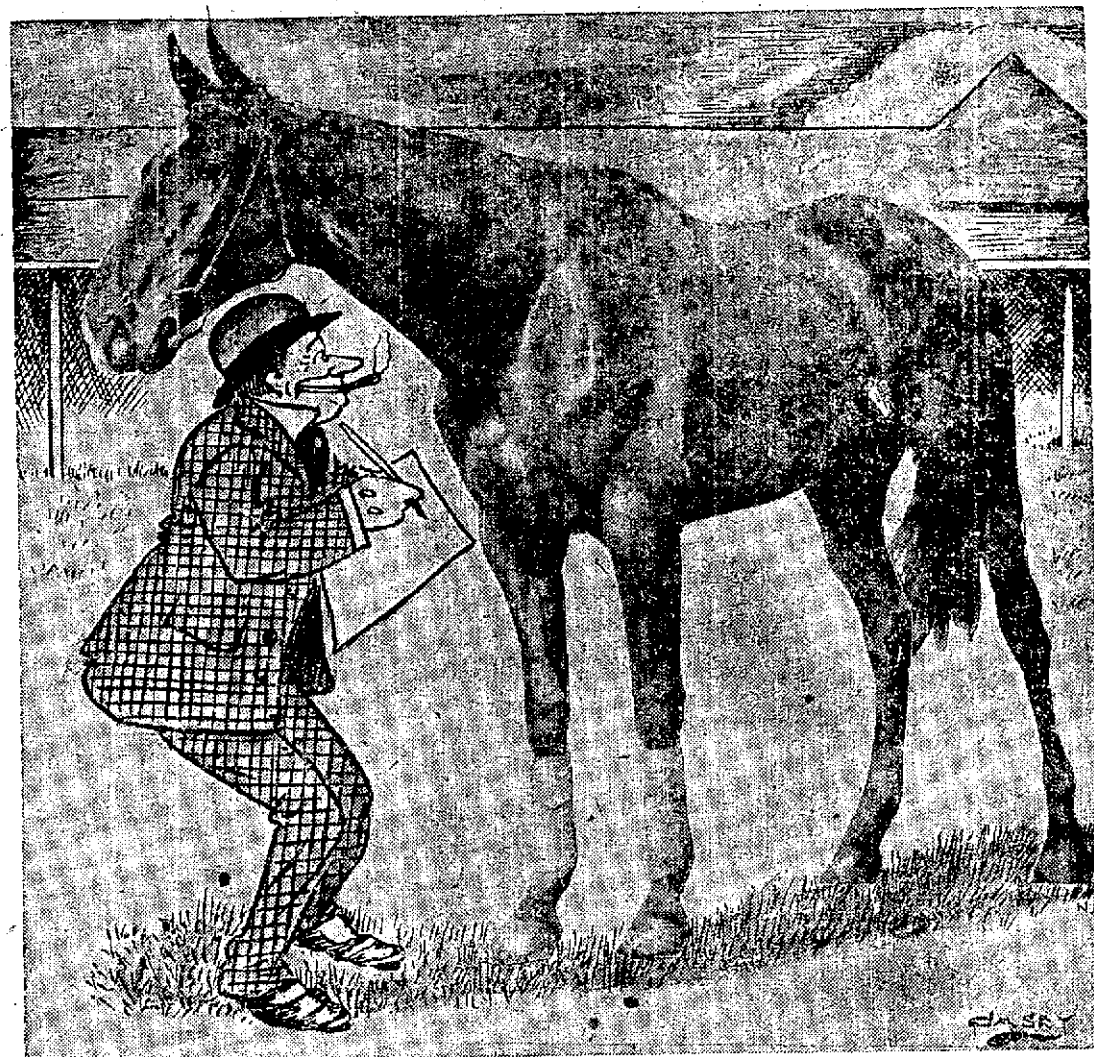

Charley Bowman went on for three days and found the ground squirrels so close in picking out the winners that he decided to lay low a while. His store was the busiest mart in the ring and the long line of cashiers was a sight to behold. It cost the game gambler just 3000 plunks to handle the coin these three days. That's going some in these days of adversity.

Joe Rose, the best known operator on the coast, will soon be here to get in line. Mr. Rose has been in New York looking after his many business connections and will be a little later getting the odds posted on his slate than in former years.

The trusing the men who put up their coin to be shot at made six of them duck the issue, but four new ones went on to keep up appearances and as soon as form makes a shift the number in line will be swelled to its biggest record. More bookmakers, their clerks and men who depend on that side of the game are on hand than at any other time in the history of California racing. With the opening of Arcadia many will blow to the Southland.

In the third race on Wednesday a dash of five furlongs, out of seven starters six of the names commenced with the letter "S." Aunt Polly being the outsider.

Riflemen's win of the San Leandro handicap at one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:45 2-5 by seven lengths galloping will make him a hard horse to beat from now on.

LEGATTE, A FAST AND GAME GELDING, BY BELVEDERE-LEGACY. H. G. BIDWELL IS THE PROUD OWNER. LEGATTE RAN A REMARKABLE RACE IN THE GILROY HANDICAP SATURDAY.

NOTED STALLION SAIN HAS VARIED HISTORY.

In reports concerning the deal on for the sale of the great horse, Sain, by Schreiber to the Keenes, for a price between $150,000 and $200,000, Richard H. Cole of Chicago tells an interesting story concerning the early history of Sain. In which the well-known secret service man, Jack Cronin, plays a prominent part.

Dick Cole states that Sain was bought over from Australia to San Francisco in 1896, as a 2-year-old, in company with the famous Poul Shot and Shotgun. They were consigned with the understanding that John D. Sprackels would have the privilege of buying them. All three were raced at the old Bay District track, and Jockey Burlingame, who rode here last winter, was the jockey for Sain. The horse did so poorly that Sprackels gave him the "overlook," and finally he was attached for a feed bill, and the constable who served the papers was no other than Jack Cronin.

Burlingame was the supposed owner, but he got into a row with "Curly" Brown over some alleged crooked races, and it appears that the ownership of Sain became involved as a result of the fight. Sain was sold at auction, and Daney Schreiber bought him for $2400, and the racing world knows what Sain has been since then as a sire. Among others, he is the sire of the crack racers Dr. Gardner, Horace E. and Nealon, and also Blumenthal, Tony Bonero, Salnada, and Otto Price, that won races last winter at Ascot.

OAKLAND PLAYHOUSES AND THEIR OFFERINGS THIS WEEK

MISS MAYNE REMINGTON AND HER "BUSTER BROWN PICKS" AT THE OAKLAND ORPHEUM

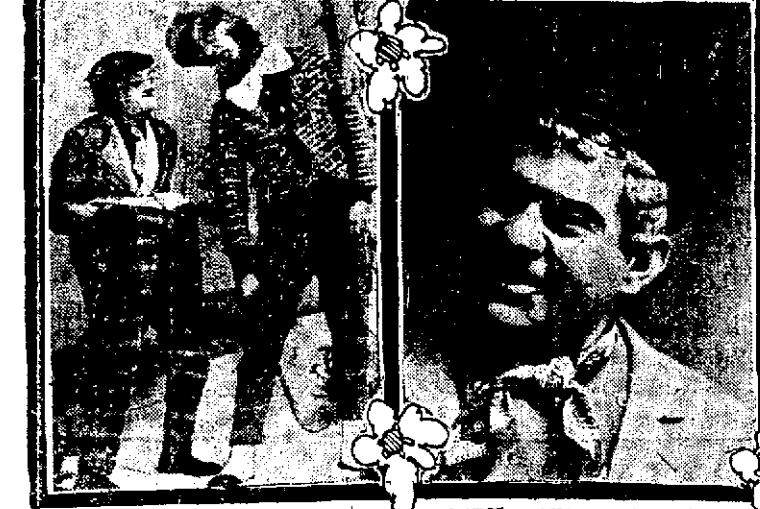

MAGDONOUGH

"The girl who has everything" is the girl who has love. That is the main contention of Clyde Fitch in the play he has written and in which Miss Labe Irving will appear at the Macdonough at next week, commencing tomorrow night.

Sylvia Lang is a girl of 20, typically American and amply blessed with the world's goods, living in New York with her brother-in-law, Mr. Guy Weems who is a widower, and whose two children, Tommy Weems and Teresa Weems, are looked after by Aunt Sylvia. Weems is a man of the world with bad habits—a hard drinker, a confirmed gambler, and willing to squander his money on anything. Before her death Sylvia's sister, Molly, left a will, after she had consulted with Philip Ward, a young lawyer of her acquaintance, and for whom she has a decided liking.

When Weems finds out the suit will be brought, and that an engagement has been arranged between Sylvia and Philip, he arranges a situation which makes it possible for him to prove to Sylvia that his only motive for wanting to marry her is to get possession of the money, and he makes the assertion that he can buy Ward. This he apparently succeeds in doing by presenting trumped up evidence that Molly, before her death, had been engaged in a love affair with another man, and by pointing out to Philip that if this were to become public it would break Sylvia's heart.

Philip agrees to advise Sylvia to withdraw her suit without telling her his reason. Thinking that Weems has made good his threat to buy Philip off, she leaves him in a rage, but later learns the truth.

TWO LORETOS BEN HENDRICKS OAKLAND ORPHEUM AT THE MACDONOUGH

seer abundance of fun with really skillful acrobatic feats.

The Two Loretos, eccentric comedians are also from abroad. They have a knock about act, which is said to be the most amusing and clever of its kind.

The La Scala Sextette, the great musical aggregation which has scored an enormous hit during the last week, will be retained and will render new selections from Grand Opera.

Tom Nawn, the Irish comedian, will have a new sketch, "The Night before Election."

Henri French, the juggler impersonator and mimic will vary his act next week.

New Orpheum motion pictures will be shown.

YE LIBERTY

The Thanksgiving week offering at Ye Liberty Playhouse will be the German comedy "At the White Horse Tavern."

For those who saw this comedy stock company a year ago it needs no advance synopsis. It is one of the very best comedies on the American stage now or at any other time.

The play is full of rich wholesome fun, and when presented by the evenly balanced cast picked from the company at Ye Liberty it will provide an evening of refreshing entertainment for any lover of comedy.

The plot is a clever series of complications that become all the more entangled as the characters endeavor to straighten things out. Still there are no situations that are so absurd as to be absolutely impossible. The characters are unique but, at that, they are alive and have the power to awaken an interest that keeps them close to the audience. The scenes are all clean-cut and incisive, and, in the production at Ye Liberty they will be starred with a scenic equipment that cannot be improved upon. The great rain-storm scene will be presented in all its realism and the other stage pictures called for by a play whose story has its setting in the Alps will be worked out to the full extent of the modern stage.

The comedy is from the German. Sydney Rosenfeld prepared the English version that is to be presented at Ye Liberty. All the action of the play has its background, as stated above, in the Austrian Alps, at a little cosmopolitan inn where there are no rules of conduct defining social distinctions. Love, romance and comedy happen in and out of the mountain retreat as the complications pile upon one another.

The lines are admirably written. They are characterized by the liveliest and sharpest of humor and exceedingly crisp and clean dialogue. The lines are not a laughing matter, but on the other hand there is an abundance of action that keeps the fun running along merrily from the first rise of the curtain to the end of the performance.

The first performance of this entertaining play will be given by the Bishop Players next Monday evening and a special matinee will be given on Thanksgiving Day. The production will run through the other evenings and the Saturday and Sunday matinees as usual.

A brief outline of the story cannot fail to be of interest here. The hostess of the White Horse Tavern is a young and pretty woman who is very popular with the guests who find their way to her place in the mountains. For several seasons there has come to the inn a young lawyer named Seidler, who, unintentionally, has won the heart of his landlady. The head waiter at the tavern, however, is in love with his employer and openly expresses his infatuation, though the young woman will have nothing to do with him.

The fun at the tavern begins with the arrival there of William Geescke, a rich manufacturer from Berlin, who is traveling under protest with his sister and daughter. He has trouble with everyone he meets. One of his bitterest enemies is a business rival in Berlin named Sutor to whom he lost a law suit just before starting on his trip. Sutor won the action and now he is a young attorney.

So happens that Sutor's son, Seidler, and Geescke find themselves at the tavern at the same time. Geescke is very much disgusted but endeavors to make the best of the situation and turn it to his own account. He asks Seidler to make love to his pretty daughter in behalf of young Sutor so that the families may be united and further trouble and litigation be avoided. Seidler, however, loves the girl himself and young Sutor turns all his attention to the daughter of a poor tutor who is spending a few days at the tavern. Geescke finds his plans again spoiled. Then the hostess of the tavern, finding that she cannot have the young lawyer, resigns herself to the suit of her head waiter.

In the cast will be Isabelle Fletcher as the charming hostess of the tavern, Hans Shomer as the insatiable traveler from Berlin, George Friend as the waiter, Landers Stevens as young Sutor, and other popular members of the company in excellently suited parts, among them George Cooper, George Webster, Henry C. Mortimer, E. L. Bonison, Raymond Walburn, Madeline Maxwell and Estelle Warfield.

LION AND MOUSE

How a gentle, loving, tender girl, unused to the rough side of life can take up the weapons of warfare and battle for her own is fascinatingly shown by Charles Klein in the character of Shirley Rossmore, in his great play, "The Lion and the Mouse."

The young woman returns from a trip abroad and discovers that her father has been financially ruined by "Ready Money" Ryder, and is to be impeached by the United States senate because he was too upright a judge to render decisions to suit the aims of the money king. As "Ready Money" is a household of Ryder, and with the aid of Ryder's only son, who loves her, sets about to clear her father's name. The sudden transition from the careless society girl to the woman who has but one aim in life is brought about naturally and in a manner which wins the sympathies of the audience and commands respect.

Henry B. Harris will present "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Macdonough on December 5, 6, 7.

NOVELTY THEATER

Beginning with the Monday matinee the vaudeville offerings at the Novelty Theater will be entirely changed and eight new acts will be presented for the week. The big headline feature for next week will be the Morton Jewel Troupe of five people said to be the best, difficult and startling jugglers ever brought over from the other side. They offer something entirely different in their line of work from anything presented here before. A peculiar thing about this act is the fact that the lady does all the comedy for the act. They have but recently returned from a most successful tour of Europe and the Eastern States, and will no doubt make as big a hit here as they did there. The Kaufman Brothers, a great team of black face comedians, singers and dancers, will offer their pot pourri of laughs, jokes and steps, and will no doubt be as popular favorites here as they have been for the past two weeks in San Francisco. The Brown family of three people styled the up-side-down acrobats, will offer some new stunts in sailing walking that have not been seen here before. Their act is a complete novelty and will attract much attention. Sometimes they have been called the human flies. Burt Pace, an eccentric comedian and comely acrobat and contortionist, is said to be as clever in this line as any seen here this season and offers a variety of entertainment seldom done by one performer. Labord and Ryerson, a German comedy sketch team, offering a family mix-up, are credited with getting more laughs than any three ring circus. Flo May Than-nis, a singing and dancing subretta, is said to be mighty clever in her specialty, and wears some of the handsomest gowns ever. The show-bill and two new reels of imported motion pictures will make up an altogether attractive program of modern vaudeville that should attract the usual crowds of Novelty patrons to the pretty little Broadway playhouse.

JEROME FERNANDEZ - ISABEL IRVING - VIOLET HILL AT THE MACDONOUGH

This remarkable player stands as a colossus among his brothers in the art and each year his greatness seems to increase. He is one of the very few "child wonders" who have fully and more than fulfilled every promise of their early youth. Josef Hofmann has a similar record among pianists.

Kudlik is meeting with greater success than ever before in New York where over five thousand people attended his opening concert at the big "Hippodrome." Kudlik is the only musical star under the Frohmann management. This alone speaks volumes.

TRY TO LYNCH NEGRO SAILOR

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—A special from Redondo, where Rear Admiral Dayton's squadron is lying in port says that there was an incipient race riot among the sailors of the fleet last night, that nearly terminated in a lynching.

A negro sailor named Epps presented himself at a local hall where a dance was in progress. He was refused admission and started a fight. Several white sailors who were present assisted in ejecting him. He went across the street where the quarrel was renewed and he was knocked down by a white sailor.

KNOWING DOWN WOMAN. In leaving the place, Epps either purposely or accidentally knocked down and seriously injured a white woman on the sidewalk.

Immediately the negro was seized by a number of sailors and after being given a severe beating was escorted up the street with shouts of "lynch him." Policemen Gallant and Spaulding rescued Epps and took him to jail. He was taken aboard the Maryland this morning and turned over to the ship's officers.

The white sailors are severe in their denunciations of the negro sailors who attempt to meet them on terms of social equality. It is said a similar outbreak occurred recently at Santa Barbara.

MASSACHUSETTS WON'T HAVE VOTING MACHINES

BOSTON, Mass.—A voting machine cannot be used at an election for State representative in the legislature for the reason that the constitution provides that they shall be chosen by written vote.

That is the reason for the decision of the full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court in ordering a writ of mandamus to issue to the petition of Representative Malcolm E. Nichols of Ward Ten against the election commissioners directing their not to use the voting machine as the statute under which its use is authorized is unconstitutional.

something entirely different in their line of work from anything presented here before. A peculiar thing about this act is the fact that the lady does all the comedy for the act. They have but recently returned from a most successful tour of Europe and the Eastern States, and will no doubt make as big a hit here as they did there. The Kaufman Brothers, a great team of black face comedians, singers and dancers, will offer their pot pourri of laughs, jokes and steps, and will no doubt be as popular favorites here as they have been for the past two weeks in San Francisco. The Brown family of three people styled the up-side-down acrobats, will offer some new stunts in sailing walking that have not been seen here before. Their act is a complete novelty and will attract much attention. Sometimes they have been called the human flies. Burt Pace, an eccentric comedian and comely acrobat and contortionist, is said to be as clever in this line as any seen here this season and offers a variety of entertainment seldom done by one performer. Labord and Ryerson, a German comedy sketch team, offering a family mix-up, are credited with getting more laughs than any three ring circus. Flo May Than-nis, a singing and dancing subretta, is said to be mighty clever in her specialty, and wears some of the handsomest gowns ever. The show-bill and two new reels of imported motion pictures will make up an altogether attractive program of modern vaudeville that should attract the usual crowds of Novelty patrons to the pretty little Broadway playhouse.

NANCE O'NEIL SAYS SHE EARNS HER $2000 A WEEK SALARY

TO LEAVE VAUDEVILLE FOR GREAT AMERICAN PLAY

BY BETTY MARTIN

"I am enjoying it immensely," declared Miss Nance O'Neil relative to her vaudeville experience. "It has always seemed to me just as though I were in my own theater."

"That's just what I wanted to ask you about—the atmosphere of vaudeville. I thought you'd find it very different from work in the legitimate drama."

"Not at all," came the quick reply, as the actress drew an arm-chair opposite to where I was sitting.

"If they had asked me to do an act, it would have been different. But they didn't," concluded she. "I have my own plays, and everything seems just the same to me."

"But," argued I, unwilling to renounce the impression that vaudeville was a thing apart, "it doesn't seem quite the same to me behind the scenes in a vaudeville house as it does in other theaters. There are so many people, and so many different acts."

"The stage management," replied Miss O'Neil, "is excellent, and I have had the pleasantest experiences with every one I have met behind the scenes. Of course, you're not obliged to meet any one, if you don't want to, but I've come in contact with most agreeable people."

Miss O'Neil had just returned from an afternoon performance at the Orpheum to her apartments at the hotel. She has with her, as upon the last trip, when playing a star engagement at the Liberty, the little Japanese maid "Toto," also two pet dogs, a bull pup called "Doga" and a jet black spaniel, both of whom had greeted my appearance with growls which promptly banished them to an inner apartment.

ABOUT HER PETS.

"Did you bring them with you?" I inquired, as they disappeared with the air of two spoiled children. "Oh, yes," was the reply. "They go everywhere with me. I've given away all of my best blooded dogs, but somehow I never could part with these two."

A ring at the telephone, to which it was Toto's duty to reply, caused the opening of the door leading to the inside room, which opportunity the two dogs took immediately to advantage of to sneak quietly back again and ensconce themselves under the sofa, where they remained in silence during the interview.

Miss O'Neil wore a tailor gown of blue, with white shirt waist and a picture hat trimmed with magnificent ostrich plumes, which she removed, disclosing the hair worn in a coil high on the head, and guileless of the countless puffs and curls with which many actresses are prone to adorn themselves. The hat disposed of, conversation proceeded. Miss O'Neil is very much in earnest; no one doubts that. She has the courage of her convictions; also the courage to alter them when convinced that it is for the best. Contrary to the general impression, she is not cold and formal; a trifle abrupt, perhaps, but that may be because she is pretty sure of herself. She is gifted with a good memory of faces, too. Of that I had proof, having met Miss O'Neil only once—on the occasion of her last visit here something like a year ago. Yet, encountering her quite by accident, she instantly remembered me, despite having made acquaintance with hundreds of strangers during the intervening months.

$2000 A WEEK.

Returning to the discussion of vaudeville, Miss O'Neil—I have the business manager's word for it—not hers—is in that business for something approximating the sum of two thousand dollars a week.

"She is paid the merest fraction less," said he, "and during all the time of her San Francisco engagement we have had to turn people away for lack of accommodation."

"Do you expect to remain in vaudeville?" I asked Miss O'Neil, after an indirect reference to that weekly salary.

"By no means. My engagement is for twenty-four or twenty-five weeks—I've forgotten which. After that I'm going to play in New York. I've obtained a new piece, called 'Agnes,' written by Mr. George Cameron, and I think I've secured my great modern play."

Regarding the plot, Miss O'Neil did not think it best to discuss, leaving this a point of discussion for critics and future audiences.

HER NEW VENTURE.

This vaudeville venture of Nance O'Neil's can hardly be termed sudden. It came about as do many other such engagements with star actresses, although I'm not mistaken, Miss O'Neil is the first tragedienne who has ever accepted an engagement of like nature.

The plan of securing star performers was once disclosed to me by Mr. Meyerfeld, manager of the Orpheum.

"We go to a star with a proposition," said he. "The first time the offer is made it is received with scorn and indignation. We let the matter drop. After a lapse of time we make a second proposition. It's regarded with more leniency. We again make a third offer. It is accepted."

This bit of business strategy I related to Miss O'Neil.

"That's just about the way of it," acknowledged she, smilingly. "I had refused when the proposition was first made to me. But when I was in New York I couldn't get a play to suit me, and while I was considering about those which were submitted, this offer was made to me again. Why not? thought I. 'It would be different,' continued she, leaning forward and clasping both hands together. "If I hadn't other aims."

"I didn't know but what the fascination of the work might grow on you."

"No, indeed. But do you know that this is an age of commercialism? That one can do absolutely nothing without money? I don't care for money alone—it's what money brings. Personally I have no regard for it."

"I had a short chat the other day with a theatrical manager just returned from the East. He said something to me about some kind of an agreement among the theatrical men in effect that once an actress quits the legitimate, they will not be allowed to return. Do you know anything about it?"

"I've heard nothing of it," replied Miss O'Neil, "nor do I see how they could prevent one from doing as they pleased."

"He also said—that manager—that these large salaries were preposterous—that the houses didn't justify them."

WORTH THE MONEY.

"I do not want to appear boastful," Miss O'Neil spoke quietly, "but everywhere that we've appeared the managers have told us that we were worth the money. It was so in Pittsburgh, in Boston, in San Francisco—in fact everywhere that we've played. At first I really was a little nervous. I must confess, for you know a vaudeville audience has a way of manifesting its disapproval in a manner different from other audiences. But I was most gratified at my receptions."

"Have you found the audiences much different from your previous ones?"

"I think vaudeville audiences are wonderful.

"Their powers of discernment are marvelous. The way in which they witness act after act, and select, almost unerringly, the good points in each, is certainly amazing."

"Vaudeville audiences usually contain people of all classes," remarked I, "but critics have always held that in other theaters the quickest and most genuine approval comes from the gallery."

"I don't know," mused Miss O'Neil—"often people clothe themselves in reserve as a mask—I hardly think that the people of wealth and fashion have any the less feeling. It is only that they hide it."

"Perhaps. Women are more apt to than men. Do you know that when Maud Adams was here with Peter Pan it was the men who entered more heartily into the spirit of the play than did the women?"

Miss O'Neil shrugged her shoulders and then queried: "Why shouldn't they?"

"True enough. Men are more apt to be just themselves."

NARROW LIVES.

Followed an interesting discussion regarding men and women which wound up by a declaration on the part of Miss O'Neil to the effect that the majority of people lead very narrow lives. "It is just like this," said she, illustrating a circle with one shapely index finger. "They go round and round in the same daily treadmill, and never venture beyond."

"Returning to audiences, do you ever play to any one in the house?"

"Never! I never see anyone and lately I am getting so that I do not notice even the musical conductor. I want it to be so."

"And there is one thing I appreciate. You know there is a silent appreciation which is the very highest approval an actress can win. I like that best of all. In Boston my vaudeville audiences granted me that, and "I want to feel so absorbed in my part—so full of it, that there is nothing else. But I feel my audience always. There is an indefinable something comes from them to me. I can tell almost instantly whether it is cold and critical, in sympathy with me or not. I can always feel it."

"And there is one thing I appreciate. You know there is a silent appreciation, which is the highest approval an actress can win. I like that best of all."—NANCE O'NEIL.

In San Francisco, too, in the sleep walking scene from 'Macbeth.'

"You're fond of playing Lady Macbeth, aren't you. Is that your favorite part?"

LIKES MAGDA.

"I'm fond of it, yes. But I can hardly say that it is my favorite character. I like to play Magda."

"Here," said I, extracting a printed bit from my purse, "is an extract from a New York paper in which Nazimova makes a comparison between Ibsen's women and those of Shakespeare. What do you think about it?"

Miss O'Neil took the article. "Ah," said she, "Nazimova! A great artist!"

"You know her?"

"I saw her once in New York. It was when she played in the Ghetto with her Russian company. It was in 'The Master Builder.' The play was beautifully mounted—true to every artistic detail."

"But her comparison—what do you think of it?"

Miss O'Neil resumed her reading. "It is a mistake," said Mme. Nazimova, "to talk of Ibsen's heroines. Ibsen has no heroines. He has women! True!" ejaculated Miss O'Neil, then continued with the article.

"Shakespeare has heroines. There is a simplicity and grandeur about Shakespeare's women that make them seem very remote from us and very difficult for us to interpret and present on the stage. . . . Shakespeare's women seem more like types, ideals, than real persons. They are clever and definite, either good or bad, coquettish or demure, vixenish or humble, and what they are at the beginning of the play they stay until the curtain falls."

"I was reading another criticism," remarked I, interrupting, "one referring to Lady Macbeth, in which it was contended that there was great inconsistency in the character—that the sleep-walking scene was unwarranted; that a woman of Lady Macbeth's type would have suffered no remorse; have experienced no pang for having caused her husband to murder the king."

CRITIC WAS WRONG.

"The critic, in my opinion," replied Miss O'Neil, "was wrong. I consider the character of Lady Macbeth to be entirely consistent. In discussing Shakespeare's women we must consider the time in which they lived; the circumstances of birth and environment. Lady Macbeth was a perfectly natural product of her time. She was a woman of unbounded ambition and she loved her husband. I have heard it contended, though, that it was not for Macbeth, but for her son that she desired the crown."

On this point Miss O'Neil announced her intention of consulting certain authorities upon her arrival at her Massachusetts home.

As to Lady Macbeth's remorse, that was perfectly natural, Miss O'Neil declared, holding her to be a high-strung woman of nervous temperament.

"You see women of that sort often," declared she, "who, under stress, will do all sorts of wonderful things, then collapse. If you stop to consider the circumstance, Lady Macbeth was a perfectly natural woman. So with the other heroines of Shakespeare."

"And Ibsen?" reminded I.

FOND OF IBSEN.

"Ah, yes. I'm very fond of Ibsen. He was a great man. I can understand his Hedda Gabler; I can find excuses even for her. A narrow woman, having ambitions and yearnings beyond the circle in which she is placed, yet lacking courage to break her bounds. She was like many other women who find themselves married to men they don't love, or in some other predicament from which it is impossible to extricate themselves."

Followed talk about life; its joys, sorrows and complexities.

"I think every one should at the end of every year, be able to say that they are better in some way; that they have become broader, more kindly—nobler. I hope that for myself," was the sentiment expressed by Miss O'Neil, who, before parting, put two wonderful records on the graphophone, which she always carries with her—one that of a celebrated Japanese singer—the other something of Caruso's.

"You can't imagine the pleasure I have in listening to these wonderful tones," said she, as the last notes died away and the gathering darkness gave hint of the flight of time.

From a purely personal viewpoint I should say that Miss O'Neil has changed greatly. Not in appearance

—unless it might be, for the better. Nor in artistic ability, but in something more indefinable. Hazarding a venture, I should say that she has acquired a certain quality which some of her critics have ventured to declare she has heretofore lacked. And that quality is bound to predominate when she appears in her new play, "Agnes."

SOME CLIPPINGS FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

NEVER DWELL ON THE MELANCHOLY.

The McLaughlin tragedy was one of those fearful things so often resulting from the habit of concentrated brooding. The human mind holds its place by a precarious tenure. Fancy is but the wanton mistress of thought, and she may inveigle it from its seat at any time. To dwell continuously on any one thing and retain your faculties is one of the rarest proofs of mental equilibrium. A man imagines something pleasant, focuses his fancy upon it and becomes an enthusiast; and enthusiasm is too often the irresponsible mother of emotional insanity. He imagines something unpleasant and straightway morbid fancy intensifies each somber hue till he becomes a misanthrope. These Roosevelts will be forced to accept all are but degrees in madness. The man all thought is too literal for anything but mathematics. The man all imagination, too frivolous for aught but the home of the feeble-minded. It is only when sober thought is gilded with kaleidoscopic fancy held in check that we find the thoroughly rational man. Feeding the fancy while the mind starves is the cause of such fearful murders and suicides as McLaughlin's.—News Letter.

TACTICS OF WASHINGTON POLITICIANS.

It is very evident that Governor Hughes of New York looms so large on the political horizon that he is causing apprehension among the Washington politicians who desire President Roosevelt or some of his cabinet elected next year. The conference at Washington between President Roosevelt and the men who control the Republican machine in New York is highly significant. It has been made doubly so by the outspoken opinions of Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the New York State Committee, that President Roosevelt will be forced to accept the nomination. Secretary Taft, it is said, does not develop strength to suit the President. Secretary Cortelyou has been suggested as a compromise possibility. It is hard to understand how Mr. Cortelyou could develop more strength than the Secretary of War, who is generally regarded as an abler man. There are many indications that the contest for the Republican nomination will develop into a most interesting struggle and that President Roosevelt will find that his party is not willing to concede him the authority to bestow the nomination on anybody he may choose. Until quite recently it seemed to be taken for granted that the President could either accept the nomination or without question name his successor. There is now not the slightest possibility of such harmony. There is sure to be a lively contest within the party lines. The growing popularity of Governor Hughes in New York and New England, especially, may force President Roosevelt into the undesirable position of making a fight in his own State against the man whom the majority of Republicans may deem the best candidate for the Presidency.—The Wasp.

LET US ALL PRAY FOR PEACE.

But in the first place, there is no evidence that the Citizens' Alliance "wants trouble." On the contrary, by every sign discernible, every employer of labor in San Francisco most earnestly desires peace. Had Mayor Taylor no better source of information than this point than Fremont Older, the most notorious trouble-breeder in the city? Moreover, supposing the Citizens' Alliance were rash and foolish enough to "want trouble," it surely would not be the function of a peace-loving and peace-making Mayor to supply the trouble. Mayor Taylor's utterances regarding the Citizens' Alliance are as vigorous as any one

The Old Skipper

JACK WISHAAR

"I see that Amundeen is going to try for the north pole," remarked the Old Skipper as he stirred his rum and water. "Poor fellow, I'm sorry for him. For it's a useless quest," he continued, smacking his lips. "Why is it? Well, because the pole ain't there; that's the reason, and I am the one that discovered, captured and afterward lost the north pole. 'Yes, this was many years ago; in the days when the Polar star was on the fatal cruise and before the Jeannette with poor De Long ventured into the frozen Arctic. 'I was given command of the British brig Calliope. She was an iron vessel and one of the first that was built. We were loaded with time and were to take our load to Fritzen harbor in Iceland. 'When he got off the Icelandic coast it started to blow so hard that the ship was practically buried in the heavy seas. It blew for ten days, during which time we ran before it under bare poles. On the eleventh day I noticed that my cabin was almost too hot, despite the fact that it was about 10 below zero outside. I investigated and found that the water had come in through the hatches and stacked the time. This had heated the iron sides of the ship almost red hot. The deck of the vessel was iron and for this reason I knew there was no danger of the ship burning. But the question was what should we do if we got out into open water, and especially a warmer climate. By that time we were on the edge of the ice floes and I saw we could escape to the pack if necessary. Then it stopped blowing and the next morning we were surrounded by ice. But the great heat of the ship's iron sides kept the ice from forming around her."

TELLS WHY THE NORTH POLE HAS NOT BEEN FOUND

"Then it was that I hatched the scheme which succeeded so remarkably well. It was none other than to reach the north pole."

"My plan was simple in the extreme. The ship's sides were so hot that the ice could not form around them. By shoving her nose against the ice I saw that it would be possible to melt a path right through the ice to the pole."

"I had the crew get out on the ice and tow the ship against the pack, which melted rapidly. I had to steer clear of herds and in one or two cases had to dynamite hummocks that were too big to melt."

"Well, sir, we started in latitude 79 north and melted our way clear to the pole, which we reached at 11:25 a. m. on the morning of July 23. And, say; but it was a beautiful sight! The pole was a great spire of ice which reflected the prismatic colors of the sun's rays and seemed to blaze like a thousand jewels."

"Then the idea came to me to take it back with me. So we rigged a cable to the pole and started. We had to melt our way out again over the same path. This took nearly a month. By the time we were off Iceland again I noticed the pole was getting a little smaller and that the water was gradually growing warmer."

"Then it started to blow from the north and for 14 days we ran before it, always holding to the pole."

"When the gale had finally blown itself out I looked at the pole and found that it was fast melting away. Say, but it nearly broke my heart to see that beautiful pole gradually going."

"It dropped calm and the sun came out, and we could finally see the pole go. In two days there wasn't a piece of it as big as your hand."

"Well, sir, that's why the north pole has never been found. Let's mix another toddy."

MME. CALVE IS TO SING HERE

Fascinating Diva Will Appear at Ye Liberty on December 9th.

Manager Will Greenbaum has managed to secure three of the forty concerts to be given this season by the fascinating singer, Mme. Emma Calve, and one of them will be given in Oakland, through courtesy of Harry W. Bishop, who will again give up one night of his regular season in order to give Alameda county music lovers an opportunity of hearing one of the most notable artists of modern times.

The power that Calve possesses over her audiences is wonderful. In any part of the globe the name Calve on a program is synonymous with a crowded house and many an impresario has saved his season by securing Calve for a few performances.

RED LETTER EVENT

The date for this red-letter event in the history of music in Oakland is Monday evening December 9th and a brilliant program has been arranged. Among the works that the "diva" will sing are the great arias from "Mercedade" and "Massena" Massena's "Mercedade" and the beautiful coloratura song from David's "Perle de Brazil." She will also sing some old French and Spanish songs and of course the "Habanera" from Carmen without which no Calve audience would be contented.

She will be assisted by Miss Renee Chel, a young violinist, who recently created a sensation in Paris, Mons, Deereus, an eminent pianist and others.

SALE OF SEATS

The sale of seats will open Wednesday Dec. 4. Mail orders will now be received and be carefully filled in order of receipt. These must be accompanied by check, money order or clearing house certificates and should be addressed to H. W. Bishop, Ye Liberty Playhouse. Whenever Calve is appearing "matinee room only" is the rule.

DELICIOUS MINCE PIES

Strictly home made, such as mother used to make, at RUEDIGER, LOESCH & ZINKAND'S, Oakland's high-class bakery and restaurant 1609 Broadway, between Tenth and Eleventh streets.

PLANS ELABORATE THANKSGIVING DINNER

Key Route Inn Chef's are putting forth special efforts and as a result the magnificent plans to serve a Thanksgiving dinner which will eclipse any other to be had in the city. The Knights of the Griddle are kept busy with their preparations and the "inn" bustles with the fervor of their labor. In order to complete the Thanksgiving effect, special music by Paul Steindorff's parlor orchestra will be furnished from 5 to 9 o'clock.

RUNAWAY HURLS WOMEN INTO STREET

Three Seriously Shaken by Heavy Falls During Mad
Dash Through City.

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—Three frightened women clinging desperately to a small buggy which was being dragged through the streets of Berkeley at a breakneck pace by a runaway horse to the immediate danger of the occupants was the spectacle which startled the residents of South Berkeley about four o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Helen Campbell, wife of Policeman Campbell of the local police department, and her two sisters, the Misses Julia and Lucy Shepherd, were the victims of the accident, all three being thrown out of the vehicle, and it was probably due to her bravery in clinging to the reins and keeping the frantic horse in the middle of the street that the three women owe their lives.

STUNNED BY FALL.
The horse became frightened at something on Fulton street, near Dwight way, while the women were leisurely driving along toward home. Miss Julia, who was driving, clung desperately to the reins and attempted to check the flight of the animal.
Before the runaway had reached Ellsworth street both Miss Lucy and Mrs.
Campbell had been thrown out. Mrs.
Campbell received the gravest injuries,
being stunned by the force of the fall.
She was picked up by one of the city's grocery wagons and carried to her home, 2330 Ward street.

In rounding the corner of Fulton and Ward street the buggy turned turtle, and Miss Julia losing control of the reins, was thrown heavily to the sidewalk, almost ten feet away. Her glasses were broken and she sustained several painful abrasions about the face. The women are inclined to regard their escape from death as little short of a miracle. All were reported as resting easily this evening, and beyond a severe shock to their nerves no serious consequences are feared.

IS RUN DOWN BY AUTO AND INJURED

W. Halterson, Who Was Struck by Machine, May Be Internally Hurt.

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—At about 3:15 o'clock this evening Walter Halterson, who resides at 2135 Blake street, was run down by an automobile owned by W. J. Hunt, at the corner of Shattuck avenue and Blake street. The injured man was taken to the El Reposa Sanitarium at 2222 Temple street by Hart.
His injuries seem slight, consisting of several bruises and a sprained ankle, although it may be found that he sustained internal injuries.

BELIEVES PLACER CLAIM IS RICH

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—A placer claim, believed to be of much richness, has been located in Alaska by C. A. Ferrin of 2033 Benvenue avenue.
Ferrin, as president of the Northern Mining Trading Company, has owned the claim for about five years, among others with no idea heretofore of its value. Recent prospecting has put the wealth in sight. At present the lucky owner is in the East, making arrangements for further developing the claim.

AMATEURS TO STAGE NEW PLAY

Drama Written by Alameda Minister to Be Put on by Talent.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 23.—The amateur theatrical bee, which has always buzzed rather busily in Alameda, wherein it has been a veritable honeyed existence, has again set agog the large clientele which owes allegiance to the cause.
"Fathers and Mothers," the two-act play written by the Rev. William Norman Guthrie, is promised, will present something new in the field of amateur talent. Rehearsals are now being held regularly in the parish house of Christ Church at Santa Clara avenue and Grand street, where the play will be staged on December 12. The personnel of the cast is not yet announced.

MARKED CONTRAST.
A feature of the play will be the contrast presented in the second act in the first act. In the former a new set of parents, of different temperament and environment, to those presented in the first act, appear and wrestle with the problem of bringing up the next generation in conformity with their deep-seated fundamental ideas of how it ought to be done. In this respect Dr. Guthrie's play is unique, for only character appears in both acts and the theme underlying the actions throughout the entire play is carried logically and dramatically forward.

MANY ATTEND NATIVE DAUGHTERS WHIST PARTY

ALAMEDA, Nov. 23.—Enoch Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, tonight gave a whist party at Woodmen hall, which was attended by over 300 persons. Handsome prizes were awarded the winners. The hall was decorated with palms and boughs by the members of the order.

FORM A LINCOLN-ROOSEVELT CLUB ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETED AT BIG BERKELEY MEETING

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—The Berkeley Lincoln-Roosevelt League Club was organized at a meeting Friday night. Fred W. Foss, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, was elected temporary president and Max Thelan, an instructor in law at the University, temporary secretary.
A mass meeting will shortly be held at which Francis J. Heney and Lincoln Steffens will be the chief speakers. Chester H. Rowell, editor of the Fresno Republican and a committeeman of the league, was present, as was M. H. Lis-sauer of Los Angeles, one of the original organizers of the movement to banish the Southern Pacific machine from the control of California politics.
J. Arthur Elston, former secretary to former Governor Pardee, acted as temporary chairman.
C. H. Rowell told the assembled citizens of the progress of the movement since its inception last summer. He claimed that the league is not making anyone's fight for United States Senator from this State. A committee was appointed to arrange the meeting at which Heney and Steffens will speak.

'CLEAN-UP DAY' IN CEMETERY PLAN TO OPEN COURT MONDAY

Santa Rosa Women Start Campaign Against Weeds in Graveyard.
(Special to The Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Cal., Nov. 23.—Lowering clouds and rain for the time being had a dampening effect yesterday on the spirits of the energetic members of the Woman's Improvement Club, who had set aside today as "Clean-up Day" at the cemetery. But the weather cleared, and Mrs. Charles F. Rohrer, the president, announced that only actual rain falling would result in a postponement of the cleaning campaign in the quiet city.
Announcement that the improvement club had started the idea of a "Clean-up Day" was enough to put many of the let owners in the cemetery on their mettle, and in consequence, before today arrived, many of the lots had been cleaned of weeds. Folios were trimmed and things made neat. Scores of lots which two weeks ago were neglected are now kept green, all through the efforts of the improvement club.

The Cemetery Association was also spurred on to activity by the slogan issued by the club women and the cemetery walks were hoveled and the weeds removed.
Mrs. Thorer has been indefatigable as president of the improvement club, and Miss Carrie Dunbar has been an equally zealous secretary. Mrs. C. Louis Kopf is treasurer. Mrs. Joe P. Berry is chairman of the entertainment committee.
There are scores of active members in the club.

est Concerning Residents

NILES, Nov. 23.—Thanksgiving services will be held at both the morning and evening services tomorrow in the Congregational Church. In the morning the chancel will be decorated to render

Mrs. Eberly to sing the offertory "To Thee, O Lord, I Give Praise," by Merdison.
The choir will sing "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Misses Dew and Thane, and Miss Florence Hudson. In the evening
Mrs. Eberly will sing "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Misses Dew and Thane, and Miss Florence Hudson. In the evening
Mrs. Eberly will sing "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Misses Dew and Thane, and Miss Florence Hudson.

NEW HOTEL.
A big steam shovel is operating in one of the gravel pits, getting out tons of gravel, which is being put on the Western Pacific roadbed. The several county roads leading out of town are being well graded and repaved. The winter rains, which are being graded and repaved, are being graded and repaved.

RAILROAD TIME.
A slight change in the Southern Pacific time table has resulted in having two trains at better hours, one at 8 p.
m. and one at 7 p. m., both from San Francisco.
Dave Lowrie is improving steadily, but it will be some time before he can be on his feet.
Mr. and Mrs. William Bliss have a son, born November 11.
Mrs. J. Lynch is at home after a serious illness. She was in St. Elizabeth Hospital for more than a month.
Mr. Brander of Oakland is gaining strength rapidly, and is under the operation for a few days at the Alameda Hospital early this month.
Mrs. "Phineas" is in Oakland for this week.

Aged Men Enjoy 100-Mile Tramp

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—James Lee of 2704 Hill-gass avenue and L. Foster of Hill-gard avenue, both sexagenar-ians, have just completed a 100-mile journey on foot with the greatest ease and pleasure.
The two men are enthusiastic pedestrians and left their homes here recently for the journey. They went as far as San Mateo on the train, walking the remainder of the distance to Santa Cruz. At night they found sleeping places wherever they could. The two men enjoyed their walk very much and feel none the worse for their journey.

FREE LICENSES ARE TABOOED

Alameda Council Will No Longer Allow Liquor to Be Sold at Dances.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 23.—The City Council, at the executive session last night, decided that there would be no more free liquor permits granted. The decision was reached after many prominent residents in the neighborhood of Harmon Hall protested. The dances which have been held at the hall have been given by many lodges, but the dance of the Bay Shore Club of two months ago, when liquor was served to minors, aroused the residents to action.
The residents complained and also proved to the Council that the noise made was so great that for blocks around there was no rest. The application of Hermann's Sons brought the question to a head and the request was denied.

are taking place almost daily under the direction of Robert McClure. It is planned to give the play on the evening of

MAYOR AND BIG COMPANY AT OUTS

Alameda Executive Says Car Lines Not Properly Rushed; Company Takes Issue.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 23.—Mayor E. K.
Taylor does not know much about road building, according to a letter that the city clerk received this morning from the Oakland Traction Consolidated.
Several days ago Mayor Taylor complained to the Council that the traction company was not properly improving Park street where standard gauge tracks were being placed. The company was notified that the Mayor made such a statement, and in the communication received today says that the work is being done according to standard, and that as the company will be compelled to keep the thoroughfare in repair it is doing the work as it should be done and in a satisfactory manner, despite the assertions of the Mayor.

MAKE SOUNDINGS.
BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—The Pacific Construction Company has begun making soundings on the mud flats at the foot of University avenue for the municipal wharf, the contract for which has not yet been let.

WHEEL OF JUSTICE WILL REVOLVE BERKELEY COURT TO OPEN AND DISPOSE OF LARGE CALENDAR

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—Never in the history of the local court of justice has there been such a large docket as that which now awaits the attention of Justice of the Peace Edgar, at the end of the holidays. Next Friday will be the first court day since the holidays were declared by the Governor.
The new law allowing the work of courts to go on in spite of specially-declared holidays will go into effect Wednesday night, Thursday being a legal holiday by virtue of the Government's Thanksgiving proclamation. The law will not be in actual operation until Friday morning, when the court will once more resume business.
The notable cases are those of Victor
Apeland, William Campbell, Carl Janssen and George Bristol against on a charge of beating a Jap in a street car riot in this city. All are out on heavy bond. The only one of the list who is held in jail is William Atley Heath, charged with threatening to kill William C. Faught, his foreman, and with carrying concealed weapons.

SOCIETY MATRON GUEST OF HONOR Young Women of Church Hostesses

CLUB TO DON FANCY DRESS Second Series of Dances of Le Trianon Members on December 4.

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—Mrs. John Hav-land Lachrop was the guest of honor at a delightful informal reception at the Trianon Church yesterday afternoon.
The young women of the church arranged the affair. The invitations were sent out over the telephone.
A feature of the afternoon was an informal musicale, among the numbers being vocal solos by Miss Ethel Peble, violin solos by Miss Lucy Pribner and vocal solos by Miss Jessie Murray of Piedmont.
The parlors were attractively decorated with white flowers and the Japanese Theater.
Miss Alice Henry, Miss Reba Galvin, Miss Gladys Pilkington, Miss Lillie Reveal, Miss Mariana Mathews, Miss Edna Wyckoff and Miss Elsie Noy composed the receiving party, welcoming the one hundred and fifty guests who were present during the appointed hours, 3 to 6.

TO GIVE FANCY DRESS BALL.
The second of the series of dances of the Le Trianon Club, which is taking place on December 4, in the Hillside place on Decatur drive in the Hillside clubhouse, is to be a fancy dress affair and the members are making elaborate preparations for the event. The costumes are to be bewitchingly pretty and a number of original ideas are to be cleverly carried out.
Among the members of the club are Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Mary Andrews, Miss Allen, Miss Ruth Allen, Miss Knisson, Miss Gillette, Miss Chamberlain, Miss Armstrong, Miss Louise Berryman,
Miss Clara Ferrin, Miss Gardner,
Miss Stewart, Miss Laura McElroy,
Miss Josephine Anderson, Harry Knudson, Porter, Bush, Hudson, Mace, Howard, Foster, Bookmeister, Anderson, Dewald and many others.

ELABORATE DANCE.
The members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity were hosts last evening when they entertained at an elaborate dance.
A number of matrons aided in receiving the guests, which included popular girls of college and town society. The house was made festive with masses of greenery and garlands of the college and fraternity pennants. Music, song, dancing and a delightful menu were among the evening's pleasures.

WHIST CLUB AT SCHNEIDER HOME.
The Wauwaukei Whist Club met last evening to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs.
E. J. Schneider at her home on Russell street. Among those who enjoyed the bi-weekly game were Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. F.
Connor, Mr. and Mrs. W. Neiman, Mrs.
Benton Langley, Ray Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Schneider.

GIVES DINNER AT COUNTRY CLUB.
Delton Harrison presided as host at dinner this evening at the Claremont Country Club. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edney Henry and the Misses Sue and Pauline Persons of Mare Island, Miss Zarland, Miss Hall, Naval Constructor E.
D. Gatenond, George Lewis, Hallock
Wright and the host.

ELKS JINKS MONDAY EVENING.
The Elks will hold their regular monthly jinks on Monday evening. The affair will be for the ladies and friends of the members as well as for the Elks themselves. A clever jinks program is being arranged by a committee of which R. E.
Magill is chairman. The later hours of the evening will be devoted to dancing.

WILL ENTERTAIN THURSDAY AFTERNOON.
Among the hostesses of next week will be Miss Marian Howell, who will preside at an informal 500 party at her home on Ward street on Thursday afternoon.

COTILLION CLUB DANCE POSTPONED.
The dance of the Winter Cotillion Club, which was to have taken place last evening at the Hillside Club, was postponed owing to the fact that many of the members belong also to the Berkeley Assembly and to La Jeunesse, and three dances in one week are a little too many.

HILLSIDE CLUB.
The members of the Etude Club will enjoy their regular hour of music on Monday afternoon at the Hillside Club.

CIVIC BODY OF COLLEGE TOWN OPPOSES PLAN

Chamber of Commerce Does Not Favor Greater San Francisco Scheme.

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—Secretary
Burrows of the Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a communication from Secretary Stearns of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce requesting the officers of the Berkeley chamber to be present at a conference of the officers of the civic organizations of Alameda county, at which plans will be discussed to oppose the Greater San Francisco idea.
Secretary Burrows said that it was likely that they would help Oakland in this fight, but would have to wait the conference if a Greater Oakland proposition were brought to come up.
In the case, but he added that if Oakland would agree to consolidation under a borough system of government, which up to this has never been broached, he thought that in all like-hood the local Chamber of Commerce would probably consider the question.

TRUSTEES IN WAR OF WORDS

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—During the debate over a proposed liquor ordinance on Friday night at an executive session of the trustees, Nels Olsen, trustee from West Berkeley, became greatly excited because three of his colleagues refused to favor the report of the license committee, of which he is chairman. The provision was made for the licensing of wholesale liquor establishments, which was objected to by the other members of the board.
In the words fight that ensued Trustees Olsen and Schmidt were favorizing the license, pitted against Connor Gompertz and Schand. In recommending that wholesale liquor licenses be granted Olsen made the statement that many prominent men favored the idea. Connor immediately asked him to give some of the names of these prominent men, but Olsen could not do this, it is stated. He then made the statement that a petition would shortly be presented to the Board that would compel them to submit the liquor question to a popular vote, and that they would have no say in the matter. At this juncture Schmidt remarked that the Board had entirely rejected the proposition, and he thought that they should square themselves by giving West Berkeley its saloons. "Unless you do this," said he, "the proposition to consolidate Berkeley with Oakland, when it comes to a vote will carry."

ALEXANDER HAMILTON SOCIETY IN SESSION

BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—The members of the Alexander Hamilton Society and of their friends heard Detective William J.
Burns lecture Friday evening on the gigantic fraud against the Government committed by Jacobs and Kendy, the famous counterfeiters. They were elgar manufacturers and found it profitable to make their own revenue stamps.

Roy G. Thompson of San Francisco acted as temporary chairman and introduced George W. Graydon, president of the council, as president of the evening.
Ralph Norton of Berkeley made a short address on the reasons for the founding of the society. Mr. Arthur Rader spoke on the future of the society. The object of the Alexander Hamilton Society is the education of the youth in all Government questions. It is planned to have numerous lectures by prominent speakers in the day cities.

DANCING TO CONCLUDE JINKS AT ELKS' HALL.
BERKELEY, Nov. 23.—Invitations have been issued for the 4th to be held by the Elks at their hall in Berkeley Monday night. The entertainment will be the regular monthly show of the Berkeley Jinksmen. In this instance they have invited the women to be present, and dancing will be the evening entertainment. R. E. McGill, the chairman of the jinks committee, is preparing the program.

"What is most needed just now is that our citizens should realize how fundamentally sound business conditions in this country are and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings instead of trusting perfectly sound banks."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, November 17.

CARRY CHARMS FOR GOOD LUCK

Toy Gods, Devils and Plutos of Rabies Appeal to Superstitious Attresses.

It is an old saying that negroes, sailors and actors are the most superstitious of all people, which may be true. But probably deep down in the heart each one of us cherishes a little bit superstition of our own—a little weakness which we may or may not like to confess.

Some do not like to cross a funeral procession nor have anything to do with the number thirteen, or will not begin anything on Friday. Others shudder to hear a dog howl, or to see the moon over the left shoulder. Some will not receive a pointed present without giving a penny in return. Although the point breaks friendship, a penny will cancel the evil influence.

The list of things which are thought to possess a subtle, malign influence, a secret power for evil, is a very long one and there is an equally long list of irresistible good luck charms.

FOR GOOD LUCK.

A rabbit's foot is imagined to cast a magic spell which will subdue any hoodoo that which has the strongest influence being.

"The left hand food on a graveyard rabbit. Dat was caught by de dark ob de moon."

A potent charm to bring back a sweetheart's affections is a toad's heart stuck with nine pins and nine needles, or a shirt taken from a man that has been buried a week. The garment must be slept in all night.

The superstitions connected with jewels are many and poetic and have existed for thousands of years. An Oriental superstition about jade is that one can fall from a very high eminence and, wearing a pure jade to be uninjured.

STAGE FOLK SPOOKS.

Stage folk have many superstitions connected with almost everything. In fact there is a superstition it is hard to know when you are bringing all kinds of bad luck upon yourself and everyone else. It is a sure cause of bad luck to put the left foot on the stage first. The one nearest the door will lose the engagement if another whistles or sings in the dressing room and this is the most certain way to def. fate. It is very unlucky to put your shoe on the dressing room table or to pick up a comb you have dropped. If the actor's like the play and enjoy them parts the play is sure to be a failure with the public. And, Oh! to count the audience through the "peep" hole in the curtain! No sure way to ruin a play was ever known. The cause of a play must never be changed while the rehearsals are going on for the first performance. If it is so changed the play will be a failure sure. In the old days when the curtain rolled up from the bottom on a roller it was thought unlucky to stop on the roller. But, above all things, never say the tag of the play at rehearsals for that is inviting the evil spirits to do their worst. The tag is the last word spoken in a play before the final fall of the curtain. Many managers, when they are preparing big productions, will never have the last word spoken at rehearsals.

CLINGS TO TALISMAN.

Some of our own local favorites have their beliefs in a talisman which brings them good luck and what brings them bad.

Nancy O'Neil carries with her, on all her tours, the little Japanese good luck god, "Tsuneki." The little talisman has been around the world with her and has crossed the continent five times. Miss O'Neil always takes care of him herself. Instead of being packed in a trunk, or a suit case, "Tsuneki" is always carried about in her hand at no little inconvenience, for he is made of china. When stopping at a hotel the little god occupies the place of honor on the mantel, where he smiles and waves his hand in a benediction.

The mascot has had a sad accident to his back. "Macdallera," a white Angora cat, which belonged to Miss O'Neil, knocked him down and broke him. "Macdallera" has long since passed to the land of the hereafter, but little "Tsuneki" is still bringing good luck to the great tragedienne.

HER BABY'S HER CHARM.

Isabelle Fletcher says she is free from superstitions, and that even "Tsuneki" has no terrors for her. But even Miss Fletcher has one little trinket which she always wears.

A little gold locket with her baby's picture in it. This is her only good luck charm and she has worn it for years and is never without it. It is a plain little charm and contains the sweet face of a little girl with big bright eyes and a curly head. Miss Fletcher acknowledges that whenever she forgets her that little locket would be the last of her possessions she would part with.

DEVIL FOR GOOD LUCK.

Faetta Jewel has a little brown plaster of paris devil for good luck. One might have thought that a devil bringing good luck, but Miss Jewel says this one does. It was given to her at the beginning of her theatrical career and has since traveled everywhere with her. While she is keeping him, she is sure to have the play of devil on the wall and is given the play of devil on the wall and is given the play of devil on the wall.

Whistling or singing in the dressing room is Miss Jewel's chief fear, although she has a decided aversion to passing under a ladder. She has a very bad memory connected with a bad thing through her window. Just a few days ago, even to a dry, her father passed away, meeting a sudden death in a car road accident.

Miss Jewel will not wear opals. She once received a beautiful opal ring for a birthday gift and a sad experience followed.

MEANS OF SUPERSTITIONS.

Madeline Maxwell has no mascot, but means of superstitions, she frankly declares. She never opens an umbrella in the house or sings in the dressing room, and after every box office touching word. Once in a while, from a habit acquired in childhood, she wishes on the first star of the evening and who of us has not said "Starlight, star bright. First star I've seen tonight. I wish I may, I wish I might. Have this wish I wish tonight."

AMERICAN ENGINEER SOCIETY TO MEET

The members of the American Engineering Society will hold a meeting tonight at Forester's Hall, No. 2, corner of Thirtieth and Clay streets.

The principal address of the evening will be by C. A. Grimmer, the state president, who will lecture on "Vibration."

OWL TRAIN STRIKES MEN

Laborers Hit by Fast Express and One Killed and One Fatally Hurt.

(Special to The Tribune.)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—One employee of the Southern Pacific, an unknown Mexican was instantly killed and another, A. Ordo, was perhaps fatally injured, by being run down by the Owl train near Burbank today.

The men were on a work train which stopped in a siding to allow the Owl to pass. As their train came to a halt, the two men leaped from a car to the opposite track and directly in front of the passenger train. Both were hurled to one side and one instantly killed. The left arm and shoulder broken besides being terribly injured otherwise.

SUGGESTS SITE FOR PROPOSED CITY HALL

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 23, 1907.

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE.—Appropos to the proposition to build a new city hall, would it not be well to have a little discussion on this very important subject before a location is finally decided upon. The pride of a city is reflected in its municipal buildings. Therefore, they should be built in most conspicuous places, on streets where there is most travel.

To build on the marsh south of Twelfth street bridge would be building it too much to one side. It is true it would look very pretty from parts of Alameda and sailors going up and down the estuary, but the thousands of visitors we are expecting in years to come, would never see it unless they had occasion to visit it on business, and then they would have to employ a guide to find it. A central location, a place easy of access from all points, is the most desirable place for it. Such a place is the present location of the State Home for the adult blind at Thirty-sixth street and Telegraph avenue. The directors of the home are considering the advisability of disposing of the site.

It is our opportunity to acquire it for the purpose of building upon it our city hall. The location is ideal. Every stranger journeying within our gates for a few days only will take a trip over the Telegraph avenue line to the University, and as this avenue will always be the main thoroughfare to the University, the city should take great pride in helping to make it more beautiful, and then if Oakland and Berkeley should ever become one city it would be very near the geographical center of Greater Oakland. Let us have a free discussion of this very important question.

W. R. SKAGGS.

HEIR TO BERRI ESTATE LIVING IN SWITZERLAND

(Special to The Tribune.)

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 23.—In far off Switzerland there is an heir to the estate of the late Joseph Berri, the Guerneville pioneer, who died recently, and whose property it was expected would have to be escheated to the State by reason of their being no known heirs. Attorney Thomas J. Butts has been informed, there is an aged aunt of Berri's residing. He has sent there for particulars.

Berri intended after his wife's death, to make a will, leaving the property to his nephew, but putting off doing so until his mind gave way and it was too late. The aunt, if she is still alive, may come into about $15,000, which will be a fortune, indeed, for her in her little home in the old canton in Switzerland.

WEAK MEN
Free Trial Treatment

Do you feel tired in the morning and easily exhausted? Is your back weak? Is your memory failing? Do you have difficulty in fixing your thoughts? Are you losing ambition? Do you feel that you are not the man you once were? Do you have hot flashes up and down the spine or sudden weakness especially after eating? Have you palpitation of the heart? Dull headache, pain at the base of the brain, sudden spells of light from no apparent cause? Are you very restless or sleepless at night? Are you nervous and irritable, with a feeling that you want to be alone? Are you gloomy, with a sense of some great oppression upon you? If so, then you need our treatment.

If you have any or all of the above symptoms you surely do not desire to remain so. Let us explain to you our methods of rebuilding the vigor of men, and refer you to the thousands we have cured.

CURE FOR WEAKNESS

We not only cure "weakness" promptly, but we employ the only treatment that can possibly cure this disorder permanently. It is a system of local treatment entirely original with us and is employed by no physician other than ourselves. This may seem a broad assertion, but it is just as substantial as it is broad. So-called "weakness" is but a symptom of local inflammation, or congestion, and a radical cure is merely a matter of restoring normal conditions throughout the organic system, and this we accomplish thoroughly and with absolute certainty. For a limited time only, in order to demonstrate our superior methods of treatment and place a perfect cure within the reach of men who have wasted money on ineffectual treatment administered by inexperienced men, who depend solely upon extensive newspaper advertising and cheap cut-rate fees to win patronage. We will give you a FREE TRIAL TREATMENT. For 30 days if you call THIS WEEK and bring this Tribune and our Hours, 9 to 4, 6 to 8, 10 to 12, Sunday, 10 to 12. Consultation free and you are more than welcome.

DON CARLOS WITH HIS TRAINED DOGS AND THE GIANT MONKEY AT THE BELL

DON CARLOS' TRAINED DOGS AND GIANT MONKEY AT THE BELL.

There is to be an excellent attraction for children at the Bell Theater next week as the program is to include the famous trained animal act presented by Don Carlos, his trained dogs, and his celebrated monkey, Jumbo. The monkey is celebrated because he is the largest creature of his kind in captivity, and because of his excellent physique the monkey is considered a living exponent of Darwin's missing link theory. The monkey is about four feet high, his limbs are straight and strong and he walks and acts much like a human being.

Harry First and company of comedians will supply another feature act for the coming week. It is a knockabout act, with a hurricane of fun and promises to prove a hit.

BALANCERS.

The Hasen Trio, direct from the Monte Carlo Music Hall, will give an exhibition of hand to hand balancing.
The Mascagnas, European dancers, will give something entirely new in the dancing line.

Madame Rolfsen, the "human dynamo" will give an exhibition of mental telepathy and further illustrations of her wonderful powers. Her gifts are said to be even greater than those of Madame Fay.

Richard J. Jose, the tenor, who has been singing at all evening performances at the Bell this week, is to remain another week and will sing at all afternoon performances. His program of songs for the coming week will be entirely different than the list for this week.

MAY YOHE.

During the week commencing Monday, December 2, May Yohe is to be at the Bell in a singing and dancing act. Her romantic elopement with Bradlee Putman Strong when she was the wife of Lord Frances Hope of England brought her into international prominence. Lord Hope was granted a divorce and May Yohe then became the wife of Strong, who was an actor. Under Strong's directions she went upon the stage and she has scored a notable triumph behind the footlights.

BRONZE HORSE HOLDS SECRET

Permission Asked to Saw Stomach Open to Procure Art Treasure.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A remarkable discovery has been made with regard to the famous statue of Henry IV, or rather the horse of that monarch, which stands on the Pont Neuf in Paris. The society known as the "Commission of Old Paris" is asking the authorities for permission to perform a little surgical operation on the stomach of this distinguished beast, and the motive for this is the following:
A well-known art collector has just discovered a remarkable document written by the brass founder, Messel, who in 1818 cast the bronze for the statue of Henry IV, the metal being the melted statues of Napoleon taken from the Column of Boulogne and the Vendome Column. The document was found by M. Laurent behind a glass in the back of an old clock which he had bought of a second-hand dealer.

HOW IT RUNS.

It runs as follows:
The statue of Napoleon, which adorned the Place Vendome, was brought to my workshop in the Folie St. Laurent, where I hid it for ten years, hoping to save it from destruction, although I several times received orders to break it up.
These orders came from the Fine Arts department, and the final command was to use the metal in the equestrian statue of Henry IV on the Pont Neuf. I made every effort in vain to prevent the statue being broken up, and went so far as to offer twenty thousand francs for the bronze, which was, however, refused.

"Allow me to add this remark: In the U. S. ATTORNEY HAS RESIGNED

(Special to The Tribune.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of W. H. H. Llewellyn, United States District Attorney for New Mexico and filled the vacancy by the appointment of Captain David Lahry.

Mr. Llewellyn will be assigned to special work in the department of justice.
Morgan Llewellyn will resign as surveyor general of New Mexico about the first of the year to enter the law office of his father, Maj. Llewellyn.

stomach of the horse will be found a little statue of Napoleon and some boxes containing verses and songs against the Bourbon regime. I could take out these articles without in any way damaging the statue.

This was the revenge of the Napoleonic

WOMEN HABITS ARE CHANGING

Taste for Sweets Gives Way to Cigarette and Drinking Habits.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—It has been noticed in women's clubs, and at restaurant dinners that women are far less keen on sweets than they were a few years ago.
They have developed a taste for savories and seasoned dishes as would have positively astounded them twenty years ago, and actually punish their delicate palates.

To the cigarette habit, which is growing on women to a remarkable extent, is assigned the cause. Other observers declare that women have largely educated their palates to stronger flavors since they have been growing more and more masculine in their tastes. A quarter of a century ago it was the exception rather than the rule to find women publicly drinking spirits, whereas whisky and soda is now freely taken at table and in public restaurants by young women.

COPIED MALE SEX.

Again, for years, women were rated for feeding themselves in unsuitable fashion. Fats and tea were supposed to ruin the gastronomic taste of any one of the sex, and in consequence they were unmercifully rebuked, upbraided, etc. Then women grew bolder.
They took violent exercise, they grew in stature and gastronomic wisdom, they copied the superior sex. They followed their lead in athletics, in the use of nerve-strengthening tobacco and in drinking for strong meals, both liquid and solid.
And now men are grumbling that women are not satisfied with sugary confections or comforted with innumerable biscuits.

MOORS RAIDED

SHIP NOW HERE

Creighall, Which Was Captured by Brigands, Anchors Off Long Wharf.

The British steamer Creighall which achieved international prominence as the vessel captured off the coast of Morocco by Moorish brigands, is now lying in San Francisco bay, off the Oakland Long Wharf.

Connected with the story of the Creighall are the Spanish, English and Moroccan governments, with a salvage boat and two fighting craft.

At 2:30 on the morning of July 4th, a dense fog obscuring sea and land, the Creighall ran ashore on the Moroccan coast near the city of Ceuta.

MOORS RAID SHIP.

Wandering Moors discovered the stranded vessel, Captain Long, with the aid of his cook, who could speak Arabic, negotiated with two of them to permit an appeal for aid to the nearest British Consul.

The messengers were true to their trust, but as they journeyed on their mission they probably passed the wreck of the disabled ship, for within a few hours a band of 200 brigands, armed with Mauser rifles and scimitars, gathered around the vessel.

They made a rush and boarded the Creighall, swarmed all over decks examining everything valuable. Their disappointment was visible when they lifted the hatches and saw the ship carried a cargo of fruit.

The captain's messenger had reached Ceuta, and sent a cablegram across to Gibraltar. A Spanish salvage boat and British torpedo boat, under the command of Admiral Sir C. Chester, appeared, and took in the situation at once.

A wireless message asking aid was sent from the torpedo boat to the British cruiser Amethyst, seventy miles away.

In two hours and a half the cruiser steamed upon the scene. The Moors, alarmed at the arrival of the torpedo boat, stampeded at sight of the cruiser.

The brigand chief remained a short time, declaring that the Creighall had been delivered to his followers by Allah. The cruiser sent out a launch loaded with blue rockets and the chief followed his band into the hills.

The Creighall was towed off the rocks and sent on her way unharmed.

Kate Moore was today appointed postmistress at Chittenden, Santa Cruz county, vice Talman Chittenden, resigned.

MAINE COMPANY TO WORK IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Tribune.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.—The Big Creek Gold Mining Company of Bangor, Me., has been granted a permit to occupy twenty acres for a power house in the Stanislaus national forest, California, and a right-of-way 3600 feet long for a pipe. The company proposes to generate electric power for commercial purposes.

"What is most needed just now is that our citizens should realize sound business conditions in this country are and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings instead of trusting perfectly sound banks."—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter, November 17.

GRANDFATHER OF NORDICA

The grandfather of Mme. Nordica, the famous singer, was himself famous in a way. He was known as "Camp-Meeting John" Allen, and he was a picturesque figure among the Methodists of Maine. He was known as a bit of a wag. At one time, having gone to Lewiston to attend a Methodist quarterly meeting, he was surrounded by a number of young men who wanted to have fun with him. "Camp-Meeting John," said one of them, "we want some religious information. Can you tell us about 'Camp-Meeting John' Allen?" "The devil's grandmother?" said the minister quickly. "The devil's grandmother—how do you expect me to know about that?"

PRINCESS FEDORA'S HISTORY

Princess Fedora, the youngest sister of the empress of Germany, is the author of a recently-published novel, "Ehnan Berta." She has a romantic history. For years, it is said, she has suffered from the depression of her imperial betrothal, and has been living in seclusion. She was engaged to be married to Duke Frederick of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who while in command of a torpedo boat perished in the Baltic with his entire crew.

CHINESE DAILY ON STREETS

ORIENTAL NEWSBOYS Sell Many and are Vigorous Lot to Handle.

In Oakland's Chinese quarter, which has been greatly augmented within the past year, are a group of newsboys—Americanized Orientals, with almost every last having American dress and the American boy's aggressiveness. They make lots of money, these boys, by selling the Chinese daily, the "Chung Shai Yat Pao," edited and managed by Ng Poon Chiew, one of the most noted Chinese residents in America today. Since the great disaster that drove most of the old San Francisco Chinese inhabitants to Oakland, the daily paper has been firmly located at 824 Franklin street. And as a natural result there has sprung into existence a bunch of newsboys, quick, alert, noisy and even tough.

ARE ORGANIZED.

"They are very energetic and organized," said Ng Poon Chiew, editor-manager of the "Chung Shai Yat Pao." "They fight for their rights, and I have a hard time keeping them in good humor. Sometimes I wonder they are not going to wreck my shop in their activity. Still they are hard workers and sell a great many papers. Most of the boys are attending school and all can speak English."

EAGERLY READ.

Because of its prominence in Chinese circles, Ng Poon Chiew's editorials are read eagerly. He is an earnest advocate of "down with the bars, let in the best of the Chinese immigrants." The "Chung Shai Yat Pao" often prints a column of editorial in American type, which is eagerly read by the Americans.

STOCK RISE IS NOW IN SIGHT

NEW YORK FINANCIERS ARE READY TO GIVE MARKET ANOTHER TRIAL.

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)

NEW YORK, November 23.—As a result of certain extensions of loans made yesterday, but not yet officially admitted, the stock market began today what promises to be a very substantial advance. Whether this is the real beginning of the big boom in the stock market not even those foremost in the present movement can say. It looks good enough, however, to cause some conservative bankers, who have been keeping their clients out, to advise the purchase of stocks.

There is no doubt that considerable liquidation will be attempted on the advance, for hundreds of wealthy men are still in desperate circumstances. The bankers who are advising the purchase of stocks, therefore, advise also the taking of real profits. It remains to be seen how much, also, of the stock bought for investment recently will come back as a result of this advance.

WILL ADVANCE.

It is at present in a purely experimental stage, but it can be said on what is usually good authority in Wall street that the most important interests are sincere in their intention to give the market a fair trial.

Reasons for the attempt to force an advance are the accumulated benefits of the many thousands that have recently been done to aid the financial situation. Nearly $100,000,000 of gold has been imported or engaged for import. Several dangerous pools have been eliminated. Several banks and trust companies have been wiped off the financial earth. And last of all the Government issues are an assured success.

MORE DEFICIT.

The bank statement today showed a further increase in the deficit, bringing it up to $55,103,500. It must be remembered, however, that the bank statement is no reflection of the true condition of the financial institutions of New York City. It ought to be abolished, as it is especially misleading in times of trouble. The banks have in reality nearly the complete required by law. A material increase in circulation was a favorable exhibit in the bank statement.

An advance in copper stocks is on the program for the immediate future. The insiders have been compelled to take almost the entire capital stock of some properties, and they can mark the price to anything they please. Conditions in the metals markets have not changed materially, but there is considerable buying for consumption.

ORDERS SMALL ASSESSMENT

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR LEVIES TAX TO HELP LOS ANGELES UNIONS.

NORFOLK, Va., November 23.—The American Federation of Labor today called for a 1 cent assessment, to aid the trades unions of Los Angeles, Calif., and all other unions who may need similar assistance. The federation called on all international unions to send organizers to Los Angeles when needed.

The federation adopted resolutions declaring that the supreme court's decision of the United States Supreme Court to uphold the federal laws unconstitutional and that the supreme court of States to declare state laws unconstitutional, no law to be declared unconstitutional except by a unanimous vote of said courts. The elections by the people of all judges, state and federal for four year terms with the right of re-election was also demanded.
